Legal

State of Pennsylvania,
 County of Dauphin, ss:
 Personally appeared before me, Thomas V. Gardner, a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, the said Charles V. Saul, of the Borough of Steelton, County of Dauphin, who being duly sworn according to law, doth depose and say: That on the fifteenth day of December, A. D. 1914, he said Charles V. Saul, appeared before Thomas V. Gardner, a Justice of the Peace of my own free will, and in justice of my wife, I solemnly swear that I have grossly slandered said wife without the least cause or proof whatever against her, and the many things that I have told my friends and neighbors was a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end.
 Sworn and subscribed before me this 15th day of December, 1914.
THOMAS V. GARDNER,
 Justice of the Peace.
 (My commission expires 1st Monday in January, 1915.)

A Cheerful Outlook

Lady (engaging a page boy)—Well, how soon can you come?
Page (readily)—At once, mum.
Lady—But surely your present mistress won't like that.
Page (brightly)—Oh, yes, she will, mum! She'll be only too glad to get rid of me.—London Opinion.

Saves Time

"I always tell the waiter when I'm going to tip him."
"Why?"
"So he won't keep me waiting half an hour while the cashier splits a ten dollar bill into dimes."—Detroit Free Press.

Impossible

"There's no use talking, it's impossible to suit that theatrical manager."
"Impossible, my boy. Nothing in the world is impossible."
"Yes, there is. He wants me to write a tragedy with a happy ending."

Accidents on the Water

Now a Pot or Pan or Even a Hat May Be Used as a Life Preserver.
 The worst thing to do in an accident on the water is to flounder around and shriek and cry. That expels the air from the lungs, and then the body will quickly sink. With this fact understood we may experiment with a number of things to show how little it takes to support the body. The high silk hat of man contains sufficient air to keep him from sinking if he grasps it by the rim and holds it upright so that the air is imprisoned under the hat. Even a derby hat will support a half grown boy or girl if held right.
 Dishpans and buckets or tin pails can also be used as life preservers. Invert these in the water and grasp the rim with both hands and do not tip them so the air can escape. Not long ago a party of girls out rowing had their boat upset in a mountain lake. All of them except one could swim. This girl had an umbrella with her, raised to ward off the sun's rays when the accident occurred. Finding herself in the water some distance from the boat, she grabbed for the nearest thing in reach. It proved to be her umbrella, floating with the handle down in the water. She threw both arms frantically around the open umbrella. To her surprise and to that of her comrades, she did not sink. The imprisoned air under the umbrella supported her head above the water until help arrived.
 The small amount of air contained in a bicycle tire will keep one's head above water for hours. Even if one is a fair swimmer, the day may come when a knowledge of some of these every day life preservers will prove of the greatest value. If thrown in the water a long distance from shore you may be able to float and swim with such an aid three times as far as you could without them.—George E. Walsh in Leslie's.

Taking Medicine

There Are Many Ways of Doing It, but Only One Right Way.
 Take a fluid remedy from a medicine glass or from a silver spoon. Chemical action of some liquids upon brass creates a liquid that would be fatal if taken into the stomach. A good rule is never to take medicine from anything made of the coarser metals.
 While pouring the medicine from bottle to spoon or cup hold the bottle so that the label is uppermost. This will prevent the medicine pouring over the label and staining if not obliterated. This precaution, especially in the case of liquids that might be harmful if taken by mistake or in the wrong quantity, is imperative.
 Unless directions require you to take medicines full strength, it is better to dilute them half and half with water. Never take doses larger than those specified in the directions. Better that they be smaller.
 Under no circumstances take medicine in the dark. The reason is obvious. Read the frequent news of deaths of persons who have taken poisons by mistake.
 Be sure never to pour medicine back into the bottle. Never fall to shake the bottle before taking a dose of the contents. If there be any sign of sediment, shake the more.
 Unless directed otherwise you would better take all capsules, pills or tablets with a half glass of water.
 Never use a liniment near an open flame, for a liniment usually contains some combustible element. Always rub a liniment into the skin until it is nearly dry.
 Be sure to brush the teeth after taking medicine, since many medicines contain acids or iron, both of which are injurious to the teeth.
 Keep effervescent medicines in a cool place.—New York American.

How She Escaped

"Algy fell in love with a girl at the glove counter. He bought gloves every day for a week. To discourage his attentions she became a manicure."
"Then he had his nails manicured every day, I suppose."
"Just so. However, I don't think he'll follow her any further."
"Why not?"
"Then she got employment with a dentist."—Houston Post.

Curable Case

The widow Gilroy had just told a friend of her engagement.
"But, my dear Margaret," said the friend, "you don't really mean to tell me that you intend marrying a man you've only known for three weeks?"
"Oh, yes," replied the young widow. "I can easily overcome that objection in time. I hope to know him tolerably well after we have been married a couple of years."—Philadelphia Record.

Poor Place to Fall Out

Through his megaphone one aviator shouted to another:
"Rise out of my level, or by the great—"
"All right, all right," shouted the other aviator, elevating his plane instanter. "We don't want to fall out here, do we?"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Didn't Want 'Em

"That beauty expert is a fake."
"Why?"
"Wanted to give me some wrinkles on my nose to look young."—Baltimore American.

Vare Club Wants Place of Honor

 when the capitol was dedicated and President Roosevelt made his address. Plan Changed This Year
 Heretofore the inaugural platform has been placed on the capitol plaza leading to the main entrance of the building, and a reviewing stand placed in front of the Executive Mansion on Front street, on the side next the river, but this will not be done this year as a platform in front of the main entrance is not considered large enough to accommodate all who will be present. The platform to be erected over the steps at Third street will be made to accommodate 1,600 persons.
 After Governor Brumbaugh has made his address he and the retiring Governor will take seats in a carriage that will be ready for them in the procession, and go over the route of parade, returning to review the procession.
 The procession will consist of the military, civic clubs and firemen. It will be the duty of the committee to say how many of the military organizations of the National Guard shall be present. As at present planned it is intended to form a provisional regiment of twelve companies, all from Harrisburg and vicinity, in order to make the expense of transportation as light as possible. The two Harrisburg infantry companies will be selected and ten others from nearby points, while the Governor's Troop of cavalry will act as the escort to the Governor. It has done for the past twenty years.
 Thus far the only political clubs that have signified their intention to be present are two from Philadelphia, one representing the Vares from South Philadelphia, and the other representing Penrose and McNichol from North Philadelphia. Harrisburg will have the Philadelphia and West End Republican clubs in line, and it is possible that Lancaster, Pittsburgh, Scranton and other cities will be represented by political clubs.
Harrisburg Firemen to March
 The State police will be in line, if it is possible to get them here, but at least some will be here to assist the local authorities in policing the city, and they may go in the procession. The Harrisburg firemen will turn out in their best style with the new apparatus.
 The Scotland School Soldiers' Orphan's may not be in line, the experiences of the last inauguration, when some of the little fellows suffered severely from the bitter cold, having made it doubtful as to whether it is good policy again to have the soldier lads a place in the procession.
 The committee is going to have some trouble arranging the civic line, as it is said that both of the Philadelphia clubs want to lead, the Vares claiming the head and the McNichol-Penrose forces also desiring to march first. That will be a matter for the committee to settle.
 The selection of a chief marshal also will be the work of the committee and it may select Major General C. Bow Dougherty of Wilkes-Barre, commander of the National Guard division, as the head of the parade. General Dougherty commanded the parade at the Tener inauguration, and it is held that his selection at the next inaugural will be a happy solution of the question, as there are always many aspirants to the chief marshalship—men who are not qualified to handle large bodies of men.

Shadow of a Prophecy

Servia Lives Under It, and It Spells Woe for Her Rulers
 In the last century, with the exception of Milan I, who was King for only a month and never even knew that he had succeeded, no King of Servia has reigned without being deposed, abdicating or coming to a violent end. Three rulers have been assassinated, and in the case of King Alexander, in 1903, his fate was shared by his wife.
 The Servian Kings live under the shadow of the remarkable prophecy of 1863, when a peasant in a Servian village ran through the streets shouting: "They are killing the Prince!" It was true, for Prince Michael Obrenovitch was assassinated. The man was taken to Belgrade, where he foretold other events which have since come true.
 He said: "I see a Prince who will be King, but he will govern badly and contract an unhappy marriage (Milan). Later I see a son who as a youth will ascend to the throne and who will be assassinated with his wife (King Alexander and Queen Draga). A King of another dynasty will succeed him, but he also will die a violent death."—Washington Post.

Oratory

Speaking of Wendell Phillips' remarkable gift as an orator, Horace Greely paid him the highest compliment when he said that there wasn't a boy who heard Phillips speak but thought he could speak as well—he spoke so naturally. Of the great actor Garrick it is related that he did not please country people or others unused to the stage because he was so natural that he did not seem to be acting at all.

Yes, Same Size

He felt it would be extravagant to call in a man for a little job like replacing a broken windowpane, so he took the measurements very accurately and went to the hardware store to buy the glass.
"Quite a simple job," he explained to the storekeeper. "In fact, a child could do the thing in a few minutes."
 An hour later he presented himself once more at the store, the proprietor of which greeted him cheerfully with the query:
"Same size, I suppose, sir."—Exchange.

A Place of Refuge

"Her husband is a brute."
"Why, what did he do?"
"You know how superstitious she is. Well, when she started to throw a plate at his head during a quarrel the heartless wretch stood square in front of a mirror."—Boston Transcript.
