A STREET SCENE IN YPRES AFTER TOWN HAD BEEN BOMBARDED

BRITISH PATROL PASSING THROUGH BATTERED STREET OF YPRES

The unhappy position of Ypres, which for some weeks now has been the centre of heavy fighting, is well summarized by a writer who recently gave the following interesting facts:—The town of Ypres is added to the list of other Belgian towns like those in which I have seen the ruin of a nation. It exists no longer as a place of ancient beauty in which men and women made their homes, trustful of fate. Many of its houses have fallen into the roadways and heaped them high with broken bricks and shattered glass, others burned with a fine, fierce glow inside the outer walls. Their roofs have crashed down into the cellars. All between, furniture and panelling and household treasures, has been burned out into black ash or smoulders in glowing embers. The inhabitants of Ypres have gone, unless some of them are still hiding or buried in their cellars. A few dogs roam about, barking or whining at the soldiers who pass through the outskirts staring at all this destruction with curious eyes."

STEVENSON HEIRS AT ODDS

Wife of Stepson of Novelist Sues Stepdaughter for $3,500

New York, Dec. 17.—Katherine D. Osbourne, wife of Lloyd Osbourne, stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson, yesterday started a Supreme Court action against Isobel Strong Field, stepdaughter of Stevenson, to recover $3,500. Mrs. Osbourne alleges that Mrs. Field has retained certain letters and mementos by Stevenson to which she is not entitled. She demands the return of these articles, or $2,500 in lieu thereof, and $1,000 damages.

Mrs. Field claims ownership of the articles in question by inheritance from her mother, Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson.

Deaf Mute Church Work

Religious work among deaf mutes was established in 1849 by Dr. Gallaudet, who started a small Bible class for them in a room in the University of New York. The Churchman, an Episcopal weekly, says that at the present time there are thirteen ordained clergymen, twelve of whom are themselves deaf, ministering to the spiritual needs of 35,000 deaf mutes in the United States of whom there are fully 20,000 in the southern section. The salaries of the missionaries to the deaf range from $1,000 to $1,800 annually, and a very few of them have their expenses, in addition, provided.

PRESIDENT'S UNIQUE GIFT

Copy of "Lead Pencil Paper" Sent Him for Christmas Present

Washington, Dec. 17.—President Wilson has received a unique Christmas present in the form of a newspaper, printed with a lead pencil. This interesting production—sworn circulation one copy—is of regulation size and has ten pages, profusely illustrated. From a distance of a few feet it has the appearance of a standard news sheet. The headlines are marvels of imitation and the arrangement of the canal.

Colonel Goethals' visit was planned and announced a month ago without reference to any of the recent questions relating to the neutrality of the canal, though it is to be expected that that subject may come under discussion while he is in Washington.
