RECORDS MAY BE SMASHED IN YALE-PRINCETON GAME

Big University Eleven Meets To-day For Fourteenth Time—Neither Goal Line Has Been Crossed For Touchdown Since 1911

New York, Nov. 14.—The football teams of Princeton and Yale Universities play their annual game at Princeton this afternoon. Several interesting coincidences mark this particular meeting of the eleven. To begin with it is the fortieth game between the universities, the series having been started in 1873. During this long stretch of years not a single dispute of sufficient importance to threaten the athletic relations of the two varsity rivals has developed. As if in celebration of this splendid spirit of sportsmanship, Yale will, as the opponent of Princeton, figure prominently in the normal opening of the Palmer Memorial stadium, the Tigers' new football amphitheatre.

first used. Previous to that year Yale had won two games, Princeton two and four were ties. Since 1883 Yale has won eighteen games; Princeton eight and five had ended in tie contests. During these comparatively modern years of the game Yale has scored 213 points to Princeton's 130. This preponderance of points in favor of the Blue is due to the fact that most of Yale's victories have been double figure ones. In sixteen out of eighteen victories Yale scored in double figures, the largest score being made in 1890 when Princeton was crushed 32 to 0. The Tigers' biggest score was made in 1896 when Yale fell before the Orange and Black by a score of 21 to 6. A recapitulation of the entire series of thirty-nine games since 1873, therefore, shows that Yale has won twenty games; Princeton ten and nine have resulted in ties.

The startling announcement that Connie Mack had asked waivers on the Philadelphia Athletics trio of pitchers Bender, Plank and Coombs, furnished a sensational climax to a sensational baseball season. Many explanations, aside from the rather vague one put forward by Mack, have been offered but the only reasonable certainty is that Mack as well as the magnates of the American League knew full well that Bender and Plank at least, would never leave the junior major league. Coombs, because of his long illness, is considered a negligible quantity. Plank has a grand pitching average of .646 and a world's series average of .290, since joining the Athletics. Bender has a better record, his league pitching average for twelve years being .650, and his world's series average .534. Notwithstanding their age from a baseball standpoint, it is likely that both will be placed with other American League clubs during the shifts and readjustments sure to take place this winter.

In connection with the announcement of the date of the next annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, to be held at Chicago, December 20, the association has issued a statement regarding the right and wrong views of athletic sport. In part it is as follows:

"Athletic sport, if honorably and wisely conducted, can hold its own in any institution of learning; but to gain a position of dignity, it must be saved from many of its friends, and maintained on so high a level that no reasonable man can question its value. Rightly administered it strengthens the weak, improves the weak placed in the strong, clears the brain, teaches boys and young men to respect their bodies and to know the relation of a clean, vigorous body to an active mind and an honorable life. Rightly conducted it is a school of manly skill, of courage, honesty, self-control and even of courtesy; wrongly conducted it is a school of bad manners, vulgar, tricky evasion, brutality—the ideal not of a sportsman, but of a sporting man."

"We are constantly told that in England men play for the sake of playing, whereas in America men play for the sake of winning. The more serious the need of winning, the more serious the need of winning honorably. Sport in America is not mere fun; it is a test of character, and nothing that makes the player less a gentleman belongs to it. The football player who wantonly injures his rivals, the baseball player who persists in shouting to rile his opponents, the school boy or student who takes money for summer baseball and conceals the fact, should be put out of the team. Nor should any school or any college have secrets as to the legitimacy of its athletic representatives."

AGGIES SURPRISE STATE

Scientific Farmers' Touchdown Big Enough to Win—Tobin Gets in Game

State College, Pa., Nov. 14.—The Michigan Agricultural College football eleven celebrated its first invasion of the East by defeating Pennsylvania State here yesterday by the score of 6 to 3. Lamb scored a placement goal for State and Julian tallied a touchdown for the Aggies.

The Aggies played a magnificent game throughout, her backs, Julian, Deprato and H. Miller, tearing through State's right tackle for long gains. Smith, left tackle, also played a wonderful game for the westerners.

State was twice held for downs inside the Aggies' 5-yard line. Captain Tobin, of Pennsylvania State, only four days out of hospital, was rushed into the game, but his efforts were futile. The lineup:

PHILS WILL NOT BE SOLD

Vice President Chandler Explains That Rumor Started Herrmann's Inquiry

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—The Phillies are not for sale, but they can be bought if anyone wants to come across with a satisfactory price was the sum and substance of a statement made by Fred T. Chandler, vice president of the Philadelphia baseball club, last night. Mr. Chandler spoke in reply to the report that the Ward Brothers, of the Brooklyn Feds, were trying to purchase the Phillies. Mr. Chandler said: "All that we know about the matter is that Mr. Baker, our president, received a telegram from Garry Herrmann asking if he would sell the Phillies. Mr. Baker replied that he would sell almost anything he had if he got his price. Further than that we know nothing. "I was with Mr. Baker yesterday and up to that time no offer had been made for the Phillies by the Wards or anyone else. The Phillies are not on the market and if we should sell the club the purchaser would have to pay a very good price. We have the grounds here, a nucleus for a good team and above all we are in a good ball town, so why should we be anxious to sell. We have no intention of doing so."

The rumor that the Wards were after the Phillies originated at New York. The story had it that a conference would be held in this city last night to talk over the deal. It is supposed that Garry Herrmann, who seems to have taken upon himself the work of bringing the Federals and organized baseball together, had sent out the feeler to the Phillies. Herrmann is anxious to secure National or American League clubs for Weegman and the Wards, who furnish the sinews of war of the Federal League. If Weegman can get the Chicago Cubs and the Wards an Eastern club the first step towards bringing all factions into harmony would be taken.

SCOUT IRWIN VISITS PLANK

Yankees' Representative Talks With Pletcher at Gettysburg Home. Gettysburg, Pa., Nov. 14.—Following persistent rumors concerning Eddie Plank joining the New York Yankees next year, the visit to Gettysburg yesterday of Arthur Irwin, scout for the Yankees, is regarded as particularly significant, although the result of the conference was kept a deep secret.

Yesterday morning Irwin visited Plank at his home on the farm, a short distance from town, where he was closeted with the great left-hander for several hours, finally returning to town, and left on the first train out. He would give out no statement before his departure, evidently wishing Plank to make known what he desired. When Plank was seen regarding Irwin's visit, he said:

"I cannot tell you a word. Some time before spring I will have something to say, and then my Gettysburg friends will know my plans."

YALE RELIES ON SKILL OF HINKEY

Yale is placing great reliance on the ability of Frank Hinkey, head coach, to lead this year's eleven on the top rung of the football ladder. Hinkey has already worked wonders with the team and has whipped together a machine which many believe will win the gridiron championship. The present blue eleven is undoubtedly stronger than those which have been turned out from New Haven in recent years and is a worthy successor to some of the notable football crews which have achieved fame and glory for the blue in other years. Hinkey is a firm believer in the open style of play. He has drilled the eleven carefully in the use of the lateral and forward pass. Its effectiveness has been demonstrated in a majority of the games played at New Haven this year, and it is regarded as responsible in a measure for the wonderful offensive strength of this year's team. Ainsworth, Knowles, Legore, Wilson and Scovill have been so well drilled in the open game that they are perhaps without peers as its exponents. Hinkey has been given full credit for the fine work of the eleven and is undoubtedly deserving of all praise.

star evidently has his plans for next year well mapped out is believed by his many friends here, and the conference of yesterday is a good indication of what is likely to happen. Plank has been approached by more than one of the scouts or managers of various teams, including one from the Federal League, and he will have no difficulty in arranging a profitable engagement for himself.
