LARGE EVANGELISTIC MEETING the Many People Attend Services at Marietta Yesterday Afternoon - Marietta, Jan. 4.—One of the largest evangelistic meetings ever held in this section was conducted yesterday afternoon in Central hall by Evangelist R. M. Honeyman, who is conducting a series of meetings in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The oreffestra of the Presbyterian church and Miss Gertrude Y. Villee, the lady cornetist, Gertrude Y. Villee, the may cornetist, augmented the large choit.

Evangelist Honeyman took for his subject "Christ and the Crowd" and preached a forceful sermon. Many gave their lives to the Lord at this service. There were many people present from the surrounding district. In the evening there was a large number present, when he spoke in the Methodist church on "The Cross, the Crook and the Crown." The clergymen of the town assisted at the afternoon services. The summer of "trail-hitters" of the Nicholson-Hemminger campaign in Columbia were present at the services of the day.

publicans, 11; Democrats, 10.

Muskrat trapping is one of the important industries in Salem county during the winter. Trappers and native hunters in the county found revisions in the game laws distasteful last year, and they took out their resentment against the administration upon Senator Smick. Senator Allen is a farmer and besides being pledged to seek some important changes in the trapping and hunting laws, he will east his vote for revisions in the State school and road most spectacular fires ever seen in this section of the country swept away more than a million dollars' worth of propin this city and Camden yesterday.

The big ferry terminal of the Reading railway at Kaighn's Point, Camden, through which millions of Philadelphians have passed on their way to the seashore, was burned to the ground by flames' which are supposed to have been started by a carelessly discarded eigar butt. Adjoining the ferry house the immense woodworking mill of C. B. Cole's Sons was also destroyed, while dozons of passenger coaches in the terminal sheds were burned to their tracks. The other fire leveled the large lumber yard of Charles Este Company, on Glenwood avenue, between Nineteenth and Twenty-first streets, this city, also burning out the fronts of a row of dwellings for squares. The fire engine of Company No. 45, which ventured too near the bisze, was also consumed in the flames and left a tangled mass of Nearly 100 firemen were overcome y smoke or singed by the flames at he Este fire. A dozen ambulances were not the spot and the doctors and nurses ere kept busy for hours treating the jured, none of whom, however was rejoud.

The loss to the Este plant will exceed $500,000 and the same sum was lost to the railroad and the Coles concern in the Camden fire.

Captain "Bill" McDonald is now United States marshal for the northern district of Texas.

Captain "Bill" surrendered, for the first time in his life to anybody, to Miss Pearl Wilkirson, a handsome and socially prominent young woman of Quanal, Tex., and they were married there several days ago. So the captain's trip to New Orleans is a honeymoon affair as well as an official one. Captain "Bill" is past middle age.

Mrs. McDonald went with Captain "Bill" and the prisoner into United States Marshal Miller's office, where the prisoner was turned over to the marshal there.

"Oh, I reformed about seven or eight years ago," said Captain "Bill," seated in the taxi with his bride, when asked how long since he resigned from the ranger service.

past, renewed activities were begun to-day by the Home and War Belief com-mittee. Although the committee's were closed for several days around the holidays, they have been a busy place since the opening of the rooms on December 19. A large number of women have made application for work during the last two weeks, and the committee has been able to supply regular and eteidy work to all who were deserving and who needed it.

The Home and War Relief commit-tee of Harrisburg is only one of hun-dreds of similar organizations now be-ing formed throughout the United States. There is now hardly a city of any size which has not some such relief organization, whatever the local name may be. Harrisburg's committee is composed of men and women from all parts of the city who are interested in and are working for, the relief of those parts of the city who are interested in and are working for, the relief of those who are in need at home, and those who are in need at home, and those who are suffering from the effects of the war abroad. The committee desires to emphasize the relative importance of the rork which it has undertaken, and it believes that its title best typifes this importance. Most important of all is home relief; therefore, that is the first part of the committee's name and work. The next important work is foreign relief, and the committee is, therefore, known as the Home and War Relief committee.

Thus its object, a twofold one, is relief work, not charity. There are just now many people here at home who are in need, and do not seek charity, but seek work, and are willing to work. It is to assist such and to provide work for the women, when it is not to be had by men, that the committee hopes to tide deserving families now in need over the crisis and thus afford temporary relief. The work knows neither creed nor class. It is neutral and non-sectarian. It aims to help all who are in need of temporary relief and to injure none.

The work of the committee is car-by the home department. It acts as a kind of general store for all the divi-sions, and it aims to keep all merchan-dise which is necessary to this work. The home division receives applica-tions for work from women whose hus-bends, fathers and sons are out of em-plement, and whose families are in ployment, and whose families are in temporary need. It gives out work to all who ask for it and are found deall who ask for it and are found de-serving, and it pays fair living wages for the sewing which is given out. More than one hundred and fifty women have applied for and received work in the ten days the rooms have been open, and the great eagerness to do this work shows the need for it to be great. The Red Cross division follows the work of the Red Cross Society throughout the world, collecting funds for surgical and medical aid and supplies.

The foreign division will give such relief to the sufferors abroad as is possible though the suffer or subroad as is possible though the suffer or subroad as is possible though the suffer or suffer or supplies the surface of the suffer or supplies the surface or supplies the

The photographs published herewith of the German cruiser Geler, interned at Honolulu, and of a British cruiser heading off the British steamship Indradeo were taken by E. W. Dexter, wireless telegraph operator of the latter vessel, during a voyage from Yokohama to New York. The Indradee, now docked at New York, took more than four weeks n the passage and went far out of her course to avoid the chance of being taken by a German war ship. After the Indradee had been halted by the war ship, as shown in the photograph, she was allowed to proceed when her identity be came known. Mr. Dexter said this took place at a point in the South Atlantic soon after the Indradeo had passed throu gh the Panama Canal. He said he was not permitted to reveal the exact location or the name of the cruiser.

AUSTRIA'S GREAT NAVAL BASE BOMBARDED BY ALLIES' WAR SHIPS.

It is announced from London that more than thirty French and British war shos have bombarded the Austrian seaports of Pola and Rovigno. Pola is the principal naval harbor and arshal of Austria. It is almost completely landlocked and an extensive system of fortifications defends its intrance. It was a war harbor in the time of the Romans, who conquered it in 178 B. C. The town has a poulation of 45,000. Rovigno is a thriving place, with 12,000 inhabitants engaged in ship building, the sardne fishery and the production of olive oil and wine.
