Hundreds of New Suit Arrivals for Misses and Women: $16.50 to $27.50

The most important assemblage of moderately priced suits that we have ever gathered together for misses and women is ready for inspection this week. This showing will be a revelation in the matter of style attractiveness to the woman who does not feel inclined to pay more than $27.50 for her winter suit.

New styles in cheviot and serge with trimming of broad bands of velvet and velvet covered buttons, or with a broad grille of self material. One of the styles has a wide rever with a high standing velvet collar. The colors are tete de negre, navy blue, green and black. $16.50.

Two attractive styles are of gabardine with trimming of silk braid or velvet covered buttons. The coats are half lined with Skinner's satin and the collars of velvet and cloth copy those shown in high priced garments. $18.50.

Another style at $18.50 is made with a cross-over belt of same material and is stitched on the collar and sleeves with contrasting shades of broad-cloth. Another style in the redingote follows strictly tailored lines with only a touch of trimming of bone buttons.

The jazziest styles to be found anywhere for misses and small women are shown at $20.00. The coats are short or long and the materials are rich qualities of gabardine, poplin or serge. The coat of one style has a unique trimming of self material at the waist line and the skirt is embellished with rows of self covered buttons.

Crushed plush forms an important part in trimming the garments and on shorter models, the use of cords and tassels is made with good effect. The shades are Russian green, plum, wine, navy blue, tete de negre and black.

The styles at $27.50, $30.00, $35.00, $37.50 and $39.50 are made up of copies of French models that have recently been brought to this country through sketches. At this range there is a broad use of fur, crushed plush and rich chiffon velvet.

NEW SANATORIUM OPEN TO PATIENTS

Third State Institution of the Kind Is Put to Its Practical Uses To-day

STRUCTURES ARE MOST MODERN

General Architectural Treatment of the Buildings Is in the Mission Style—Hollow Tile and Concrete Construction

(Special to the Star-Independent.)
 Hamburg, Pa., Oct. 26.—To-day the doors of the State's third great tuberculosis sanatorium were opened to the patients. The magnificent institution which has been in the course of construction for the last year crowns the hilltop a mile outside of Hamburg borough and commands a magnificent view of the Schuylkill valley for miles in every direction.

The institution was inspected on Saturday by Governor Tener and Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, under whose direction it was planned and constructed.

The enormous demand and need for sanatorium treatment by the ten thousand patients now being treated in the State tuberculosis dispensaries has made the construction of this new institution necessary. There are a thousand sufferers on the waiting list in addition to the eleven hundred and eighty patients being cared for at the Mont Alto sanatorium and the four hundred in the institution at Crescen. Five hundred and fifty can be accommodated in the new sanatorium which has been provided with every possible facility for the comfort and scientific treatment of the sufferers from the dreaded disease.

The general architectural treatment of the buildings is in the mission style. They are constructed of hollow tile and concrete. The administration buildings occupy the center of the group and form a Greek cross which is flanked on either side by great ward buildings which are connected with the administration buildings by covered and glass enclosed passageways. At either end of the wards are glass protected solaria.

An ingenious arrangement of the wards permits the care of either advanced or incipient cases as the demand may dictate. The roofs of the wards, some 22,000 square feet in area, have been paved to permit patients to enjoy rest recreation in the open air without leaving the buildings. The buildings are so arranged as to provide the maximum amount of sun light and air.

Beautiful views in every direction are obtainable from the institution, owing to its commanding location. The grounds surrounding the sanatorium comprise some three hundred and eleven acres, the greater part of which is under cultivation and will supply much of the poultry, eggs and vegetables required.

A pure mountain stream, which flows through the State's property, provides an adequate water supply, and a complete sewerage filtration plant has been installed.

Drops Out of Line for Republican Meeting—100 Voters Attend

(Special to the Star-Independent.)
 Middletown, Pa., Oct. 26.—More than a hundred voters attended the Republican mass meeting which was held in the West Emaus street market house here on Saturday night. The speakers included Senator E. E. Beidleman, Congressman A. S. Kreider, who is seeking re-election, and Earl E. Renn, an attorney and son of the late Rev. U. S. G. Renn, who at one time was pastor of the Middletown United Brethren church.

The Liberty band did not attempt to play during the march from its headquarters because of the absence of lights, due, it is said, to advice that "lights will not be necessary." Consequently the bandmen were unable to read their music and dropped out of the proceedings.
