WOMEN CAUSE HIGH PRICES

Ignorance Increases the Cost of Living, Say Investigators
New York, Nov. 13.—Ignorance on the part of housewives is responsible in large measure for the high cost of living, in the opinion of Mayor Mitchell's Food Supply committee, of which George W. Perkins is chairman. Working girls and those reared in the homes of the well-to-do are equally at fault, according to the report.

Young women employed in offices, stores and factories before their marriage have little or no practical training in the art of housekeeping, the committee finds. The same is true, it is held, of the daughters of prosperous families, where the mistaken notion prevails that it is not necessary for them to learn housekeeping.

The committee contends that extravagance and waste in households, headed by women not trained for home-making, leads to large and unnecessary drains upon the city's food supply.

Thieves Rob Telephone Booth
Marietta, Nov. 13.—Thieves forced an entrance Wednesday night into the Reinhold station along the Columbia and Reading railway, and carried off a box which contained a little money for Bell telephone service. Entrance was effected by prying open a window. At the home of H. Joseph Keith, a short distance away, they stole canned fruit, vegetables, three jugs of wine and vegetables.

Gloryman Sells a Farm
Marietta, Nov. 13.—The Rev. Samuel E. Shimp has sold his farm of eighty-seven acres in East Cocalico township for $6,200 to Alvin Lamotta, of near Red Run. The farm is a very desirable one. Silas E. Bard sold for Adam Meekley his property in the lower end of the county for $1,200 to Barton W. Meekley.

BOY FINDS HOME BROKEN UP

Father Electrocuted for Murder and Mother Ill in Hospital
Jersey City, Nov. 13.—Joseph Melillo, 12 years old, was discharged from the reformatory at Jamesburg and promptly came here, wearing a suit of clothes given to him by the officials. When he got to 252 Wayne street, this city, where his parents lived when he was committed to the institution for being incorrigible, he learned for the first time that they had moved away, and no one knew anything about their whereabouts.

Footless and hungry, the boy went to the City Hall police station, where he told his story.
For the first time he was informed that his father had been electrocuted in the Trenton State Prison for murder a short time after the boy was sent to the reformatory, but the facts were concealed from him. His mother is now dangerously ill in Bellevue Hospital, New York City. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has taken charge of the boy.

Hotel Proprietor Dies in Hospital
Marietta, Nov. 13.—Ernest G. Maulick, 55 years old, died at the Lancaster general hospital from a complication of diseases. He was proprietor of the Riverside hotel, was a retired brewer and the first man to erect a cottage on the York county shore along the Susquehanna river. He was affiliated with a number of secret organizations.

Woman Gives Money to Charity
Marietta, Nov. 13.—In the will of the late Priscilla Stoner, admitted to probate, there is a bequest of $100 to the Memorial church at Landis Valley and $50 to the Lutheran church at Neffsville. There is also a number of amounts willed for charitable purposes.

WELFARE OF ALL TO BE THE THEME

Second Annual Welfare and Efficiency Conference Will Be Held Here Next Week

DISTINGUISHED MEN TO BE HERE

Will Discuss Matters Relating to the General Benefit of Human Kind—An Exhibit of Safety Appliances Will Be Made

An outline of the plan and scope of the second annual welfare and efficiency conference to be held in Harrisburg on November 17, 18, 19, has been prepared by John Price Jackson, Commissioner of Labor and Industry, which will give an intelligent idea of the matters to be brought before that meeting.

Governor Tener will give an address of welcome on Tuesday morning, November 17, at 10 o'clock, and it is hoped that Governor-elect Brumbaugh will also speak upon that occasion. William B. Wilson, National Secretary of Labor, and John P. Tobin, president of the Labor Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, will be upon the program of this meeting, as will one or more prominent manufacturers.

Conference in Four Sections
In the afternoon the conference divides into four sections. These sections are the Safety Section, Hygiene Section, Welfare Section and Fire Section. Those taking part in these sectional meetings will be, among others, Carl Hansen, chief engineer of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, of New York City; Dr. Thomas Darrington, a famous expert from the American Iron and Steel Institute, New York City; W. T. Doyle, mechanical engineer of the New York State Department of Labor; C. O. Smith, president of the Pittsburgh Emery Wheel Company; Lucien W. Chaney, a famous statistician, connected with the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Washington, D. C.; Dr. J. M. Wainwright, chief surgeon of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway, Lackawanna, Pa.; J. G. Scruggan, professor of mechanical engineering, University of Nevada; C. E. Dooley, head of the educational activities of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.; H. W. Forster, a well-known safety and fire expert, of the Independence Investigation Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa.; H. W. Campbell, president of the National Safety Council; Dr. C. M. Price, famous for his writings on labor problems, and director of the joint board of Sanitary Control, New York City; James Lord, president of the Mining Department of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank Duffy, a member of the Indiana Commission on Industrial Education, also secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. There will also be other well-known labor leaders and employers who will be present and take part in this day of discussion.

Reports of Safety Councils
In the evening of the 17th representatives of the Safety Councils, associated with the Department of Labor and Industry and the National Safety Council from Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Reading, York, Scranton, Lebanon and other places, will make reports. This work will be followed by some unusually attractive and valuable motion pictures, dealing with safety, health and fire prevention. The films for these motion pictures are, in a number of cases, new and will be shown for the first time.

On Wednesday, November 18, the morning will be given up to the sectional work, as on the first day, while the afternoon will deal in a general session, with unemployment and labor mediation. The evening will be employed in visiting the magnificent exhibit in the Chestnut street hall.

Those taking part on this day will include Lewis T. Bryan, Commissioner of Labor, Trenton, N. J., and one of the foremost fire experts; Charles P. Neill, recently Commissioner of Labor for the United States government, and now with the American Smelting and Refining Company, New York City; Timothy Daley, president of the International Polishers' Union; John R. O'Leary, a foundry expert and vice president of the International Machinists' Union; Arthur McDonald, president of the American Dyers' and Mercerizers' Union; A. A. Myrup, treasurer of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union; Elmer Greenwalt, United States Immigration Commissioner and ex-president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor; Mrs. Sarah A. Conboy, international organizer of the United Textile Workers' Union; Miss Frances A. Keller, managing director of the legislative committee of the North American Civic League for Immigrants, well known for her important writings on immigration; A. B. Farquhar, prominent manufacturer, of York, Pa.; Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's Union of America, and Frank N. Bump, member of the Massachusetts Board of Conciliation and Mediation and also member of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

Compensation for Industrial Accidents
On November 19 the morning session will be given up to the four sectional meetings, while a general session, dealing with the Pennsylvania Industrial Board and compensation for industrial accidents, will close the conference proper in the afternoon. Among those taking part will be C. L. Close, of the United States Steel Corporation; F. H. Wilcox, of the United States Bureau of Mines; L. H. Burnett, a well-known safety expert; Dr. Alice Hamilton, of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Carrol Aronovic, secretary of the Suburban Improvement League, Moylan, Pa.; P. H. Bohlen, secretary of the Pennsylvania Industrial Accidents Commission; Milton Snellings, vice president of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers; Hugo Diemer, professor of industrial engineering of the Pennsylvania State College; Prof. C. L. Kinslow, of the electrical engineering division, Pennsylvania State College; P. J. McNulty, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; James J. Freil, president of the Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' International Cigar-makers' Union. In addition to these persons, who have been specially invited, the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor will be represented by delegates from over the State, headed by J. H. Maurer, president of the Federation, and including Francis Feehan, James C. Cronin and many others. There will also be many officials of manufacturing and transportation companies present and taking part during the sessions.

Purpose of the Department
The Department of Labor and Industry, at least as administered, is not acting in any sense as a fraternal form of government, but specifically along lines of co-operation with all elements connected with labor and industry. The first great co-operative movement by the department was the calling together of a conference, under the auspices of the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania, last year. The conference this year is held for the same purpose as that, and upon a unanimous vote of the first conference asking the department to call such meetings annually. Along the same line of co-operative work many meetings have been held during the year of voluntary committees, composed of representatives of labor and employers who have spent large amounts of time in aiding the department to draw up rules and regulations for safety and health which would be reasonable and effective in accomplishing the purposes desired.

Purpose of Sectional Meetings
The conference on November 17, 18 and 19, of this year, also held under the auspices of the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania, with headquarters in Harrisburg, is to be conducted on slightly different lines from that of last year. Three half-days will be given to sectional meetings dealing, as stated before, with safety, hygiene, welfare and fire prevention. The purpose of these sectional meetings is to take up the rules and regulations which have already been largely formulated by the voluntary committee spoken of and bring them still further toward perfection. The sectional meetings will also discuss many topics which the department has not yet been able to deal with concerning various welfare movements. This sectional work then, in a way, should be productive of very valuable information upon which the work of the Department of Labor and Industry can be based, and also for use of industrial organizations, as well as likewise to a large extent, the general sessions will this year be much in the nature of working sessions than for the purpose merely of giving experts the opportunity of presenting valuable information for the education of those present. In short, everyone at the conference this year will be specifically expected, not only to learn from others, but to give information of value himself.

The Results Possible
It is quite evident, upon looking over the topics shown in the enclosed program, which include such practical headings as "Elevators Hazards," "Ladders," "Industrial Education," "Uniform Boiler Code," "Woodworking Machinery," "Bakeries," "Fire Alarm Systems," "Fire Drills," "Child Labor Legislation," "Unemployment," "Mediation," "Explosives," "Brass Foundry Poisoning," "Community Welfare," "Housing Conditions," "Fire Waste," etc., that the conference is to be put upon a very practical and useful diet of work, which should result in bringing out the kind of information which is needed for enabling the industries and the department to reasonably improve labor conditions, efficient of production and quality. The general session on the afternoon of November 19, the last day, dealing with compensation, will be particularly interesting, especially as F. H. Bohlen, secretary of the Pennsylvania commission, will present this subject.

The Exhibit
An exhibit of safety and efficient machines, and of charts, drawings, pictures and other representations of proper industrial practices, will be opened in the Chestnut street hall at 9 o'clock a. m., Monday, November 16, and will close at 10 p. m., on Friday, the 20th. This exhibition, which will be unusually complete and perfect, all space in the hall having been taken by a selected list of exhibitors, is a necessary adjunct for such a conference as that being held. It makes a practical laboratory to which speakers can refer in dealing with the various topics of the program, and holds very much the same relation to the conference as does the scientific laboratory in a college to the class room work. This exhibition will undoubtedly be the best which has been held in Harrisburg, as more time has been spent in its selection and arrangement than in the case of any of the previous similar exhibitions held in this city.

Co-Operative Safety Movements
A committee of the department was instructed to take up with the various active organizations of Harrisburg the matter of making the conference week also a safety revival in the city of Harrisburg. This Harrisburg co-operative work will include the making of the safety rules available free to the school children of the city through the aid of the motion picture theatre people. The street railways will carry "Safety First" signs through the week. The police and firemen will wear "Safety First" badges. The Board of Trade will co-operate and attend at least one of the conference meetings, and many other activities are planned for the week, for the purpose of getting all Harrisburg interested in the great subject of safety, health and welfare, particularly of the children and the employes.

SURRENDERS AFTER 9 YEARS

Man Indicted With Store Co. Promoters Gives Himself Up
Philadelphia, Nov. 13.—Walter B. Riggs, of New York, who was indicted nine years ago on charges of conspiracy to defraud, in connection with the Store Cotton Company swindle, came to this city yesterday and surrendered to Deputy Marshal James Kenney and Postal Inspectors Hawksworth and Brigham. He was held in $2,500 bail for the December term of court.

Riggs was jointly indicted with Frank Marrin, Stanley Francis, Sophia Beck and other officials of the company. When Riggs heard of the arrest of Arthur O. Howard, former general manager of the Store Company, a month ago, he decided to come here and clear himself of the charge that has been hanging over him since the fraud was exposed. He says, and it is not disputed by the postal authorities, that he never had any connection with the Store Company. It appears Riggs was president of the General Heating and Lighting Company, of New York, and that some of the Store Company officials had purchased stock of that concern. As the money was said to have passed through the hands of Riggs, he was included in the indictment.

Riggs now maintains that the lighting company was a legitimate enterprise and that the sale of stock to the Store Cotton Company men was in the regular course of business and free from any suspicion of fraud. Riggs furnished bail immediately upon the amount being fixed.

Quick, Painless Way to Remove Hairy Growths

(Helps to Beauty)
Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs: With some powdered deltona and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the deltona in an original package. Adv.

MAP OF STATE HIGHWAYS

County and Township Roads Also Shown in Large Size Diagram of Southeastern Pennsylvania
The State Highway Department has just issued a highway map of the southeastern section of Pennsylvania on which State highways and State-aid highways, as well as county and township roads, are shown. The map is of large size, being drawn to the scale of four miles to one inch. It was prepared at the direction of State Highway Commissioner Bigelow and S. D. Foster, chief engineer, by G. P. Strum, a draftsman under the direction of G. H. Elschman, chief draftsman of the department.

A limited number of these maps have been prepared. They will prove especially valuable to automobilists and to those whose business will take them through the territory shown on the map.

Maps for the other three sections of the State are being compiled and as soon as they are prepared they will be printed and distributed.

MADE JAIL YARD BLOOM

Bouck White, Who Invaded Rockefeller Church, Warmly Greeted Upon His Release From Prison
By Associated Press.
New York, Nov. 13.—Bouck White, pastor of the Church of Social Revolution, was discharged yesterday from Queens county jail. He had served his six months' sentence for raising a disturbance in Calvary Baptist church. A delegation of fifty friends, each wearing a red flower, welcomed him enthusiastically in the jail's courtyard. An automobile draped with flags took him away.

Standing unmoved in the court yard, White led in singing "The Hymn of Liberty" and "I'm Coming Here Tomorrow."

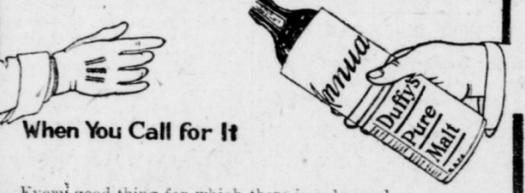

He has announced his intention to try again to discuss with the Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, of Calvary church, where John D. Rockefeller, Jr., worships, the grievances of the strikers at the Colorado mines.

In a short address White told the crowd that he had replaced ash heaps in the jail yard with flowers and had done other things to make beautiful the institution's unsightly features. He will resume his church duties.

Aged Physician Dies in Baltimore

Mountville, Nov. 13.—Word reached here yesterday announcing the death at Baltimore of Dr. Samuel Butler Grimes, a former resident here, but of late years a practicing physician of that city. He was 81 years old and his death was hastened by the recent death of his son, who was injured in an accident. The aged physician was a graduate of several colleges.
