THAT JAR OF MUSTEROLE ON THE BATH-ROOM SHELF

Has Relieved Pain For Every One In the Family.

When little Susie had the croup; when Johnny got his feet wet and caught cold; when Father sprained his knee; when Granny's rheumatism bothered her—

That jar of MUSTEROLE was right there to give relief and comfort.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It will not blister like a mustard plaster.

Quick relief for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds on the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). Nothing like MUSTEROLE for croupy children.

At your druggist's in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Refuse imitations—get what you ask for. The Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

PITCHING THE SPITBALL

Collins Says There Is Only One Real Master, Ed Walsh

In the American Magazine Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics writes about "Pitchers I Have Faced."

Following is a part of what he has to say about Eddie Walsh, whom he regards as the best spitball pitcher:

"Walsh is the only real master of the spitball I know of. He was the first absolutely to perfect and control it. Most spitball pitchers are wild, and they have trouble especially to make their spitter a strike and usually have to resort to the fast one, but not Walsh. Many times I have seen him give a batter three balls and no strikes, and then three spitballs would go swishing across the plate knee high, and the batter would sit down. Walsh invariably aims his spitter at one spot on a batter—namely, between the waist and the knees. I have never seen a good spitter that broke above the waist."

"Walsh was not a pitcher I dreaded to hit against, because it was never a battle of wits. You always knew what to look for—the spitter. It was sure to be in the same place—waist to shoe tops—and it was not like the spitballs of some pitchers, at your head one minute and at your feet the next. In spite of this it was mighty hard to hit safely. Although there was almost a fore break on Walsh's spitball, Sullivan, who always caught him, said he could do it sitting in a rocking chair, his control was so perfect."

The Fattest Race

How is it that the Danes as a race are fat? Professor Lyde states that "from one end of Denmark to the other you will not find a really thin man." And he gives rather a quaint reason for it: "The growth of dairy farming in Denmark tends to make men lazy. The private houses adjoin the byres, which are kept at a uniformly warm temperature, and the people are employed in warm buildings, living chiefly on milk and cereals. The men get so lazy that they will not take the trouble to cut up their food."

And then comes this delightful conclusion: "This state of things has produced a nation of housewives who excel all others in varieties of sandwiches, which can be munched all day long." And thus is produced the fattest race in Europe, and we get a hint for a real rest cure.—Manchester Guardian.

Where O'Connell Fought

Arrangements have recently been completed by which the Earl of Clonmell has disposed of his Irish estates, the transference of property including the residence of Bishops Court, traditionally the birthplace of fox hunting in Ireland, together with the extensive stail farm there, and the historic Hill of Aughterard, with its ancient and picturesque round tower. It was on this hill that the famous duel between Daniel O'Connell and D'Esterre was fought, in which O'Connell shot D'Esterre.

Smokeless Powder Visible

An important discovery has been made by the bureau of ordnance of the navy department as a result of a series of experiments and investigations which have been conducted by order of Rear Admiral Strauss. A certain color of glass has been found to serve the purpose of rendering visible the smoke from the "smokeless" powder discharge of a rifle.—Army and Navy Register.

His Part in the Drama

Two women who claimed the same man as a husband were airing their troubles in court.

"Who's the skinny fellow over there?" asked a visitor who was chuckling the court attendant.

"Doesn't the glory of the sunset fill your mind with thoughts that it would be difficult to utter?"

"I don't know; it does make me think of the red flannel underwear father used to wear."—Houston Post.

BIFOCAL LENSES

They Had Their Origin in Ben Franklin's Double Glasses

Everybody who wears bifocal glasses probably wonders where the idea originally came from. Bifocal glasses are the kind that possess two separate lenses cemented together so that by looking in the upper part one can see at a great distance and by looking through the lower half one can read.

Most authorities are inclined to give Benjamin Franklin credit for the invention. He was, so the story goes, an inveterate reader and could not use his reading glasses when looking any distance away.

Finally the notion came to him that he could combine his glasses, and he thereupon had the lenses cut in half and one-half of each lens placed in the rim of each spectacle rim. The result was that a single pair of glasses was sufficient, though present day oculists state that the sharply-drawn line must have affected his eyes.

From this idea the oculists gradually developed a glass in which the lower part was arranged for reading and the upper part for long-distance vision, while the annoying "marking line" was eliminated.—Washington Star.

London Full of Confidence Men

London has never before harbored so many skilled exponents of the confidence trick in all its guises than at the present time. Indeed, the invasion of foreign confidence tricksters alone has become so serious that the Scotland Yard detectives stationed in the west end are organizing a new and drastic campaign against the fraternity. An Englishman and an Irishman working together in partnership under various aliases still hold the record as the most consistently successful tricksters in London, and despite all the efforts of the police they have been making incomes believed to run into several thousands of pounds.—London Express.

'Twould take the average man about three days to do all the things he expects to accomplish to-morrow.

ECZEMA IN PIMPLES ON FACE

Caused Disfigurement. Itched and Burned. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Three Weeks Entirely Free From Eczema.

79 N. 2nd St., Stroudsburg, Pa.—"My trouble began with a very small eruption on my face which looked like small pimples. It later took the form of eczema and caused disfigurement. The pimples itched and burned so badly that I scratched them and they became very bad sores."

"I used everything imaginable but nothing did any good until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I found relief at once. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in less than three weeks was entirely free from the eczema." (Signed) Miss Bessie Brodt, May 2, 1914.

BABY HAD SKIN TROUBLE

Gedgers Mills, Pa.—"My baby was about two months old when rough spots broke out on his face and hands. They first started with little pimples which would give large spots rough and inflamed. It itched at times and would get very sore. He was very cross and restless. It had lasted for about six months when I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. His face was very much disfigured and they promptly relieved him. Now his skin is perfectly clear." (Signed) Mrs. William Arnold, Jan
