The present week will be by far the gayest of the present social season in Harrisburg, up to the present time. There is not a day for which one or more affairs in honor of the season's debutantes have not been arranged and hostesses have had to be very careful to avoid conflicts in dates. Several more of the debutantes will make their formal bows, although as is customary, all of them have been attending the various functions that have already been held. Thanksgiving week will find many young folks home from colleges and seminaries to participate in the gayeties. They will, of course, be the usual number of family diners of a private nature. Many of the young men and young women who will come home for the Thanksgiving holiday will bring guests with them. Several weddings are scheduled for the week and the most elaborate, perhaps, will be that on the evening of Thanksgiving Day when Miss Mary Esther Knisely will become the bride of Paul G. Smith, in the beautiful Knisely home at Front and Maclay streets. Many of the entertainments of the week will be in honor of Miss Knisely and the members of her bridal party. The first of these was a luncheon at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon given by Miss Janet Sawyer, 309 North Front street, for Miss Knisely and Smith-Knisely bridal party. Mrs. Harry Riley, of San Antonio, Texas, will be Miss Knisely's matron of honor; Miss Elizabeth Knisely, maid of honor; Miss Jessie Nichols, of New York City; Miss Helen Delaney, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Margaret Stackpole and Miss Janet Sawyer, both of Harrisburg, will be bridesmaids. To-morrow Mrs. Harry Taylor Neale will give a luncheon at her home, North Front street, in compliment to Miss Knisely, and from four to six, Miss Nancy Etter will give a tea at the Country Club at which her niece, Miss Katherine Etter, will be introduced to society. On Wednesday Miss Margaret Stackpole will give a luncheon at her home, 1825 North Front street, for Miss Knisely and her bridal party, and in the evening Miss Knisely will give a dance at the Country Club for the members of her bridal party and others of the young set. On Thursday there will be the usual number of Thanksgiving weddings. That of Miss Knisely and Mr. Smith will take place in the evening at the home of the bride, The Rev. Dr. John D. Fox, pastor of Grace M. E. church, will officiate. Following the ceremony there will be an elaborate reception and dance in the Knisely home. Bishop and Mrs. James Henry Darlington have issued cards for an "at home" for Thanksgiving evening. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. William K. Meyers will give a tea, followed by a dinner and dance at the home, 213 North Front street, to introduce their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Meyers. WON'T MIX

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix. The human stomach stands much abuse but it won't return good health if you give it bad food. If you feed right you should feel right, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health for I began to suffer after each meal no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman. "I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful, with the result that I was not nourished and got weak and thin. My home cares were very heavy, for besides a large family of my own I have also to look out for an aged mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down."

"I read an article in the paper about some one with trouble like mine being helped by Grape-Nuts food and acting on this suggestion I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of this delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing."

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach disappeared as if by magic and in an incredibly short space of time I was again myself. Since then I have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

RED CROSS SEAL SALE ON

Tuberculosis Society Aims to Break Record in State This Year. (Special to the Star-Independent.) Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—Great enthusiasm and interest throughout the State in the campaign for the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals is reported in a statement given out today by the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, which acts as agent for the American Red Cross for the sale of seals in this State. The Pennsylvania Society is endeavoring to organize a local committee for the sale of the seals in every town of 7,000 or more population. Already most of the cities and towns in the eastern and central parts of the State have been organized and numerous active and enthusiastic local committees are at work. In the western counties, where the chief work of organization is now going on, the reports are even more optimistic. Requests will be made to club women and to professional and business men in every community to assist in disposing of the seals. These are to be sent to every village and hamlet in the Commonwealth. By these methods it is planned greatly to increase the sale over former years. The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis is making every effort to make a record sale for the State this year of 5,000,000 seals, as against 3,165,000 sold in 1913.

CREATURE OF HABIT

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene By Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D., Commissioner of Health

Some one said that "man is a creature of habit," permitting us to draw our own conclusions. We are perfectly familiar with bad habits. Even if we were not liberally supplied with conscience, teachers and moralists have said enough to familiarize us with this side of the question. Fortunately there are good habits and they are often a blessing thing disguised. Our general health and well-being depends largely upon the character of our habits. Regularity partakes something of virtue. This is especially true when it pertains to eating, sleeping, labor and recreation which covers the daily program of the majority of mankind. In the primitive state it was impossible for our ancestors to eat regularly. The hunter might be successful and again he might not. Periods of enforced fasting were followed by corresponding overindulgence when the chase was successful. The demand for food at regular intervals was the first stimulus to civilization. We have achieved a state where three meals a day are possible to the most of us. In gratitude we should strive for moderation knowing that in a few hours more food will be forthcoming. Sleep is the great restorer of both body and brain. Irregular hours of rest result in an excessive strain upon the nervous system which in turn reacts unfavorably upon the human organism. Regularity in the periods of rest make for even temper and physical stability. Labor to achieve worthy accomplishment must be steady and persevering. The habit of work is a necessity for one who would realize his ambitions. Even in our recreations the majority of us are better for a certain degree of system for otherwise it is apt to become a case of over or under indulgence. It is the same with our bodily functions—temperance and regularity are conducive to obtaining the maximum of efficiency for the longest period of time. Excessive friction and rust are equally hard upon machinery. The formation of good habits in the care of the teeth, bathing, daily evacuations, eating, sleeping, exercise and living in fresh air will go far toward making the doctor's visit less frequent.

NEW BOOK BY FATHER WHALEN

Novel by Former Curate Pleads Eloquently for the Poor. Father W. Whalen, until recently curate at St. Patrick's Cathedral, has another new book to his credit, under the title, "The Ex-Seminarian." His characters, good and bad, are always gripping and interest-compelling. In this new book he has a perfect gallery of portraits.

He has taken the obscure humdrum existence of one village, picked out unusual types, put them under the microscope and then written down the story of their lives, their noble deeds, their mistakes. There is an abundance of humorous touches, some real comedy, and he is ever dramatic. The opening story of the volume, "The Mine Foreman's Dream," has furnished him with the theme of his new four-act play, "The Dupe." Many of the tales are condensation novels. He believes in condensation. The book is written from the viewpoint of neither capitalist nor laborer, yet it pleads for the poor with a simple eloquence.
