ALIMONY BASIS 20 PER CENT.

Fifty-fifty Salary Split Too Much for Wife, Judge Holds

New York, Nov. 14.—It's all off with the fifty-fifty split in the alimony game. Twenty per cent. of a husband's salary is all a wife who gets a divorce ought to expect, according to a ruling of Supreme Court Justice Guy yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Pauline L. Berry against William Harrison Berry, buyer for a big department store. Mrs. Berry, seeking a divorce, said she thought she ought to get $15 a week alimony.

"What is your husband's salary, Madam?" asked the Judge.

"He earns $50 a week," the witness replied.

"I shall order him to pay you $10 a week," Justice Guy said. "We must keep the machinery in working order. If there is no inducement for a man to work when he has to pay alimony he is likely to give up working."

Mrs. Berry had been granted $6 a week when she filed her suit, in which she accused her husband of too great friendliness for another woman. Upon Jacob Feinstein's testimony that he had followed Berry to the Union Square hotel and a door was slammed in his face when he tried to force his way into the room occupied by the defendant and a woman companion, Justice Guy took the suit under advisement.

Although Franz rates his ability as a composer very highly, his wife, Anna, is the real source of his inspiration. A song suggested by Anna brings Franz fame and fortune. The man hastens to his publisher, with whom the song finds instant favor. Adv.

Women in Business Life

The following figures show how women are represented in the business life of the United States: Stenographers, 238,677; teachers and professors, 327,635; physicians and surgeons, 7,300; clergy, 7,395; architects, designers and draftsmen, 1,027; lawyers, 1,010; agricultural pursuits, 770,055; various professions, 429,497; various trades, 481,159.

Ideal Feminine Form

The Medicean Venus is five feet five inches in height, and this is held by many sculptors and artists to be the most admirable feminine stature. For a woman of five feet five inches 133 pounds is the proper weight, and if she be well formed she can stand another ten pounds without greatly showing it.

Panama-Pacific Midway

The midway at the Panama-Pacific exposition is to be called "El Camino." The word is Spanish for highway. Its use for the exposition street set aside for concessions is intended to recall "El Camino Real," the king's highway, built by the Spaniards the length of the State, with a mission marking the end of each day's journey.
