pray for 'more faith,' and rarely realize what is involved in such a petition. 'Faith is not a whimsical, irrational, or presumptuous thing, Elijah, but the excitement of the moment, did not exclaim, 'there is a sound of abundance of rain,' simply because he thought it was a necessary thing for the people to have.

Just how this power operates we shall never fully understand, nor are we asked to understand. We may, however, get some suggestions from material analogies. Did you ever examine the workings of the automatic telephone? Upon each telephone receiver there is a dial, which, when turned to different figures, calls the desired party easily and expeditiously. But at the central office, the machine is much more complicated, for as soon as the dial is thrown to one figure, instantly a whole set of instruments is put in motion, and for each number to which the dial is turned a different set of machines at the central responds. These may be in different parts of the room, but the result is the hooking up of all the different machines through which the line of connection is established between yourself and your friend. With this you have nothing to do, but simply to throw the right figure on the dial. Without this your communication would be impossible. So there is some mysterious connection between ourselves, our unsaved friends, and God. It would seem as if the prayer of faith establishes such connection between heaven and ourselves, and heaven and lost souls, that all the power of God is set in motion whenever and wherever it is coupled up by prayer; that all things young and old, the accomplishment of prayer's answers, and faith becomes the active, mysterious, spiritual energy that produces as electricity, the light, heat, and power of salvation.

How great the spiritual drought now in the church! Streams of service are running dry, dried and cracked the course of many a crystalline stream living followed by a pestilence of prayer's answers, and faith becomes the active, mysterious, spiritual energy that produces as electricity, the light, heat, and power of salvation.

Meetings Held Yesterday
Yesterday afternoon while men were packing the tabernacle, women were crowding into the auditorium of Ridge Avenue Methodist church to overflow, and children of both sexes were pouring into the Fourth Street Church of God, all as a part of the day's activities in connection with the Stough evangelistic campaign in this city, a six weeks' campaign, which yesterday entered its second week.

Before Evangelist Stough opened his address to men only at the tabernacle the women in the chorus were sent from the building and started in a body for the Ridge Avenue church. The auditorium there was completely filled, however, and, after congregating a short time outside the building, the women dispersed. Hundreds of other women were turned away from the church.

The revivalist addressed the men at the tabernacle with little delay. He spoke without restraint, telling them that he was talking 'a man to man.' He asked his audience to forget that he was a clergyman and to disregard his cloth and his degrees. He wore layman's garb and tried in no way to resemble a minister.

The theme of his talk was the Golden Text of the International Sunday school lesson for the day, 'Whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' He told his 'sowing of winds' would result in the 'reaping of whirlwinds.' Among the evils prevalent with men which the preacher assailed were the using of profane language, the drinking of intoxicating liquor, the frequenting of places of vice, the playing of games of chance and the telling of innocent stories. He particularly emphasized what he believed to be the harm in selling intoxicants in lodge rooms.

"When womanhood falls as low as manhood in this nation," he said in conclusion, "the country will be doomed." He announced as the subject of his talk to men only next Sunday afternoon "Red Lights and Search Lights."

Miss Palmer's Address
The address of Miss Sara Palmer of the Stough party to women only, at the Ridge Avenue church was in part as follows:

"The woman who received the prophet Elisha, into her home showed hospitality to a stranger. To-day there is not enough Christian hospitality. If we showed more hospitality strangers who come to town would not go to saloons and dances for companions. It is because the homes and hearts of Christians are barred that strangers do not come into the church.

"She had a keen perception. She watched Elisha in his daily life, and said to her husband I perceive this is a holy man of God. Ask God to give you discernment, an ability to form opinions for yourself, to stand alone if need be, for what you believe the Holy Spirit has revealed to you.

"Of her generalship. She planned for the world, but used all her life ability, and character for God.

recognized her greatness. He reads the motive. When Elisha offered to speak to the king for a place of honor in the kingdom for her, she replied: 'I dwell among mine own people.'

"She did not want a place of honor. She wanted to work for God where she was. Some people think they can do no more work for God unless they are Eva Booths, great missionaries, or evangelists. Do the work God has given you where you are."

Many Children Gather
Miss Daisy Eggleston of the Stough party spoke to a large gathering of children at the Fourth Street Church of God, telling them of their part in the campaign, and of duties of children in general. Hundreds of the boys and girls wore campaign buttons, and all seemed to show enthusiasm for the movement in which they are soon to take important parts.

At the evening meeting at the tabernacle, well attended despite the rain, Evangelist Stough said: "The history and development of sin can be summed up this way: I saw—I loved—I took—I hid. When the eye saw the heart desired, and when the heart desired the hand took and what the hand took the feet disposed of. So sin works. As the old saying goes: 'Sow a thought, you reap an act; sow an act, you reap a habit; sow a habit, and you reap a character; sow a character, you reap a destiny.'

"And don't anyone forget, to sin means to cause others to suffer. Every one of you is either an influence toward lifting humanity up and heavenward or a power toward pushing it down hellward. Either you are a blessing or a curse to Harrisburg. You people here, in the very hub of a great State, are radiating your influence to bless or curse the whole State."

Thousand Dollars in Day
Approximately a thousand dollars was received in collections at the Stough meetings yesterday. The amount is not as large as expected by the Stough party, considering the great numbers in the audiences throughout the day. The evangelist had asked for a thousand dollars at the afternoon men's meeting alone. Following his appeal, fifteen or twenty one-dollar bills were brought forward by the usher. The total collection was $579.95, the largest received so far in the campaign.

All members of the Stough party, accompanied by heads of local committees, left Harrisburg this morning in ten automobiles for Gettysburg, where they will spend the day on the battlefield. There are no services at the tabernacle this afternoon or this evening. Monday of each week is rest day for the party.

PATTI STOOD PAT.
She Wanted Her Money Before She Sang, and She Got It.
One of Adeline Patti's peculiarities was that she never sang a note until she had her salary either paid or so fully assured that there was no doubt as to her getting it. When she sang at the Academy of Music, in New York, at one time the manager was sorely put about to find money to pay her, but she always stoutly refused to sing until she had her salary.

One night at a quarter past 8 her representative went to him and said: "Madam is all dressed except her shoes. She will put those on when she gets the money."

The manager, half distracted, rushed about the house and succeeded in raising one-half the amount due the prima donna, which he hastily sent to her. But another quarter of an hour passed, and though the audience showed great impatience, there was no Patti, whereat the manager ran to her room.

"My dear madam, why do you not go on? I have sent you half the money, and the rest will reach you before the end of the first act."

Patti smiled dolefully, exhibited the tips of her feet and said: "You see, I have only one shoe on. I cannot go on the stage without the other. It would be quite impossible."

Almost crazed, the manager rushed out and discovered that the other half of the money could be raised.—New York Tribune.

NERVES AND WATCHES.
When They Don't Agree There is Sure to Be Poor Time.
One of the troubles of watchmakers is the man who gets on his watch's nerves. There are lots of customers on whom a good watch is wasted. A good second hand watch that has kept perfect time for other people will with certain other people go irregularly when it is not standing still. It is common knowledge in the trade that watch owners are greatly influenced by their owners.

Nobody knows the reason, but two explanations have been offered. One is that watches are sensitive to personal magnetism, the natural electricity that human beings contain in varying quantities.

The other is that a watch may be disturbed by the vibrations set up by a footstep which is heavier than the ordinary. The man who puts his heels down heavily usually needs to set the regulator toward slow to keep it from gaining.

One of the mysterious sides of the subject is that watches seldom keep good time on people of nervous, excitable temperaments.—Pearson's Weekly.

SIEGEL DEAD IN CHAIR OF VENUE
Succeeds Temporarily in Escaping Wrath of Hordes of New York Creditors
ASSOCIATE DIED A FEW WEEKS AGO
Frank E. Vogel, Siegel's Partner, Was Indicted to Be Tried To-day, but Death Intervened and Human Law Is Necessarily Suspended

Genesee, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Henry Siegel, bankrupt banker and head of a New York department store that bore his name, appeared in the Supreme Court here to-day to stand trial for grand larceny. The alleged offense was committed in New York, but Siegel succeeded in securing a change of venue so that he might be tried away from the host of New York creditors.

Because of minor court business the local officials wished to get out of the way before starting on the case of Siegel, it was considered probable that the first of the extra panel of 100 talents might not be examined until this afternoon.

Arthur C. Tramm, Assistant District Attorney of New York, and a corps of assistants brought into court a great quantity of documents and books taken from the office of the Siegel store and the private bank connected in connection with it. Siegel is to be tried on an indictment charging him with the theft of less than $700.

The attorneys for the defense, headed by John B. Stanchfield, of New York, and Charles D. Newton, of Genesee, arrived in court shortly before Siegel, who came here from New York at midnight.

Every hotel in this place was crowded with witnesses, attorneys, tailors and others having an interest in the case. It was expected that two weeks would be required to complete the trial.

Frank E. Vogel, Siegel's associate in business, was to have been tried with him, but Vogel died suddenly in New York a few weeks ago.
