THE ARMY-NAVY GAMES NETS BIG MONEY FOR CHARITY

Matches Played in Philadelphia Yield $153,665.56 for Widows and Orphans—Annual Financial Report Issued

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—Notwithstanding the fact that the University of Pennsylvania received 300 seats less this year than ever before, the Pennsylvania Committee has been able to send the sum of $153,665.56 to the Army and Navy charities. Checks for this amount were sent to the treasurers of the respective charities by Dr. T. William White, the chairman of the Pennsylvania Committee. This makes a total of $153,665.56 which these two worthy charities have received from the proceeds of the sale of tickets allotted to the committee in charge of the grounds on which the games have been played.

This, until this year, amounted to one-third of the entire number of tickets sold. This year, however, the Pennsylvania Committee received considerably less than one-third of the total number of tickets, 25,000 having been allotted to the Army and Navy Athletic Association. Notwithstanding this fact, the net proceeds are only $5,000 less than they were in 1912. The tickets are now sold at $3 each.

The game was first played on Franklin Field in 1899; and in that year and the three following years the tickets allotted to the Pennsylvania Committee were distributed free. In those years about 5,000 went to the Army, 5,000 to the Navy, and the balance to the University.

The demand for tickets became so great that in 1903 the Pennsylvania Committee decided to sell its share of tickets and divide the proceeds between the societies which take care of widows and orphans of officers and men dying in the two services.

All of the games since 1899 have been played upon Franklin Field, with the exception of 1905, when the game was played at Princeton, and 1913, when the game was played on the Polo Grounds in New York City.

In 1909 the game was called off on account of the death of one of the cadets as a result of an injury received on the football field. Within the last seven years the seating capacity of Franklin Field has been increased from 19,244 to almost 32,000.

BASKETBALL AT THE ARMORY

State Collegians to Play Second Game of Series With Harrisburg

The Harrisburg basketball five will play the second game in the holiday series with the State Collegians this evening on the Armory floor. The local team has the advantage of a victory over the college players, having won the first game by a slight margin.

This is the only athletic event scheduled for tonight. The game will be called at 8:15 o'clock and will be followed by the regular dance. The enemy will be led by Parks, captain of the State College team.

YANKEES SOLD AT LAST

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Captain Tillinghast Huston New Owners

New York, Jan. 1.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Captain Tillinghast Huston finally purchased the New York American League baseball club from Frank J. Farrell, William S. Devery et al. at the Hotel Wolcott yesterday afternoon. This deal, which had hung fire for several weeks, was announced officially by President Ban Johnson at exactly 4:15 p. m.

"The transfer has been effected" (it was Ban's representative who spoke), "and every one is perfectly satisfied. Colonel Ruppert will act as president of the club under the new regime. Captain Huston will serve as secretary and treasurer. Wild Bill Donovan will manage. The other officials have not as yet been selected."

JEFFERIES WILL COACH

Ex-Champ Will Condition Willard for Bout With Johnson

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 1.—Before leaving for Chicago and New York, Jack Curley was offered a certified check for $5,000, which was on deposit in the First National bank, to guarantee the expense of the Johnson-Willard fight in June.

Curley immediately announced that the fight would certainly be held across the river at the Jockey Club, Juarez, and that he would arrange for the fight, which would be fought on March 6.

He has arranged for Willard's training place on the side of the line and has closed with Jim Jefferies and Jim Flynn to train and spar with the white hope.

NEW YORK GIANTS MADE A LARGE SUM FOR OWNERS

Net Profits of the National League Baseball Club for Three Seasons Were $416,791, According to Records of Brush Estate

New York, Jan. 1.—A statement of profits of the National Exhibition Company, the corporation which controls the New York National League club and the Polo Grounds, is contained in the report of the appraiser of the estate of the late John T. Brush, chief stockholder in the company, made public yesterday. During the three seasons preceding Mr. Brush's death—1910, 1911 and 1912—the total net profits of the company are given as $416,791.

The appraiser puts Mr. Brush's total estate at $170,102, and the net value at $415,625. The share of Mrs. Elsie Brush, the widow, is appraised at $134,315, and the same value is set on the shares of her two daughters, Eleanor Brush Hempstead and Natalie Lombard Brush.

Mr. Brush owned 1,306 shares of the National Exhibition Company. The executors of the estate, Harry N. Hempstead and Nelson Ashley Lloyd, placed their estimate of the value of this stock at $130,600, but Transfer Tax Appraiser John T. Martin, after hearing the testimony regarding the assets of that corporation, raised the value to $348,702. Among other property, Mr. Brush owned 966 shares in an Indianapolis clothing company, which are appraised at $99,498.

The report shows that the Polo Grounds are held under a lease, which was made in 1911 and which runs for twenty-one years from that date, at an annual rental of $50,000.

The lease is appraised as of no market value, and this is based by the expert real estate appraiser upon the ground that the property could be used for no other purpose and that its value will depend entirely upon the popularity of the sport of baseball.

The statement of the annual profits of the National Amusement Company for three years are given as follows: 1910—Season, $69,069; post-season games, $15,961; net profits, $85,030; dividends declared, $47,820.

1911—Season, $76,518; world's series, $75,507; net profits, $152,025; no dividends paid.

1912—Season, $84,804; world's series, $94,922; net profits, $179,726; no dividends declared.

STEELTON HIGH BEATEN

Reading Inaugurates Season With Victory, 38 to 24

Reading, Pa., Jan. 1.—Reading High inaugurated its basketball season here with an easy victory over Steelton High by a score of 38 to 24. The locals led at the end of the first half, 24 to 18. The visitors tallied but one field goal in the second half, and that was on a long chance shot. The work of Snyder and Wendler for the locals featured. The latter located the net, from the floor seven times, while Snyder scored thirteen besides 14 counters from the free line. Crump starred for Steelton with four field goals. The lineup: Steelton High. Reading High. Brandt F Snyder Jeffries F Wendler Crump C Wilson (Gaenzle)

TRIED TO CARVE BILLIARD BALLS FROM COW'S HORNS

Harry Cline, Who Will Play Here With the Champion Billiard Players' League, Born On a Farm in Lancaster County

Harry Cline, the ex-champion 18:2 billiard player was from his youth of an inventive turn of mind. The first real disappointment of his life was his failure to carve a set of billiard balls from the horns of a cow.

Cline's father was a farmer in Lancaster county, Pa., and Harry was of rural habits until he visited the billiard room of the country hotel at Lancaster, which his father conducted in connection with his farm.

Young Cline was at once fascinated with the game but on account of his youth was forbidden to play the game. At that day the environments of a billiard room were not considered the best influence to throw around one of tender years. But that was years ago and things have changed.

But Harry liked billiards and was determined to play the game. At first he utilized a corner of the left of his father's barn. There he covered a smooth pine board with green Canton flannel cloth, nailed it with cotton-covered lathes, converted an umbrella stick into a cue and used large marbles, such as the boys of those days called "Pebbles," for the balls. It was a unique invention and for a time satisfied the aspirations of the embryo champion, but not for long.

Harry yearned for some real billiard balls, just like the ones used on the table in his father's hotel. His investigation led him to the knowledge of the fact that the best balls were made of ivory, and he also learned that ivory came from the tusks of elephants.

Now, there were no elephants on the Cline farm in Lancaster county, but there was an old red and white cow with a reputation of being rather meek. If billiard balls were made from the tusks of elephants why not from the horns of cows?

At least so reasoned the young genius of the Cline family, and the reasoning was accompanied by visions of "Pebbles" heart's desire. And so with the aid of a rope and a saw and a neighbor's son the meek and lowly member of the Cline dairy was deprived of her portable weapon of defense.

And then the youthful Harry discovered that cows' horns could never be successfully used as billiard balls. Harry's disappointment was as deep as his secret but deeper than that was the mystery of the lost horn. The loss of this bit of headgear in no way affected the value of the cow as a milk producer but for years afterwards the whole countryside spoke of the Cline's one-horned cow.

In time the elder Cline withdrew his objections to his son taking up the game and his expertness soon won him more than local fame.

Later in life he annexed the three cushion championship and then in January, 1911, at Orchestra hall, Chicago, he won the 18:2 title from Calvin Demarest, but lost it to Willie Hoppe in the year of the same year at the New York theatre.

Cline is one of the members of the Champion Billiard Players' League and will be seen in this city this season when he will play other members of this organization of champions. He is now at his best as a billiard player and has hope of once more capturing his former honors. He is now fully convinced, however, that the best billiard balls are made of ivory, and many of the natives of Lancaster county, Pa., are not even yet wise to the secret of the lost horn.

DIVIDENDS AMOUNTING TO $561,500 WERE PAID TO-DAY

Industries, Bank and Railways Companies, Reports Show, All Were Run Successfully During the Year Just Closed

Waynesboro, Jan. 1.—To-day was dividend-paying day in Waynesboro and a large sum of money was paid out to stockholders in various local corporations.

Notwithstanding the industrial depression, there have been or will be paid out for the year by local corporations dividends amounting to $324,500. These dividends were paid as follows:

Frick Company, $105,000; Emerson-Brantingham Company, $52,500; Landis Tool Company, $40,000; Landis Machine Company, $48,000; C. G. & W. St. Ry. Co., $21,000; Waynesboro Water Company, $18,000; Bank of Waynesboro, $18,000; People's National bank, $12,000; Citizens' National bank, $8,000; Waynesboro Ice and Cold Storage Company, $1,400; Green Hill Cemetery Company, $300; Waynesboro & Maryland State Turpentine Company, $300; total, $324,500.

It is estimated by men in touch with such things that the dividends or interest received by local people on investments made by them with the money obtained from the sale of their Geiser Manufacturing Company stock, amounted to $150,000.

In addition the different banking institutions have paid out $48,000 in interest on deposits.

The bondholders of the C. G. & W. St. Ry. Co. were paid $39,000 in interest. This makes a total of $561,500 paid to Waynesboro people this year in dividends and interest.

TO ERECT APARTMENT HOUSE

The Contract for Remodeling the Washington House Has Been Let to D. E. Brindle

Carlisle, Jan. 1.—With the plans for the new structure following the colonial architecture executed in the construction of the J. Herman Basler Memorial Library, contracts for remodeling the Washington House and converting the same into what is known as the town of the prettiest structures in the town, were let to-day by Dr. Guy Carlton Lee to D. E. Brindle. The greater portion of the building will be occupied by the National Society for Broader Education, of which Dr. Lee is the head.

Dr. Lee is now contemplating the erection of a twenty-apartment building in the rear of the structure, plans for which are being prepared by Architect M. L. Kast, of Harrisburg.

Working on Trolley Line
Chambersburg, Jan. 1.—The proposed trolley line connecting Chambersburg with Fort Loudon and giving Fulton county its first railroad is well under way and Edward J. Post, D. H. Patters, Herbert A. Duffy, George A. Harris and E. W. Lamberson, all greatly financially interested in the scheme, are about to secure a charter.

There is no doubt of the granting of the charter. Enough stock already has been taken to warrant immediate work to cover the necessary preliminary surveys. These completed, the work of construction of the line, about ten miles, will quickly commence.

Horse on Top of Surrey

Gettysburg, Jan. 1.—The unusual sight of a horse struggling on top of a survey was afforded attendants at the early service at Conewago Chapel, as the result of an accident in which a team belonging to Francis G. Smith, of near Mount Rock, figured.

Mr. Smith has taken his family to the church and after they had gotten out of the vehicle, was about to tie the horses when the large bell on the church started to ring. The horses backed over the ice and plunged into the trolley cut, twelve feet below. The survey went down first and one of the horses fell directly on top of it. Both animals were slightly injured and the top and other parts of the vehicle were wrecked.

Dr. Emrick Is Dead

Carlisle, Jan. 1.—Dr. M. L. Emrick, one of the most prominent physicians of Cumberland county, died at his home on West Louthier street at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He suffered an attack of neuritis which resulted in fatal complications.

Dr. Emrick was born in Augustaville, Northumberland county, Pa., June 11, 1841, and was therefore, in his fifty-first year. After completing his preparatory studies, he entered Jefferson Medical College from which institution he graduated in the class of 1888.

Out Down Postal Force

Gettysburg, Jan. 1.—The likely curtailment in the force at the Gettysburg postoffice is indicated, it is conceded, by two orders received by Postmaster Duncan from the department at Washington. Both became effective to-day.

The first order calls for the closing of the money order and registered mail windows at 7 o'clock in the evening, and the second order provides for the discontinuance of the delivery of city carriers' mail at their window from 6 to 7 o'clock in the evening.

LIFE TERMER GOES FREE

Man Who Stole Two Hams Paroled by Michigan Governor

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 1.—Governor Ferris has ordered the parole of Michigan's most widely-known prisoner, Lewis Oliver, a "lifer" in Marquette, known as the man who was sentenced for life for stealing two hams.

Oliver was sent to Marquette by Judge Howard West, of the Ingham county circuit court, under the habitual criminal act. It was Oliver's third conviction for burglary.

In 1891 Oliver was sent to Jackson for three years for burglary. In less than three years he was back. The second time the Judge sentenced him to ten years in Jackson and warned him that if he came back a third time he would get life under the law.

The second sentence ended March 23, 1894, and on March 28, 1894, Oliver broke into a meat store and stole two hams and what cash was in the drawer, $3.50. He was wanted to plead guilty, but Judge West refused the plea. Oliver was convicted and sentenced at the sentence when it was delivered.

SEIDERS HELD FOR MURDER

Is Charged With Slaying John E. Mills in Holdup at Lebanon Last Week

Lebanon, Jan. 1.—Raymond Seiders was held for March court yesterday afternoon by Alderman Miller, after evidence had been given sufficient to warrant his holding on the charge of homicide. Seiders is charged with being implicated in the holdup and robbery of the late John E. Mills, of this city, who was also shot and seriously wounded at the same time and whose death occurred several days after the shooting.

Mr. Mills, a son of the murdered man, was called upon for testimony and stated that his father reiterated his statement of the day before that Raymond Seiders slew him. He said he told his father to be sure of his statement, saying, "Pop, we don't want to convict an innocent man," and then asked him if he was sure that Seiders was guilty. His answer was, "It was Raymond Seiders."

City Council at a special meeting yesterday offered a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties responsible for the death of Mills.
