FIRING UPON U. S. VESSEL CONFIRMED

ance in the war upon the entente powers, convinced officials here it would be well to have both ships remain in the Mediterranean for the present and both have been going from port to port in Turkish waters or those nearby.

The Safety of Americans

So far Ambassador Morgenthau's reports concerning the safety of Americans have been reassuring. An undercurrent of uneasiness was created, however, early this month when the Turkish commander at Beirut addressed a note to the American Consul General, which he intended for the information of the French and British governments, declaring that for every Mussulman killed in a bombardment of any fortified port three British or French subjects would be put to death, and added that he could not take the responsibility for any uprising against Christians which might follow such an event.

It was pointed out at the time that bombardment of any open and unfortified town was unlikely, as it is prohibited by the Hague convention. Those Turkish officials who remain at the embassy here were confident that if the Tennessee had been fired upon it was the act of some local official, which would quickly be taken up by the Constantinople government. Further than calling for inquiries from other American officials in the vicinity, it appears that the Tennessee was awaiting further reports from the Tennessee herself before proceeding. It became known also that England and France were asking their commanders in the Mediterranean for information of the incident.

Theory of Washington Officials

The theory of the officials here is that Captain Decker had been ashore at Smyrna to pay his respects to Consul General Horton and that the Consul, who had returned the visit, was being taken back to Smyrna when the launch was fired upon. It was pointed out that in making a visit to Smyrna the ordinary procedure for the Tennessee to take would be to anchor outside the harbor and send a launch ashore. Another view is that the firing may not have been intended as an unfriendly act, but merely as a warning that the port was closed. This is said to be a usual form of notifying a foreign vessel that a port is closed when other notification has not been made. Vourlah is about ten miles from Smyrna. The cruiser North Carolina is at Beirut, on the coast of Asia Minor, about 500 miles away.

To Make Complete Investigation

Secretary Daniels immediately notified Acting Secretary Lansing of the firing and that official immediately called upon Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople to make a complete investigation. Communication, however, between Constantinople and the United States is very slow. The latest message from Mr. Morgenthau, received yesterday, was dated November 12. It made no mention of any disturbances. As Captain Decker's report mentioned the fact that anxiety had been felt for the safety of the American consulate at Smyrna, the opinion was expressed in some quarters that the launch might have been taking a guard from the Tennessee to protect the consulate and such Americans and other foreigners who would naturally seek asylum in that quarter.

Report Shots Fired at Launch

Chios, Aegean Sea, Nov. 17.—The American armored cruiser Tennessee arrived in this port to-day. It is stated that yesterday, while the captain of the Tennessee was in the ship's launch, which was flying the American flag, on his way to pay the customary visits on the Turkish officials at Smyrna,

The Use of Bisurated Magnesia for Stomach Troubles

In these days of almost universal indigestion, dyspepsia and other stomach trouble, the recent announcement by a great specialist that pure bisurated magnesia is an almost infallible remedy for nearly all forms of stomach trouble, will come as a welcome surprise to all sufferers. Bisurated magnesia in a little water immediately after eating, or whenever pain is felt, neutralizes the excess acid, and instantly stops the fermentation and pain. Those who use bisurated magnesia regularly for a week or two usually find that the trouble has entirely disappeared, and normal digestion is completely restored.

three solid shots were fired on the boat by the forts.

The American Ambassador, Henry Morgenthau, without investigating the incident, it is said, immediately ordered the Tennessee from Turkish waters at the request of the Turkish officials.

Chios, at which port the cruiser Tennessee has arrived, is the capital of the island of the same name, located about four miles off the coast of Asia Minor and near the Gulf of Smyrna. The island formerly belonged to Turkey, but as a result of the Balkan war was turned over to Greece. A great portion of the population of 60,000 are Greeks.

Dispatches from Athens yesterday reported that the Tennessee had arrived at the port of Vurla, in the Gulf of Smyrna, and that her appearance had put a stop to the ill-treatment of British, Russian and French residents. The authorities of Smyrna, the dispatch added, fearing a bombardment, had left for the interior.

Captain Benton Clark Decker is in command of the Tennessee, which left New York on August 6 with nearly $6,000,000 in gold on board for the relief of the American tourists stranded in Europe. The warship first went to England and then to France and finally entered the Mediterranean, where she visited several ports in pursuance of her relief work.

PRZEMYSL, NOW BESIEGED. PROVISIONED FOR A YEAR

Berlin, Via The Hague and London, Nov. 18, 10.25 A. M.—An official war bulletin given out in Berlin to-day sets forth that the operations on the eastern front are progressing favorably. The Germans apparently are using their victory at Wloclawek to the greatest advantage. The Russian armies defeated near Lippo yesterday are probably in the vicinity of Plock, and the forces defeated near Wloclawek are now at Kutno and Leszcheta.

For the continuation of operations, the bulletin goes on to say, it will be of the greatest importance for the German troops from the region of Solday to make further progress against the right wing of the main Russian army. If the Russians intend to retire, behind the Vistula such a retreat, considering the extremely bad conditions of the roads, would be most difficult, consequently the Russians probably will prefer to make a definite stand when the German and Austrian forces attack.

The papers of Berlin declare again to-day that the fall of Belgrade, Serbia, is imminent. According to a statement given out in Vienna, the fortress of Przemysl, now being besieged by the Russians, is provisioned for twelve months.

TENER TALKS TO EXPERTS ON "SAFETY"

tendance quite large. The fact that Governor Tener was scheduled to be present proved the magnet. Governor Tener was greeted with applause as he entered the hall and was introduced by Commissioner Jackson.

The Governor made a felicitous speech in which he referred to the work that is being done in Pennsylvania through the Bureau of Labor and Industry in the direction of ameliorating the working conditions of artisans, and especially that part of it that relates to the welfare and safety of those who toil in whatever occupation. The Governor referred to the work along these lines that had been taken up by other countries and states and said it is a great pleasure to know that Pennsylvania is not behind in the good work.

The Governor expressed much satisfaction at the large attendance and said it augured much good for the future, but he told the conference that much remains to be done for the good of all. He complimented those present for their disinterestedness in coming here to talk matters over with a view that the welfare and the efficiency of the people might be advanced, and closed by expressing the hope that their stay in Harrisburg might be in the highest degree beneficial.

At the close of the Governor's remarks, F. Herbert Snow, president of the Engineer's Society of Pennsylvania, presented the Governor with the certificate of membership in the Association, and in doing so, said:

"Your Excellency, the engineers of the State have viewed with increasing admiration, during your term as Governor, your attitude toward their profession, your efforts and accomplishments relative to matters with which engineers are concerned. We believe that the things done by you are fundamental and that therefrom other things will follow for our especial profit and the general welfare of the Commonwealth."

wealth. Please recall as you may look from time to time upon this testimonial of our esteem that it represents the unanimous vote of those engineering citizens of the Commonwealth who are banded together from every nook and corner of the State for the purpose of promoting the development of the hidden treasures of the earth that were placed there by a beneficent Creator when the everlasting hills were founded and of applying them through nature's laws for the benefit—as originally intended—not of the few, but for the benefit of all mankind.

The Morning Sessions

The Safety section of the conference met in the hall of the House this morning, with Ralph C. Richards, of Chicago, as chairman. The following addresses were made:

"Suggested Safety Regulations in the Textile Industry," John Golden, president of the United Textile Workers of America; "Machine Tools and Power Transmission Machinery," W. P. Eales, supervising inspector, Travelers' Insurance Co., Philadelphia, and William H. Johnston, president, International Association of Machinists; discussion, M. M. Sheedy, safety inspector, Pennsylvania railroad; "Woodworking Machinery," Richard H. Gunagan, Fidelity and Casualty Company, New York, and James Wilson, president Patternmakers' League of North America; discussion, Dr. F. D. Patterson, the J. G. Brill Co., Philadelphia; "Fire Exits," H. W. Forster, Independence Inspection Bureau, Philadelphia; discussion, S. A. Dies, Bureau of Building Inspection, Pittsburgh.

Owing to the absence of several of the speakers, the meeting of the Hygienic section in the House caucus room was postponed. The Welfare section met in the Senate chamber, with Charles P. Neill, of New York, as chairman, and followed the following program:

"Immigration," Miss Frances A. Keller, managing director of the legislative committee of the North American Civic League for Immigrants, and Elmer Greenwalt, U. S. Immigration Commissioner, former president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor; "Child Labor Legislation," Jasper Yeates, Brinton, president of the Pennsylvania Child Labor Association, and Mrs. Sarah A. Conboy, international organizer of the United Textile Workers' Union.

At last night's general session of the conference, held in the House, R. W. Campbell, president of the National Safety Conference, presided, and the topics for discussion were "The Value of Comprehensive Statistics in Safety Work" and "Organizing Fire Drills."

RECIPE FOR BALD HEADS

Well Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has New Growth of Hair Tells How He Did It

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and his ready wit, surprised his friends by appearing with a new growth of hair. Many of his friends did not know him, and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the growth of my hair to the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 3/4 oz. of Glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair, but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home." Adv.
