Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any--that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment--that's all--Adv.

INDICT FORMER HEAD OF CARLISLE INDIAN SCHOOL

Ex-Superintendent Freedman and Clerk Nori Both Must Stand Trial for Alleged Wrongs at Federal Institution

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 15.—A Federal Grand Jury yesterday found three true bills against S. J. Nori, ex-chief clerk, and Moses Freedman, ex-superintendent of the Carlisle Indian school. In one bill both are charged with destroying and burning public records. In a second four counts are found against each for embezzling public moneys, and in a third Freedman alone is indicted on the charge of embezzling receipts from the sale of tickets to athletic games.

According to the first indictment the two are charged with willfully destroying and burning receipts for money, 20 in all, given by Nori for individual Indian student money accounts, which had been transferred by William H. Miller, financial clerk of the school, to Nori, as chief clerk, for use by Nori and Freedman in purchasing railroad transportation for students, the names of whom are unknown because of the destruction of these receipts. The allegation is that the receipts were burned on or about March 10, 1914. The second indictment says it was their duty to take care of moneys belonging to the students until such time as they were needed for payment, among other things, of the expenses incurred by these students in traveling from their homes. The money is usually placed on deposit for these students, to their credit, with the Farmers' Trust Company of Carlisle, according to the indictment, subject to withdrawal by check by the individual student to whom it belongs, only upon the written approval of the superintendent and chief clerk.

Two sisters, Mrs. James Fulton, of Illinois; Mrs. Mary Field, of Carlisle, and one brother, William Beistline, of this place, also survive.

Found Dead in Bed

Gettysburg, Jan. 15.—Mrs. H. F. Heiges, of Cashtown, was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the home of her son, Clarence A. Heiges, on Buford street, where she had been visiting since last Saturday. She had intended to return home to-day. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Heiges and her daughter-in-law had been shopping in town and, during their trip, the elder Mrs. Heiges purchased a piano for her little grandchildren to whom she was much attached. She was apparently in perfect health and spent a pleasant evening at the home on Buford street. A physician pronounced death due to a stroke of paralysis.

Val Smith Buys Store

Waynesboro, Jan. 15.—A notable business change was effected here yesterday when Val Smith, proprietor of the dry goods and men's furnishing stores in the Wolf block, East Main street, purchased the 5 and 10 cent department store of Charles W. Schaibley. He will operate it in connection with his other stores. Mr. Schaibley, as has been told, will go to Hagerstown to take a part in the management of the large department store of his brother-in-law, Charles H. Eyerly.

Carlisle, Jan. 15.—At a meeting of the Mount Holly Springs Industrial League Wednesday evening a proposition presented by several prominent Philadelphia shoe manufacturers for the location of a shoe factory in that town was considered. The matter will be thoroughly investigated and it was stated there is a prospect of securing the factory which would employ at the outset about fifty persons.

THREE CHILDREN "SOLD"

Grandmother Made Legal "Purchaser" by Warring Parents

Jamaica, L. I., Jan. 15.—Three children were sold here yesterday for $1. The transaction, although seeming to an entirely legal manner, was accomplished in an entirely legal manner. A quit claim was filed with the county clerk by the children's parents, who thus deed the children, the eldest of whom is 8, to their paternal grandmother until they become of age. In consideration of the sum of $1 they relinquish all rights in their offspring.

William A. Malone and Marian Malone, of Dunton, are the parents who have "sold" their children. The couple quarreled and separated, but could agree upon no method of disposing of their children, who are William A., aged 8; Marian A., aged 7, and Robert A., aged 2 years.

Lyman E. Warren, 261 Broadway, the husband's lawyer in his marital litigation, suggested the deed as the solution. The arrangement proved satisfactory to both husband and wife, and Mrs. Georgianna Malone, of Philadelphia, mother of the children's father, agreed to be the "purchaser."

Mrs. Malone obligates herself to "care for, control, maintain and educate" the children until they are 21 years of age.

JUDGE TO JUDGE JUDGE

And Both Were in Auto That Caused the Charge

New York, Jan. 15.—A judge judging a judge will be the unusual spectacle presented in Great Neck, L. I., next Monday.

There are two justices of the peace in that village—William A. Dodge and George W. Hayden, close friends. A day or so ago Judge Dodge took Judge Hayden for a ride in his automobile. The machine carried a 1915 license plate, which is against the law. It shouldn't be shown before February 1. Motorcycle Policeman Hope stopped the machine carrying the Great Neck judiciary and handed Judge Dodge a summons to appear in court next Monday.

Now, under the circumstances, the only court in which he can be heard is Judge Hayden's. Judge Dodge's defense is that he didn't know he was violating the law.

FORGOT DINNER TROUSERS

That Was the Last Jolt Justice Tompkins Got After Being Spurned as "Suspicious"

New York, Jan. 15.—Supreme Court Justice Tompkins of Nyack, who, for pastime, races horses with Judge Sagar at Goshen, won't pack his grip in a hurry again when he leaves to keep a dinner engagement.

The Justice was scheduled Tuesday night as principal speaker at the dinner of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society. He left Poughkeepsie, where he is sitting, and by mistake got out at Phillips Manor. After walking half an hour in the storm and darkness he came upon a house with a light in it, but a servant refused to let him in because he was rain-soaked and looked suspicious, she said.

Justice Tompkins rang the bell again and the house owner came to the door and, after explanations, let him telephone for a taxi. He was late for the dinner and rushed to his room at the Florence Inn. He had started to put on evening clothes when he found he had forgotten his trousers. He had to appear in court attire, which did not prevent him from making a good address.

"DOCTOR" ST. GAUDEN'S WORK

Stonemason at Work When New York Sculptor, Horrified, Stops Sacrilege

New York, Jan. 15.—A storm of protest has been brewing among New York sculptors the last few days over a report that the heroic statue of Admiral Farragut in Madison square was being "doctored" by a stonemason. The statue was done by Augustus St. Gaudens, and its elaborate pedestal, with a circular bench, was designed by Stanford White.

One of the members of the National Sculpture Society who was passing the statue on Monday saw a workman in overalls and with stone chisel and hammer clipping away at the base of the monument. When the horrified sculptor was able to catch his breath again he demanded to know who had put the man to work and was told that Park Commissioner Ward had ordered some repairs. Large, flat chips of the stone which had been part of the base were on the ground.

Following protest by Daniel Chester French, honorary president of the National Sculpture Society, Commissioner Ward said that he would be glad to receive any suggestions, and explained that vandals, children and the weather had made certain repairs necessary.

TWO WINDOW CLEANERS KILLED

One Fell 17 Stories and the Other 15 in New York

New York, Jan. 15.—Two window cleaners were killed within half an hour yesterday by falling, one from the nineteenth floor of the Hotel Biltmore and the other from the fifteenth floor of the Corn Exchange Bank Building, 15 William street.

About 2:30 o'clock Michael Holobuk, 31, of 304 West Thirty-seventh street, slipped from the window ledge on which he was working at the Biltmore and fell seventeen stories to the Italian Gardens on the second floor, where his body was found shortly afterward.

Just before 3 o'clock the rope about the waist of Joseph Tyntti, 35, working on the courtyard windows at the Corn Exchange Building, parted and he dropped fifteen stories to the ground floor. He lived at 89 Murray street.

NOTE IN A BAG IS HER WILL

Register Admits It as a Regularly Executed Testament

Norristown, Pa., Jan. 15.—Philadelphia relatives of Miss Mary Hallowell, who died suddenly in November at the home of J. Norman Cassel, a local contractor and builder here, will not share in her estate, which will go to her niece, the wife of Cassel.

After Miss Hallowell's death Mrs. Cassel found in the bed a bag containing a note, which read: "For Frances Cassel if I die to-night. Aunt Mary Hallowell."

Within the bag were two bank books, showing $1,000 of deposits in Philadelphia savings institutions. The Register of Wills granted letters of administration to Mrs. Cassel.

Ethel Barrymore

Charles Frohman will present Miss Ethel Barrymore in a new play at the Majestic for one performance this evening, this engagement being one of a few preliminary appearances before Miss Barrymore inaugurates her annual mid-winter season at Mr. Frohman's New York Empire Theatre. The new play is entitled "The Shadow" and is from the pens of Dario Niccodemi and Michel Mortou, the former best known in the literary world as author of many of Madame Regane's Paris successes and the latter as the author of "The Yellow Ticket." "The Shadow," in fact, was written for the distinguished French actress but was obtained by Charles Frohman and receives its first performance here owing to the war conditions now prevailing in France. In the French original "The Shadow" was known as "L'Ombre" and has been put into English by Mr. Morton.

Bruce McRae, recalled for his association with Miss Barrymore in many of her earlier successes, has the leading male role in "The Shadow" and surrounding characters are portrayed by Grace Eliston, Ernest Lawford, Edward Fielding, Amy Veness and Vera Pole. The scenes of "The Shadow" are laid in the wealthy residential and art districts of Paris. Adv.

"When You and I Were Young" The Al. G. Field Minstrels, which comes to the Majestic Monday matinee and night, are recognized by the public as a national institution, and the people at large exhibit personal interest in the various celebrations this organization conducts in honor of its annual successes and different anniversaries. Accounts of these are given space in newspapers all over the country, and prominent men in all walks of life invariably send felicitations to the distinguished minstrel producer, Al. G. Field.

The present generation will get an idea of the long period over which the Al. G. Field Minstrels have been supreme by the nature of a banquet, which the organization will celebrate in the East, this winter. The toasts will be all attuned to the theme "When You and I Were Young," and the guests of honor will be those who were members of the company when Mr. Field first organized it twenty-eight years ago, counting from October 6, 1914. At the Orpheum

The striking feature of the Keith hits that the Orpheum presents this week is the fact that the various attractions presented seem to be of the type that never fails to make a special appeal to Harrisburg amusement seekers. Over and over again it has been noticed that local audiences are especially strong for good male singing, in quartets or ensemble numbers. They get their fill of exquisite harmony in the pretty scenic and typical western frolic, Bert Lamont's Cowboy Minstrels. Harrisburg also joins hands with every other city in its clamor for good comedy. In this respect Orpheum audiences are not different from other towns, because everybody likes to laugh.

And then going over the mirth provoking dishes of the Orpheum's menu is good to think of Smith and Cook of the Smith, Cook and Branden combination, who are programmed as "the millionaire tramps." And in this same act isn't Miss Branden to pretty little dancer! But this is ahead of the story for Miss Branden goes in the beauty department. The western boys had out big laughs, and Ned Monroe of the Monroe and Gillette combination, is the funniest of them all. Everybody will agree that his winsome partner, Viola Gillette, is "some punkins." And she's clever too. Music is just as an important requirement as any of these. Well, this is supplied by the Moneta Five, variety's most artistic musical combination. They're great and music lovers especially are reveling in their offering. Adv.

MAY END CHAPEL RULE

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 16.—Compulsory chapel night at Princeton University may end when the midwinter meeting of the university board of trustees is held. Students now are compelled to attend chapel twice weekly and on half the Sundays of the month.

During the past year and a half strenuous objection among the student body has arisen on the ground that the attitude of mind with which the average undergraduate attends weekly chapel is far from a worshipful one and amounts to nothing more than a fostering of the university authorities of a spirit of hypocrisy. The student body is backed up in its opinion by the faculty of the university.

Flees to Escape Black Hand

York, Pa., Jan. 15.—Terrified by the thought of possible vengeance for his part in sending the four alien dynamiters in this city to prison, Nick Morella, the grocer whose home was wrecked by a bomb, is fleeing back to Italy with his family. He hurriedly disposed of his property here after the conviction of the defendants and left Wednesday night.

COLLEGE SPELLERS FAILED

Class in Illinois University Missed 441 Words Out of 625

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 15.—Not one of a class of twenty-five University of Illinois rhetoric students could spell all these words correctly: Accommodate, dissipate, disappoint, laboratory, embarrassment, athletics, lose, courtesy, professor, stopped, proceed, harass, companies, equipped, development, occurred, interfered, inferred, noticeable, lovable, Thackeray, Macaulay, proceed, acknowledgment, permissible.

Only thirteen made a passing grade and the grades ranged from 44 to 96. Out of 625 words, 441 were misspelled. Nineteen could not spell "Macaulay."

The test was then put to an advanced class of juniors and seniors, but only one out of seven could spell all the words.

"Is it impossible to teach spelling?" the "Daily Illini," asks.

THREATENS BILLY SUNDAY

Passaic, N. J., Jan. 15.—A threat that something very serious will happen if "Billy" Sunday ever comes to Passaic was received through the mail by Chief of Police William Hendry. Up to a late hour last night Chief Hendry refused to take the threat seriously.

The letter, written in a disguised hand and unsigned, read as follows: "You had better keep 'Billy' Sunday out of this town or there will be trouble. We have too many gas blowers now. Something is going to bust."

A popular drink among the peasants of Russia is called quass. It is made by pouring warm water over rye or barley meal. It is a fermented liquor and is very sour, but has been used for years by those poverty stricken people.
