Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

ST. ANDREWS MESSENGER

The Annual Christmas Number Was Distributed Yesterday to Members of Parish

Copies of the fourth annual Christmas number of St. Andrew's "Messenger" were distributed yesterday at the services at St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal church, this being the parish year book. St. Andrew's "Messenger" is the weekly paper of this church, the Christmas number each year being an enlarged edition as a parish annual.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

the church and Sunday school are likewise printed.

A new feature this year is a summary of the non-parochial organizations which meet in St. Andrew's parish house, including the newly-formed A. I. C. association of men; a list of the members of this society is printed.

The pamphlet is bound in an attractive Christmas cover, in colors, with a border of holly. The work on the annual was a present to the parish from one of the vestrymen, Edgar V. Leeds, who is president of the East End printshop.

EARLY MORNING WEDDING

Miss Margaret Sullivan and John L. Fisher Married by the Rev. J. Bradley Markward

Among the many interesting events of Christmas Day was the early morning wedding of John L. Fisher, 1939 Green street, and Miss Margaret V. Sullivan, of Rensselaer, Pa., which took place in the Bethlehem Lutheran church at fifteen minutes after 1 o'clock, after the midnight services at the church, the Rev. J. Bradley Markward, D. D., officiating. The church was decorated with Christmas greens. Miss Clara Cromleigh, church organist, played Lohengrin's March, and during the ceremony "O Perfect Love" was softly played, with the "Mendelssohn" march as a recessional. The bride wore a gown of wistaria with hat to match and corsage of violets. Miss Eva Fisher, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid, and Wayne L. Markley was best man.

Cold Weather Makes Coal Burn Faster

Don't expect coal to burn just the same in very cold weather that it does when it is warmer.

The colder the day the faster the coal will burn. You will need more draft on your furnace on a mild, sultry day than on a clear, cold day.

Just as soon as it gets cold we frequently have complaints that the coal is too soft. Now the coal is just the same, but it requires different treatment.

The colder the weather the less draft you will need. It's a good plan to use a larger size coal when it is very cold.

POTATOES AS FOOD

At First Only the Seed of the Tubers Was Thought Fit to Eat

When potatoes were first used for food it was the "seed" or "apple" that was used, and it was some time before the tuber was found to be the most delicious food. Up to the end of the seventeenth century the potato was out of the reach of people of moderate incomes. It is recorded that in 1632 potatoes were sold at 1 shilling (25 cents) a pound in the London markets, but the sale was small because so many people believed that the potato caused leprosy and fever. Others declared that they were endangering their souls if they ate the potato, since the tuber was not mentioned in the Bible.

The late Duke of Argyll in his history of Scotland says that little or nothing was known of the potato in Scotland until long past the middle of the eighteenth century. The Duchess of Buccleuch, in her "Household Book" for the year 1701, speaks of the potato as "an excellent of great rarity."

Hugh Miller, in his "Schools and Schoolmasters," says that his maternal grandfather about the year 1740 used to bring home in his pocket some three or four potatoes as great rarities grown by the gentry; for he was a friend of the head gardener at Balnagown castle. Thomas Carlyle tells us that his father got possession of four potatoes and knew so little about them that he hid them away for a possible time of want and that potatoes were saved to be eaten at Halloween. There is no doubt that the Irish were the first people to recognize the value of the potato as a staple article of food.—Youth's Companion.

CRATER LAKES

Easter Island Has a Wonderful One, and So Has Java

Wonderful lakes are often found inside the craters of volcanoes. One of these can be seen upon Easter island—the island which bears wonderful remains of an unknown ancient people. Inside a crater is a lake, near the borders of which lie several unfinished crowns composed of tufa, evidently destined for the huge figures on the shores of the island, but never completed. And on this lake float many waterfowl, one of which is said to be a goose unknown to science.

Another curious crater lake existed until recently within the icebound crater of a volcano in New Zealand. The water was heated to boiling point, but a short time ago an eruption of more than common violence tossed the whole lake into the air.

A most interesting crater lake will be seen in Java in the volcano of Papandayan, and it is possible to enter the crater and gaze down on the scene below. Standing on the rim, one can see the vast seething mass of boiling mud. Every now and then a wave of mud moves heavily along the sides of the chasm, only to fall back into the molten mass, and here and there columns of sulphur thrown out of the lake of mud are gradually forming walls.
