

ORPHAN BOY, 13, FOUND STARVING

Rescued From Mountain Where He Had Lived for a Week Without a Roof

APPLES WERE HIS CHIEF FOOD

Wisconsin Grocer Shelters for Youngster Until He Is Sent Here and Court Makes Provision for His Care in Future

Cold, poorly clad and on the verge of starvation—having lived alone in the mountains for a week, getting nothing to eat but an apple or two and an occasional chestnut—Edward L. Cole, an orphan, 13 years old, of Wisconsin, was picked up near that town by Samuel Miller, a Wisconsin grocer, and taken to the Miller home. All that happened several weeks ago, but it was not learned here until late yesterday when the friendless orphan appeared before Judge McCarrell at an extraordinary session of juvenile court and begged to be given a permanent home. The boy was accompanied to court by Mrs. Anna Simonetti, probation officer, and was formally declared to be a "dependent and neglected child."

Until Judge McCarrell made an order directing the boy be sent to the House of Refuge, where he will be cared for and given the opportunity to learn a trade, the youngster's future was as dark as night. The story he told the court was a pitiful one, and it brought tears to the eyes of the court attendants; but he was an entirely different looking boy yesterday than on the day the Wisconsin grocer gave him shelter and food.

As to One to Care for Him The lad's mother died when he was a child of but three years, and the whereabouts of his father have been unknown to Wisconsin people for more than twelve years. Edward was taken into the home of his aged grandmother, Mrs. Anna Cole, of Wisconsin. She is now no longer able to look after the boy and he was of necessity thrown on his own resources several weeks ago.

He had no friends and no home to go, and so he wandered into the Wisconsin mountains. There he remained, living on the apples and the few chestnuts he was able to gather and sleeping in an old board wagon which long since had been abandoned by its owner. The nights were cold, the lad's clothing was torn and thin and he suffered greatly because of the exposure.

The lad's story appealed to Mr. Miller and he was taken to the grocer's home. There he received a new suit of clothes and, in fact, an entirely new clothing outfit, plenty to eat and some money. Then Mr. Miller, realizing that it would be impossible to keep the boy at his home permanently, informed the county authorities of the case.

Boy Is Brought Here Before Cole was brought to Harrisburg Mr. Miller gave him a half a dollar. The boy told Mrs. Simonetti the name of an aunt living on Allison Hill and another in Egola. Both were communicated with but neither would agree to be the youngster's guardian. One of the uncles is said to have remarked: "He can't get in here."

As juveniles can no longer be sent to the House of Detention, that branch of the almshouse being abolished, the probation officer had nothing to do but take the boy to her home. Later one of Mrs. Simonetti's neighbors consented to give him a home until yesterday. At first when Judge McCarrell issued the order committing young Cole to the Gen. Mills school, the lad wept, but afterward dried his tears and laughingly said: "Well, I guess I will have a good place to sleep and it will be warm there."

RAILWAY IS INSTRUCTED AFTER KILLING OF WOMAN

Carlisle and Mount Holly Company Must Conduct Trolley Service in Accordance With Order Issued by Public Service Commission

As the result of an investigation made by the investigator of accidents for the Public Service Commission, the Carlisle & Mt. Holly Railway Company has been instructed to eliminate all unnecessary delays at the termini (Carlisle and Mt. Holly), as well as en route, so that in making the round trip between these points more time will be allowed for operation and the speed of the cars will be reduced. It was found that the roadbed of this line is not in substantial condition and, therefore, is not maintained in a manner to permit high speed traffic. The motorman has been instructed to approach all curves and grades with the cars under control, and the whistle is to be sounded at all points where any element of danger may exist.

The Automobile Division of the State Highway Department has received more than a thousand applications for licenses for 1915 and they are pouring in in increasing numbers daily. In securing a registration and license tags, application must be made on the 1915 blanks, which are being sent out as fast as requests are received. It is hoped that by December 1, when shipment of the 1915 licenses to early applicants will be made, a large proportion of the owners in Pennsylvania will have their applications accepted. The Automobile Division expected that a large number would avail themselves of the opportunity to secure new licenses early than has done so. T. C. Boyd, registrar of the Automobile Division, said that he hoped there would be a marked increase in the number of the applications as a result of the notice issued to-day.

MISS BUEHLER DESCRIBES BEING MAROONED ABROAD

Continued From First Page. uation was intensely interesting. We had very little trouble of any kind and I think the Americans who got into perplexing positions were really ignorant of the laws and customs under the prevailing conditions or were unable to speak the different languages to make themselves understood. "Three weeks before we sailed we left The Hague, expecting to sail almost immediately, but unfortunately we had to wait for the boat to dock, the company in the meanwhile having to feed a large number of passengers who had no money to pay the expenses of the enforced delay. While the experience was a wonderful one, our party was certainly very glad to sail for and reach home."

3 ARRESTS IN ARSON CASE

Waynesboro Youth Alleged to Have Confessed to Plot to Burn House to Obtain Insurance Money

(Special to the Star-Independent.) Waynesboro, Pa., Oct. 28.—Following an inquiry conducted by the local authorities assisted by State Fire Marshal Baldwin, three arrests were made here yesterday in connection with an alleged attempt last Thursday morning to burn the Val. Smith house, on Philadelphia avenue, occupied by the family of John Graf. Wilbur Blair is said by the police to have made a confession in which he told of attempting to carry out a plot to burn the home to get $600 insurance. The young man, it is alleged, confessed to removing a trunk containing valuable household articles from the house and is said to have implicated John Graf, Jr. The police say Blair declared that young Graf saturated the carpets with kerosene and placed six lighted candles in the house, one on each of the oil-soaked spots. All this time, Blair said, he was standing outside of the house keeping watch. The blaze was discovered and extinguished before much damage had been done. The trunk of valuables, Blair said, was shipped to Hanover. The police took charge of the trunk in that town before the person to whom it was consigned called to take possession. The boys said Benjamin Calmer, a neighbor of the Grafs, was the shipper. The police say Calmer was not a party to the crime and that, although he was at first suspected of complicity and arrested, he will be released. Blair is under arrest on charges of burglary and larceny, growing out of the alleged theft of the trunk, and he also was made the defendant in an arson charge. Young Graf is held on a charge of being the house.

9 BOYS ARE NOW ACCUSED OF ROBBERIES

Continued From First Page. Garner, 1209 North Third street, was robbed. The detection of Paul W. Schnabauer, wearing a coat identified as one taken from the Garner store, and the finding of trinkets in his room, that had been taken from the home of Spencer C. Gilbert, 107 North Front street, led ultimately to the apprehension of all of the nine boys alleged to have had part in one or more of the thirteen robberies. The police estimated to-day that more than $500 worth of goods was taken by the boys. A large part of the loot has been recovered but some of the valuables taken from the homes of wealthy Harrisburgers are still missing and the police are exerting every effort toward finding these goods. "The police say they have uncovered a sort of "gang" headquarters in an uptown building. A boy who is alleged to have acted as a "fence," disposing of some of the valuable trinkets, and he is one of those who have been placed under arrest. Some of the articles had been disposed of at much less than their actual value. Almost daily city detectives have found one or more trinkets and until this morning had connected daily new boys with various robberies. The arrest of the three this morning cleans up the entire "gang," with one or two possible exceptions, the police say, and Chief Hutchison is about ready to send the prisoners to police court for a hearing. It likely will be scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Having no place now in which to detain juvenile offenders, the police have been compelled to permit most of those connected with the case to depart in the custody of their parents until a hearing can be held. The police are withholding the names of the accused youngsters for the present. A schedule of no making, showing what was taken and making definite charges of certain robberies against certain boys, will be made out by the police in the information which will be sworn to before Mayor Royal. The complete list of places robbed is as follows: The Seneca street board house, property of city; homes of Alfred A. The board seats to-day began taking their places in the Stough tabernacle. It is expected that the work will be completed this evening. Rapid progress has been made on the choir and orchestra platforms, which are also nearing completion. There are now more volunteer workers at the tabernacle at night than in the daytime. Men and women who cannot leave their regular duties during the day offer their services in the evenings and aid in the hammering by the means of powerful electric lights. Most of the hammering will end to-morrow, and on Friday the more delicate work of decorating the interior will begin. The young men and young women of the work committees will co-operate in putting up the flags and painting the interior of the building. The bed room furnishings have been supplied by Stevens Memorial Methodist, First Baptist, First United Brethren and Curtin Heights Methodist churches, and chairs, dishes, rug and other articles have been provided by individuals.
