EXHIBIT

The Department of Labor and the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania have brought to Harrisburg eighty-five exhibitors representing manufacturers from all sections of the country whose products represent the highest type of safe and efficient machines and appliances for the betterment of industrial plants, public utilities, offices, and the home. The welfare of the factory worker is the concern of everyone. Come to the exhibition. Examine the machines and devices. Ask all the questions you want to; that is what our exhibitors' representatives are here for. The Exhibit is not only instructive but you will enjoy the music, beautiful illumination and decoration, and the pleasant meeting with men who are experts in their individual lines. A Model Post Office and Telephone Exchange in actual operation have been installed and everything needful to make this the finest and most complete exhibition of any kind in Pennsylvania.

ALL U. S. "DRY" BY 1920

That's the Prediction of Mrs. Ella A. Booie, Temperance Leader

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 16.—Delegates attending the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union made addresses in several city churches yesterday. The principal address was delivered at the tabernacle in the afternoon before a large audience by Mrs. Ella A. Booie, president of the New York Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The meeting was presided over by Miss Anna Gordon, acting president of the national union.

Mrs. Booie arraigned the "double moral" standard for men and women and predicted universal prohibition in a short time. The activity of the W. C. T. U., she said, would mean national prohibition as early as 1920, and the European war, as well as the advance of science, would dethrone alcohol throughout the world.

AMUSEMENTS

MAJESTIC.
Friday, November 20, Rose Stahl in "A Perfect Lady."

ORPHEUM
Every afternoon and evening, high class vaudeville.

COLONIAL
Daily continuous vaudeville and pictures.

Rose Stahl in "A Perfect Lady"

Miss Rose Stahl, who comes to the Majestic Friday evening in a new play, "A Perfect Lady," has had great opportunity to observe people of the theatre in every phase of their existence. In her new play there is a character, Bertie Snyder, who is presumed to be a musical director of a "city-by-night" burlesque troupe, and, having spent some years in the study of music, imagines himself a creative genius. Discussing this character recently, Miss Stahl said:

"Bertie, to me, emphasizes the pathos of misdirected artistic endeavor, of which there is so much in this great city. How many of these strugglers could bring joy to the world and win success if they realized the scope of their ability and accomplished with fidelity that work for which they were most truly fitted. Bertie, as the case seeks to believe that his memory is creative, whereas it is only imitative. By applying that capacity for imitation he could go far, but, dealing with it as an original creative inspiration, he is simply bringing ridicule upon himself. It seems truly that there is nothing new under the sun, we are adapting and re-adapting; the things which appear new have always been and it is only that their existence is realized that makes them seem new. Bertie carries a very real message to those folks struggling for success and that message is one which brings the word of how they may succeed. Success with them is dependent upon the knowledge of their limitations; when they realize those limitations, then they can truly build upon a foundation which will insure success. It has always seemed to me that the keystone of success was their knowledge of what they could not do."

At the Orpheum
Nat. M. Wills, one of the most celebrated comedians on the American stage, heads a bill of startling excellence at the Orpheum this week. The magic word, "Wills," suggests the brightest of witticisms to those who have come to know the artist and his appearance at the Orpheum this week is indeed noteworthy. While new to Orpheum audiences, Mr. Wills appeared at the Majestic theatre last season, starring in Ziegfeld's Polities, and he is considered one of the brightest lights that travel the Keith circuit. Homer Mason and Marguerite Keeler and company return this week in a new comedy called "Married." This attractive company appeared at the Orpheum several seasons ago in a splendid comedy called "In and Out," that has oft been declared the best comedy sketch ever served up at that playhouse.

"In and Out" was so called because the scene kept constantly changing from the outside to the inside of a dwelling of the better class, and on the outside Mr. Mason, as an intoxicated clubman, was making the effort of his life to make his key fit to gain entrance. Inside, seated by her cozy fireplace, "wifey" had gone to sleep awaiting his return. The situations that arose in "In and Out" will be remembered by all who saw it. Marie Fitzgibbon, a dainty songbird, will be another pleasing addition, while The Berrens, who are said to have the best musical novelty extant, will also be an addition. Other clever turns will be included in the lineup. Adv.

At the Colonial
Something novel, tuneful and really clever is promised in a production called "A Dream of the Orient," a pretentious musical comedy that heads the vaudeville festivities at the Colonial for the first half of the week. Ten players are required for the piece, tuneful song hits are interpolated and the act has a gorgeous costume and scenic divestment. Cook and the Mason Twins, comedian and pretty girls, will offer a refined song, dance and patter skit; Joe Hardman, the popular monologist, will unload a "knapsack of bright gags, and Rose and Severin will appear in a potpourri of comedy songs and dances. "I Love the Nurse," a product of the Eclectic Feature Film Company, will be a special attraction in the way of "movies" at the Colonial for the first half of the week. Adv.

MR. WILSON "NOUNCED"

President, Calling on Sister, Meets Elevator Boy Who Obeyed Orders

New York, Nov. 16.—Two automobiles drew up in front of the Hotel Anderson on West Eighth street yesterday afternoon and half a dozen men stepped out of them and into the hotel. They walked right into the elevator and asked to be taken to the apartment of Mrs. A. Wilson Howe, the sister of President Wilson.

"No, sir," said Rupert, the elevator boy. "Y'ain't gwine up unless you're 'nounced.'"

"All right, then," "Who'll 'nounce?' asked Rupert. "Mr. Wilson."

As Rupert went to the telephone board one of the secret service men added: "The President of the United States."

Rupert, who has a West Indian training, stood up straight and made his explanation: "Ah don't care. Miss Anderson, the owner, said jus' th' other day I wa'n't to leave no one upstairs 'cept they's 'nounced, not even the President of the United States.'"

Aged Retired Farmer Dies on Visit
Nickel Mines, Nov. 15.—John W. Showaker, 72 years old, a retired farmer, died Saturday at Bevidere, New Jersey, while on a visit, from infirmities of age. He was a member of the Episcopal church. His wife, six children and a number of grandchildren survive.

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—A bill providing full crews for all trains, recently voted on as a proposed amendment to the State constitution, was defeated by a vote of more than two to one, according to complete returns made public last night.

WINTER CLOTHING

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D., Commissioner of Health

The season has arrived when the thoughtful housewife gets out her husband's "flannels" and her own. Unfortunately many people dress according to the calendar and if the weather happens to be unreasonable, so much the worse for the wearer.

Winter means heavy clothes and too often heavy underclothes. Of course the question of the occupation of the individual is a factor in winter dress but the great majority of people spend their time in steam-heated homes and offices where the temperature is little lower in winter than in summer.

For those who live or work in a temperature of from 68 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit the wearing of heavy underclothes is not only fraught with considerable discomfort but it is apt to lead to colds. To keep the skin dry and to give it air are the two necessary requisites in sensible and healthful dressing of the body.

A certain amount of perspiration is constantly going on through the pores of the skin to equalize the bodily heat. If the underclothing is too heavy and tight fitting, it does not permit of sufficient circulation of air. An excess of heat or a little unusual exercise will cause perspiration. If in this condition there is exposure to cold, the overheated parts may become chilled and a cold ensues.

When some circulation of air is permitted, perspiration is disposed of by evaporation and the skin remains dry. Old people, babies and those with weak hearts should always be clothed with thin woolen underwear that they may be kept warm and the evaporation given off slowly by the wool. In going from a warm indoor temperature into the cold outer air heavy outside garments should be worn which can be laid aside on re-entering the heated rooms.

It is becoming more and more the custom for indoor workers to wear lighter weight under garments in winter and to depend more upon their outer clothing to protect them from the cold when exposed.

94 DEER, 17 BEAR KILLED
Clinton County Yields Heavy Bags of Big Game

Lock Haven, Pa., Nov. 16.—Ninety-four deer and seventeen bears were killed in Clinton county up to date, according to a carefully kept record. Of this number, about one-fourth of the big game secured was killed in Sugar Valley, within sixteen miles of this city. They were probably driven into that section by hunters in Lycoming or other sections of this county.

No serious accidents have been reported.
