OFFERS OKLAHOMA LANDS

Sales Force Here in a Pullman Car to Obtain Purchasers of Properties Near McAlester

Standing on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near the Market street subway is a Pullman car fitted up to instruct those interested in the manner and method of obtaining Indian land soon to be opened for settlement in Oklahoma. The land belongs to Choctaw Indian Nation, and will be opened by the government, but those in charge of the sale here do not represent the government.

The car is lighted throughout with electricity and contains United States geological maps and folios describing every acre of land to be disposed of. The promoters of the sales proposition say the lands are rich in minerals, being known officially by act of Congress as the segregated mineral lands. They assert also that the lands are fine farming and grazing tracts, and have "oil possibilities." The lands are described as being in the center of a developed oil field, and, unlike other similar lands, are not to be homesteaded, and do not require residence thereon.

The car is sent out by the Real Estate Exchange of McAlester, Oklahoma, near which place the land to be disposed of is located. The tour is under the direction of the president of the exchange, who is assisted by five demonstrators.

The McAlester Exchange is standing all of the expenses of the trip. In addition to the maps and folios the car contains many views said to have been taken on the lands, and a number of photographs of the city of McAlester, and other interesting exhibits of Western developments. The car will remain here several days and be open to the public daily, including Sunday, from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. There is no charge for admittance.

The Poor Beneficiary

Some nations were fighting fiercely. "Why are you fighting so?" inquired the bystanders, moved at length to curiosity.

"To save civilization," replied the nations severally.

Here a dragged figure rose from the mire under the feet of the combatants and limped lamely away.

"And who are you?" asked the bystanders, with a disposition to get to the bottom of the matter.

"Don't speak to me! I'm Civilization!" the figure made answer, somewhat pettishly.—New York Post.

DEMMING AGAIN HEADS LOCAL FIREMEN'S UNION

Man Who Was Responsible for the Organization Is Honored at Annual Meeting Last Evening at Hope Fire House

Colonel Henry C. Demming, who was responsible for the forming of the Harrisburg Firemen's Union sixteen years ago, was unanimously re-elected president at the annual meeting of the union in the Hope fire house last evening. He has been president of the union since its organization.

The other officers elected were: M. M. Tawney, secretary and treasurer, to succeed N. George Peters; executive committee, Albert Mehallie, Edward Wert, Ray L. Ayars, Martin Gastroek, George H. Anderson, John H. Williamson, E. L. Whitmoyer, Charles Downey, A. L. Patton, George Toomey, Jesse Smith, F. K. Smith, William Bowers.

All bills contracted during the State firemen's convention were reported paid, with $43.45 remaining in the treasury, by the finance committee. This balance will be turned into the treasury of the union.

Colonel Demming spoke at length on the union, during its life through the early stages of inactivity until the present organization. He had been invited to speak several times because the efficiency of the Harrisburg department had been recognized, the latest request coming from the Allentown Firemen's Union. The Friendship delegates, which left the union before the State convention, did not attend last night's meeting.

BETTER FREIGHT SERVICE

Pennsylvania Railroad Informs Chamber of Commerce of Quick Delivery at Sunbury

W. J. Rose, division freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has advised the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce that less than carload shipments of merchandise made by Harrisburg merchants and manufacturers to Sunbury, Pa., will be delivered at Sunbury about 10 A. M. the day following shipment from this city.

A shipper having stated his freight going to Sunbury was not received there until the second morning, the chamber of commerce requested the co-operation of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the matter. Prompt action was taken by Mr. Rose, with the result that Harrisburg firms doing business in Sunbury have a big advantage in their favor now.

The chamber is arranging to have on the reading table in its headquarters books from the chambers of commerce from London, Leeds, Hull, Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and Bristol, Eng.; Glasgow, Edinburgh and Leith, Scotland, and Belfast and Londonderry, Ireland, for the benefit of the local members.

Several copies of the book, "Harrisburg the Heart of Distribution," have been sent to business men in New Haven, Conn., on requests from that place.

LUDWIG BARNAY, THE ACTOR, PUT A CRIMP IN HIS ROYAL CRITIC

The Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, who died in his eighty-eighth year, will be remembered as an enthusiastic supporter of the drama. In this connection an amusing story was told by Ludwig Barnay, the actor, in his memoirs. Barnay was playing at Meiningen in the role of Hamlet. The performance had begun and trumpets were ushering in the king and prince for the second scene. The advance of the procession was checked by a loud "Halt!" from the stalls. It was the Duke, who had entered unnoticed and proceeded to amend the performance.

"That's not the way to do it! Instead of a salvo of trumpets you must play the Danish national anthem. And the king and prince shouldn't come on together; they haven't met yet!"

"Nonsense!" murmured Barnay. Unfortunately he was overheard.

"And, pray, why is it nonsense, M. Barnay?"

The actor explained that, according to the text, Hamlet and the king had already met outside.

"M. Grabowsky," called the Duke to the producer, "continue as M. Barnay wishes. He is quite right. I never mind acknowledging a mistake!"

The piece proceeded. When the players' scene was reached and Barnay was reciting the actor's part, with "Aeneas' Tale to Dido," he spoke the lines hesitatingly.

"M. Barnay," interposed the Duke, "why did you deliver those lines so badly?"

"Because Hamlet is not an actor, sire, but only an amateur!"

"But Polonius praises his acting!"

"Ah, your highness," answered Barnay, "but then Polonius was a courtier, and courtiers find everything that princes do marvelous!"

The Duke laughed heartily and interrupted no more that day.

NO RIGHTS IN WAR BUT ALL WRONG SAYS GRAVES

Women Among Auditors Knit for Sufferers Abroad While Former Spy Lectures—Account of Conditions is Sane and Instructive

"I am not here to convince you of the rights of any nation now at war in Europe, for there are no rights in this war—all wrongs," said Dr. Armgaard Karl Graves, for twelve years the Kaiser's spy, in his lecture last night at the Majestic theatre on inside facts concerning the European struggle, and this declaration tells much of the nature of his talk.

The theatre was not filled, but fairly well occupied by interested persons who did not hesitate to ask questions of the speaker at the close of his talk, when he gave that opportunity. During the evening several of the women in the audience were busily engaged in knitting for the war sufferers, while listening attentively to all that was said.

Few Startling Statements

Dr. Graves said little that was startling. He did not seem to exaggerate in his statements, but gave a remarkably sane and instructive account of present conditions in Europe, as well as of incidents immediately preceding the outbreak of hostilities. He told some things that may not be generally known, produced his proofs, and it is safe to say, imposed on nobody's credulity.

When asked if he did not think war could be prevented by mutual agreement between nations, the speaker strenuously objected to the idea that universal brotherly love is possible, asking, "why, if God intended us all to be alike, did he give the Japs slit eyes?"

Some Striking Points

Many interesting statements made by Dr. Graves cannot all be remembered by those who heard him, except as they are recalled from time to time as events transpire which they concern. Just of a few of his most striking points were, that German aircraft would have nothing to gain by threatening London, for they would have to sail away after a bombardment, being able only to attack, not to occupy; that the Germans would have no trouble in taking Paris, but would only lose by doing so because an immense force would be required to garrison the city when occupied; that Germany will hardly be able to hold Belgium when peace is declared; that the Russians are now aiming at Constantinople, and that Italy will fare well at the close of the conflict, no matter what turn affairs take.

713 W. C. T. U. MEMBERS

Organization Is Largest Women's Body in World Says Speaker

A history of the temperance movement in this country was given at a meeting of the Dauphin County Women's Christian Temperance Union at the Methodist church yesterday afternoon by the president, Mrs. M. M. Stees. She spoke of the W. C. T. U. as the largest women's organization in the world. There are 713 members of the organization in this city, many of whom were received during the Stough evangelistic campaign through the efforts of Miss Sara Palmer, of the Stough party.

It was decided at the meeting to publish a book in which should appear the names of all applicants for liquor licenses in the county, together with the signers of petitions and the owners of property rented for saloon purposes. The reason ascribed for the move is to give wide publicity to such names in the hope of giving prominence to church members who appear in the lists.
