The White Sale Has Exceptional Offerings for Friday

The most beautiful lingerie and blouses it has ever been our privilege to sell abound in this White Sale, revealing a wealth of daintiness in sheer fabrics, fine trimmings and smart designing.

The vistas of snowy white underwear on the Second Floor and in the specially trimmed windows mirror their message of quality and beauty that would appeal to all lovers of fine lingerie were the prices higher.

The White Sale, as all its predecessors, is noted for the worthiness of the goods which are all perfect in workmanship and possess distinctive features of clever needlework that make the prices wonderfully attractive. And for Friday unusually interesting values are offered:—

Thaw Picture Play's Return Engagement
Thousands braved the inclement weather yesterday to witness Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in "The Threads of Destiny." The Photoplay theatre was constantly filled to capacity and the management agrees to return this famous picture Friday, January 15.
Francis X. Bushman will be featured to-day in "Any Woman's Choice," a two-act S. and A., in connection with Marc McDermott, who leads in an Edison two-act feature, "The Premature Compromise." Special Friday, "The Story of the Blood Red Rose," with movies of the mummies' parade, and King Dunlap, the Daredevil, stopping an automobile running at 19 miles an hour.

KILLED FOR SPURNING LOVE

Suitor of Miss Lewis, a Bronx School Teacher, Keeps Threat by Shooting Her

New York, Jan. 7.—Susan Lewis, a Bronx school teacher, 21 years old, was shot and killed in East 179th street yesterday afternoon by Frank Berchman, 22, who had been in love with her since they were in school together, and who had threatened vengeance when his offers of marriage were finally refused three months ago.

It was the end of the second unfortunate love affair of the sons of—

Miss Lewis was taken to Fordham hospital by Dr. Golden, where it was found that one bullet had penetrated her breast. The others had lodged in her arms. She died at 8.30 o'clock.

While she was still conscious Berchman was taken to her bedside. She raised herself on one elbow and said: "That is the man who shot me."

KILL LOBSTERS KINDLY

Put Them in Cold Water and Slowly Bring Them to a Boil

Boiling over a slow fire is the happiest death a lobster can meet, so it has been determined at the Jersey marine biological station. The experiments were carried out by Joseph Sine, a well known biologist, for the Isle of Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, whose members associated the prevalent method of killing lobsters with medieval torture.

Lobsters, says Mr. Sine, are extremely difficult to kill. Piercing the brain does not seem to cause the lobster more than temporary annoyance, since his brain is a mere nerve ganglion the size of a hemp seed. He has to be killed all over. To throw him into boiling water fails to do the work either mercifully or quickly since he struggles violently to escape for about two minutes.

The pleasantest way to end a lobster's troubles, Mr. Sine finds, is the

Too Many Railroad Commissions

As a rule the state railroad commissions have failed to help and have generally hurt the national transportation systems. The infinite variety and conflicting nature of their regulations have done very little for the public which the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot do as effectively. This is not a criticism of the motives or abilities of these commissions, but merely of the fact that it is not humanly possible for forty-seven commissions to participate in any one job and not make a mess of it.—"The World's Work" for January.
