the winter. They should be used in separate pots rather than in window boxes. Holland bulbs, such as the narcissus, tulip and hyacinth, are practically the only plants that will flower satisfactorily in the house with ordinary care. About the only plant giving similar satisfaction is the begonia, according to the Department of Agriculture's specialist who has experimented with many varieties.

The essentials for growing bulbs indoors are that they shall become thoroughly rooted before the tops are permitted to grow. This is done by planting the bulbs in soil either in pots or what florists know as "pans," which are shallow porcelain pots, or in boxes. These bulbs are then put in a cool place in the dark, for a period of two to six or eight weeks, or even longer if desired. They should be left there until the roots are well started. In the case of bulbs planted in pots, the pots may be inverted and gently tapped, when the bulb and soil will come out in a mass. When the bulbs have been sufficiently long in the pots, the earth in the bottom of the pot will be completely covered with rootlets. The bulbs should then be brought into a slightly warmer place with some light for three or four days and then gradually brought into greater warmth and full light. During all the period of growth the ground should be kept moist without being waterlogged.

TULIP BULBS SHOULD BE PLANTED LATE IN THE FALL

Ought to Be Set Out After Heavy Frosts or Light Freezes Have Checked Vegetation—Light Loamy Soil Best for the Plant

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—Tulip bulbs that are expected to brighten the lawn in the early spring must be planted in the late fall after heavy frosts or light freezes have checked vegetation. On the fortieth parallel they should be planted about the first week in November, and farther south a little later. These plants are adapted to out-of-door culture in all parts of the United States where the weather is cold enough to freeze the soil for a few weeks in the winter and they should be planted about a month before the ground is liable to freeze up. Other "Holland bulbs" such as the hyacinth and narcissus should be planted at the same time as the tulip.

The United States Department of Agriculture's specialist considers that tulips are most appropriately planted among shrubbery where they may be naturalized or where they may remain permanently. In general they are used to advantage in formal beds or in borders on the lawn.

Best Soil for the Tulip

The best soil for the tulip is a light loamy soil. The soil should be well drained and sand is better than clay. In clay soils it is desirable to set the bulbs on a layer of sand, to insure drainage, while in very heavy soils the sand should completely surround them. They do best in a rich soil but manure should not come in contact with the bulbs. It is best applied to a previous crop. When fertilization is necessary at the time of planting, well-rotted manure compost should be used. The soil should be put in excellent condition.

Tulips should be set four inches deep while hyacinths and narcissi should be set six inches, in all cases measuring to the bottom of the bulbs. Care should be taken to have the bulbs of any variety of a uniform size and to set them at a uniform depth as on this depends uniformity in time of blooming.

As soon as the surface of the ground freezes to a depth of two or three inches, the bed should be covered with coarse manure to prevent alternate freezing and thawing and also to prevent freezing below the bottom of the bulbs and so prevent the formation of roots during the winter. As soon as freezing weather is over in the spring the mulch should be removed, at least the coarser part of it.

After blooming, the naturalized plantings need no further attention except when replanting becomes necessary, which in the case of tulips would be in about three years, and of the other bulbs about five. Bedded bulbs should be left as long as possible before digging so as to ripen them. They are ready when the foliage begins to die. If necessary to dig before ripe they will deteriorate more rapidly than if well ripened. After digging, dry in the sun until the tops are well cured, take off all the leaves, store on shallow trays, where mice and rats will not trouble, till the following autumn.

Bulbs May Be Raised Indoors

Not only are tulips and other bulbous plants attractive around the lawn in early spring but they are also most satisfactory for indoor culture during pebbles. The water should be kept so that it touches the bottom of the bulb.

Special Correspondent
Newville, Nov. 4.—"The Man Who Dares" is the subject of the lecture to be delivered by Professor Leon Cushing Prince, of Carlisle, in the Big Spring Presbyterian church to-morrow evening. The proceeds of the lecture will be used to purchase books for the library of the local High school. Mr. Prince is a noted lecturer and his platform work embraces a wide range of themes.

The Cumberland Valley Civic League of Federal Clubs will meet here on Friday, November 6. The sessions will be held at the Big Spring hotel, beginning at 10:45 a. m. and continuing in the afternoon.
