MANY PAPERS IN CENSUS REPORT

Number Increased 3 Per Cent. From 1904 to 1910 and Admissions to 8.5 Per Cent.

TWICE AS MANY MEN AS WOMEN

Almshouse Is Largely Temporary Shelter Since Permanent Inmates Form a Minority of Total Pauper Population

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—According to a report which is soon to be issued by William J. Harris, director of the Bureau of the Census Department of Commerce, 84,198 paupers were enumerated in almshouses in the United States on January 1, 1910, and 88,313 were admitted during the year. The number of almshouse paupers in the United States increased three per cent. between 1904 and 1910, and the number of annual admissions to almshouses increased 8.5 per cent. while the total population of the country increased 12.4 per cent during the same period.

The ratio of almshouse paupers to population has steadily declined at every census since 1880, the earliest date for which comparable figures are available. The census report, being confined to a study of any other institutions or recipients of outdoor relief. Accordingly, the number of paupers reported is not a measure of the extent of poverty in a community, because it depends on the adequacy of the supply of almshouses or the prevailing policy in regard to outdoor relief, on climatic conditions, and on the existence or number of special institutions for children and for physical and mental defectives.

Age of Paupers

About one-third of the paupers enumerated on January 1, 1910, were under 55 years of age; about one-third, between 55 and 69 years, and about one-third, 70 years of age and over. The ratio of almshouse paupers to population increases decidedly with advancing age, about 1 person in 60 above 80 years of age being an inmate of an almshouse. The proportion of almshouse paupers in the younger age groups, in fact, in all age groups under 50 years, declined from census to census, indicating that young persons become inmates of almshouses in fewer cases now than formerly. In 1880 more than half of the paupers were under 50 years of age; in 1910 only about one-fourth.

Of the total number of paupers enumerated in almshouses on January 1, 1910, there were 57,049 males and 27,148 females, and of those admitted during the year 67,195 were males and 21,118 females. The ratio of paupers per 100,000 population of the same sex was 120.5 for males and 60.8 for females, among the inmates on a given date.

The ratio of males per 100 females among almshouse paupers increased steadily from 1880 when it was 118.1 to 1910 when it was 219. Thus the males outnumber the females 2 to 1 in almshouses and the tendency is toward an increasing preponderance of males. This probably is due largely to the development of special institutions for the care of indigent women.

Single persons are relatively more numerous among adult almshouse paupers than in the general adult population.

Immigrant Paupers

The foreign born in 1910 formed 16.3 per cent. of the total white population of the United States, but they formed 22.6 per cent. of the paupers enumerated in almshouses on January 1, 1910, and 41 per cent. of those admitted during the year 1910. The ratio of almshouse paupers per 100,000 population of the same nativity was about four times as great among the foreign born as among the native whites. This is due in part to the fact that there are few children among the foreign born; also to the greater proportion of males among them. When allowance is made, however, for these factors, the ratio still remains higher for the immigrants, this fact doubtless being a reflection of the generally lower economic level occupied by them as compared with the natives.

Among the immigrants, the Irish show a much higher ratio of almshouse pauperism (1,084.5 per 100,000 native of Ireland) than those of any other nationality, the Swiss being next with a ratio of 410.9. The natives of the countries from which most of the recent immigrants come have by far the lowest ratios of almshouse pauperism, the ratio being 74.4 for Russia, and 31.8 for Italy.

The higher ratios of almshouse pauperism for the natives of countries from which the tide of immigration was at its height some decades ago are due in large part to the fact they comprise at the present time a large proportion of old persons.

Pauperism Among Negroes

The ratio of pauperism among the negroes is about the same as that among the native whites, when the country as a whole is considered.

Of the men in almshouses whose occupation prior to admission was reported, the largest number had been unskilled laborers; considerable numbers, however, belonged to skilled trades, such as carpenters and joiners and painters, glaziers and varnishers. Most of the women in almshouses had been domestic servants. At the time of enumeration, however, a large proportion, about two-fifths of the almshouse paupers, were reported as entirely incapacitated, and nearly two-thirds of the paupers enumerated on January 1, 1910, and more than one-third of those admitted during the year, were physically or mentally defective.

The number of mentally defective—that is, of the insane and of feeble-minded in almshouses, is shown to be declining, the reason being that special institutions are being provided for these classes.

Almshouse a Temporary Shelter

Four-fourths of the 59,120 persons discharged from almshouses during 1910 were discharged to be self-supporting, and about one-fourth were turned over to relatives or friends. The proportion discharged in the latter way

THINK MAN WAS MURDERED

Police Abandon Suicide Theory in Pottsville Mystery

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 26.—There seems to be little doubt that Stanley Melavage, of Minersville, who was found dead Saturday on the highway near that town, with his arms folded, was murdered. The police have given up the suicide theory, as it is unlikely the man would have folded his own arms after shooting himself.

It has been found also that there are no powder marks on the body, as there would have been if the man had held the weapon close in shooting himself. Neither the clothes nor the body was burned by the shots. The police also have found witnesses who heard five shots fired at the location where the body was found.

The murder is so far a complete mystery to the State police, who are investigating.

$75,000 FIRE AT MERCER

Six Business Blocks and Two Residences Burn

Sharon, Pa., Oct. 26.—Mercer, the county seat of Mercer county, was visited by a $75,000 fire early yesterday morning. The fire was discovered in Frank Tyler's bowling alley, and it sprang, started from a lighted cigarette.

Six business blocks and two residences were destroyed. Mrs. Lucy Berry, George Michaels and W. T. Baker were carried out of blazing buildings from the second-story windows by firemen.

Sharon and Greenville fire departments responded to the call for assistance, as the town was threatened with destruction for a time.

The man who goes out hunting trouble knows what it is when he finds it.

was much higher among women than among men. Of those discharged during the year nine-tenths had been inmates less than one year, and of those present at the beginning of the year about one-third had been there less than one year. The almshouse is thus largely a temporary shelter rather than a permanent abode of the poor, the permanent inmates who are there to stay as long as they live forming a minority of the total almshouse population.

A total of 17,486 died in almshouses in the United States during 1910, the death rate being 207.7 per 1,000 paupers enumerated on January 1, 1910. The death rate for the registration area of the United States for 1910 was 15 per 1,000. The greatest single cause of death among paupers was tuberculosis of the lungs, which accounted for nearly one-fifth of the deaths during the year.

Railway Engine House Destroyed

Oxford, Oct. 26.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the engine house of the Lancaster, Oxford and Southern Railway Company, entailing a loss of about $5,000. The structure was 40x80 feet. The engine which was standing in the house at the time was damaged considerably. The tools all fell prey to the flames. There is only partial insurance.

Steeple Jack Paints Big Stack

Marietta, Oct. 26.—Louis Gilbert, the steeple jack, finished painting the large stack at the Billmeyer quarries Saturday afternoon. It is 113 feet high and ten feet wide at the base and five feet at the top. Hundreds of people stood and watched him complete the job.

demic of diphtheria which will cost lives and heartbreak.

No matter how efficient the administration of the public health laws by the authorities, unless the public is educated to appreciate the necessity and will co-operate with them by living up to the spirit of the law, it will be impossible to triumph over disease.

All thinking men, unblinded by patriotism, must deplore the conflict in which so large a portion of the civilized world is now engaged. The same spirit which prevents the individual from answering in the affirmative the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" when his selfish desire is to be weighed against the welfare of his fellows, has apparently taken possession of Christian nations.

If we do our duty to others, it will redound to the protection and well-being of ourselves.

BLACK HAND WORKER SHOT

Pawlo Gilberto Believed Slain by Intended Victims

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 26.—With letters in his pockets said absolutely to convict him of Black Hand work, the body of Pawlo Gilberto was found on an old path near the city limits yesterday morning. He had five bullet holes in his head and body.

The empty revolver had been thrust into his pocket, which was torn. The police believe that some of his intended victims had caught him "with the goods" and summarily shot him to death. There is no clue to the slayers.
