LEAPED FROM TRAIN TO RIVER

Sensational Suicide of Young Man at Girard Avenue Bridge

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—From the rear platform of a train which left Broad Street station yesterday at 5.40 p. m. an unidentified man leaped into the Schuylkill river as the train crossed the Girard avenue bridge. Efforts on the part of the police and park guards to find the body proved fruitless, so turbulent and muddy was the water after the heavy rains. A Policeman Hill of the Fourteenth district, was a passenger in the car from which the young man made his leap to death. Idell said last night that he noticed the young man in the car, and watched him because he seemed to be in a nervous state. Suddenly as the train shot upon the bridge the young man, who was seated near the rear of car, ran upon the platform and in an instant had hurled himself over the railing, and his body went flying into the river, many feet below.

STEEL WORKS SLIGHTLY INCREASING OPERATIONS

A Number of the Large Companies Are Running This Week at From Forty to Fifty Per Cent. of Their Capacity

New York, Jan. 15.—"The Iron Age" says the steel works are increasing slightly their rate of operations and for this week a number of large companies are running at 40 to 50 per cent. of capacity. The Steel Corporation's percentage is 45 and it may be able to increase this shortly to 50, as specifications are rather better.

Taking the trade through, the first half of January has brought no new turn. The railroads naturally require some time to canvass and finance their needs and have so indicated in response to intimations that early and very considerable buying was now expected from them.

Wage readjustments, affecting principally the highest paid men, are being made by a number of steel companies and are an inevitable result of the long depression and the low-priced business on which mills will be working for three months and probably longer.

Rail buying thus far and that in prospect gives no assurance of more than partial employment for rail mills through the winter. One large system, in fact, aims to avoid January and February rollings because of suspected effects of extremely low temperatures.

It is not decided how much of the 150,000 tons the Pennsylvania railroad has definitely decided to buy will be given out this month. A conference with the rail companies this week is taking up variations from the last specifications. The New York Central has placed a part of the 40,000 tons on which it asked prices on January 4. The New Haven is to buy 18,000 tons and the Boston & Maine 15,000 tons. This week the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis has placed 5,000 tons at Ensley. Western roads have given little sign of their probable wants.

Thus far the Canadian rail mill at the Saginaw has booked 17,000 tons for shipment to this side—8,000 tons for the Pere Marquette, 6,000 tons for the Grand Trunk for Michigan delivery, 1,700 tons for the Big Four and 2,000 tons additional for the New York Central. All are open-heart railroads, sold for the most part at $25.50 at mill. Further amounts are under negotiation. Meantime this invasion has caused no small commotion in the rail trade.

Foreign rail business matures slowly—20,000 tons talked of for Russia and 27,000 tons for Portugal. German mills have cut deeply to get neutral business. After taking 27,000 tons in Norway at $25.75, they have now captured 9,000 tons in Denmark at $26.16 delivered. Queensland has bought 20,000 tons from Great Britain and the new mill in New South Wales has been given a small order.

The B. & O. order for 2,000 cars was really the reinstating of business placed months ago. Pending car inquiries are about 2,500.

A vessel placed with an eastern shipyard last week makes a total of nine orders in the East within a month, requiring 40,000 to 45,000 tons of steel, and more are in prospect. High freights and the British government's use of so many vessels are paving the way for great activity at British yards.

QUAIL DISEASE REAPPEARS

Third Outbreak of Malady Discovered in Birds Sent From National Park For Examination

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—The third known outbreak of quail disease has been discovered by the Bureau of Animal Industry in quail sent for examination from the National zoological park. These birds were received a few days ago from two of the principal importers in widely separated parts of the country. Most of the quail now on the market are imported from Mexico and are entered at the port of Brownsville, Tex. Under these circumstances all outstanding permits have been canceled and further importations suspended for this season.

Quail disease, a highly infectious malady, to which all our native quail are apparently subject, was discovered in 1907 and was traced to a number of States. A second outbreak occurred in 1912, but was checked through the suspension of importation of birds from Mexico from which most of the supply of birds was drawn. Last year practically no birds were imported from Mexico and no quail disease was reported. This year a limited number of birds have been permitted to enter at Brownsville subject to quarantine maintained through the co-operation of the biological survey and the bureau of animal industry.

All birds which were suspected of having the disease were examined at Brownsville or forwarded to this department, but not until January 5, were the first undoubted cases of disease detected. Game commissioners and sportsmen who are interested in the introduction of quail or who may have purchased birds for restocking this season are requested to advise the department if any of the birds are known to have died from disease of any kind. As a measure of precaution any birds now in captivity should be kept under close observation for a period of at least ten days and in case any of them die the bodies should be forwarded to the bureau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture for examination.

A SAFE WAY TO STOP INDIGESTION

Without Fear of Weakening the Stomach. Works Fine in Any Case and Brings Relief in Ten Minutes

The greatest folly of to-day is committed by people with weak dyspeptic stomachs who take artificial digesters to cure indigestion. Artificial digesters—pepsin pills, etc.—simply encourage a lazy or tired out stomach to shirk its work by doing most of its work for it. This is fine for a time but as every chronic dyspeptic knows, artificial digesters soon lose their efficiency. Where one once did the trick three or four are now required and the poor old stomach itself is worse off than ever.

Your stomach must be strong enough to expand and contract with a sort of churning movement so as to mix its digestive juices with your food. If your stomach isn't strong enough to properly churn your food, you will keep right on having indigestion after every meal until you make it strong.

There is one stomach remedy that every dyspeptic can depend on as surely as that the sun will rise to-morrow and that is the famous old M-O-N-A Stomach Tablets. Most stomach remedies let the stomach rest and digest the food themselves. M-O-N-A won't digest anything but it will strengthen and stimulate the stomach and make it do its own digesting. It stops stomach pains, gas, bloating, burning, belching, etc., in ten minutes and does still better by making the flabby, inflamed and inactive stomach walls grow strong and elastic and able to do their own churning. M-O-N-A Tablets never lose their effect and unlike mere artificial digesters need not be used forever. A few weeks use is generally sufficient to put any stomach in fine shape and H. C. Kennedy and many other leading druggists hereabouts sell it with that understanding, agreeing to refund money to anyone who does not get complete relief.—Adv.

THE BARBER SHOP OF THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

It is in New York city and is undoubtedly the only one of its kind in the world. Every night after its proprietor finishes with his razor he goes to prayer meeting and gives his testimony for the benefit of New York's "down and outs," who have been under his ministrating care.

"Jake the Barber," who has charge of this new tonsorial atelier, once adorned shops in some of New York's fashionable-hotels. In an evil day he yielded to his thirst for strong drink and fell into the ways of the "down and outs." He roamed the streets in want until he finally emerged into this new light. The walls of this novel barber shop are covered with texts and religious mottoes. Back of the customer, but reflected in the glass, are the Ten Commandments, and wherever the man in the chair may turn his head he may read some sentiment that ought to lead him to a better life. "Jake the Barber" says that he finds more joy in living now than he ever did, for not only is he re-established in his trade, but he also is the means of aiding his fellow men.
