RED AND BLUE MAKE BLACK

But That Result Depends Upon the Colors Being Perfect

We are told by the textbooks on light that red glass is red because it absorbs all the other rays of the spectrum and transmits only the red; that blue glass absorbs all except the blue, and so with glass of every other color.

The reason for the violet light is that no red glass made is of sufficiently pure color to absorb all the blue and green waves and no blue glass is sufficiently pure to absorb all the red and orange rays.

Thoughtful Dog

They were swapping dog stories. Abner Morgan had "all the best of it" with his yarns of the extraordinary intelligence exhibited by a collie belonging to his uncle.

"That was a pretty clever dawg. Ab," drawled he, "an' I make no doubt he was just as knowin' as you let on; but, say, he wasn't a marker to a dawg my old man owned. Bays, the devotion of that dawg to the old man was short amazin'. Onct he heard the old man say he was pressin' for money, so he went an' died the day before the dog tax was due!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The children of New York city are just now in the midst of a joyous skating season.
