SPECIALTIES AGAIN TO THE FORE IN TO-DAY'S MARKET

Profit-Taking and Short Selling Imparted Some Heaviness to Representative Shares To-day, While Special Stocks Added to Recent Gains

New York, Jan. 16 (Wall Street) .-Specialties were again very much to the fore in to-day's early market, many speculative and low priced issues taking the place of the usual leaders. Mexican Petroleum, Continental Can. American Cotton Oil, Standard Milling pfd and Allis Chalmers pfl., were prominent for their gains of 1 to 3 points, while the favorites were almost neglected. U. S. Steel, Reading and Baltimore and Ohio shares were slightly lower and Missouri Pacaific, yesterday's late feature, fell back, but soon recovered. Trading was moderately active, but bore more than the usual marks of professional manipulation. Profit taking and short selling in parted some heaviness to representative shares to-day, while special stocks added to recent gains. The movement was almost entirely in semi-active and obscure issues, wherein gains of substantial proportions were recorded. U. S. Steel was the weakest o fthe favorites and Missouri Pacific moved unevenly. Delaware and Hudson, Erie second pfd. and Western Maryland common and pfd. were almost the only railers to score gains. The closing was steady.
