

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Common Garden Sage and Sulphur
Makes Streaked, Faded or Gray
Hair Dark and Glossy at Once

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is much more troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wealth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

SMALL MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

Half Dozen White Men Take Him From Office and Shoot Him

Huntsville, Ala., Jan. 19.—A mob of half a dozen men overpowered Deputy Sheriff Silas Hunt at Hobbs Island, yesterday afternoon, and took from him Herman Neeley, a negro. They then rode off into the woods with the negro and shot him to death.

Neeley had been arrested a short time before on a charge of shooting Arthur Craft, a prominent planter, through the knee and also for wounding a mule. He had engaged in a fight with Harry Lee Russell, and was shot by Russell when Craft was struck. He also attempted to shoot Deputy Hunt when the latter went to arrest him.

Deputy Hunt took the prisoner to the railroad station to await the train for Huntsville, and while unprepared to resist any such proceeding, the small mob of a half dozen men rode up and forcibly seized the negro. Later his body was found in the woods, riddled with bullets.

This was one of the most flagrant cases of mob violence ever known in Madison county. Citizens of the locality in which the crime was committed express satisfaction that the negro has been disposed of, but they object to the lawless manner of the mob.

A. LEO WEIL INDICTED

Charged With Attempting to Bribe Two
West Virginia Officials

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 19.—A. Leo Weil, Pittsburgh attorney and reformer, who was arrested in Williamstown, Va., last Wednesday night on a charge of attempting to bribe Charles H. Bronson, member of the State Public Service Commission, was indicted by a special grand jury in Kanawha county yesterday on four counts.

Two indictments are for felonies, charging him with being an accomplice before the fact in attempting to bribe Public Service Commissioners Charles H. Bronson and Howard N. Ogden, and two indictments are for misdemeanors on the charge of being the principal.

Detective Guy B. Biddinger and ex-adjutant General Charles D. Elliott, of Parkersburg, were the only persons who testified before the special grand jury.

GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Following is the inaugural address of Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh delivered to-day upon assuming his duties as chief executive of Pennsylvania:

Fellow Citizens of Pennsylvania: In assuming the duties of the office to which you have elected me, I am humbled and steadied by the greatness of the obligation imposed and the abiding conviction that I can do my duty only when aided and guided by the Divine. In His name and for His people I enter upon this new field of endeavor. Fortunate, indeed, are we that our Commonwealth is enjoying to-day the blessings of peace and the inheritance of a worthy record through successive administrations of its public affairs. To add an additional chapter to an already honorable record is my earnest desire. To this end I solicit your active cooperation and your unselfish support. This Commonwealth and the colony from which it grew have a record of achievement so splendid that we may take an honest pride in maintaining its traditions, in advancing its interests, in publishing its virtues, in resending its assaults and in proclaiming our happy lot that we are Pennsylvanians.

To Stand by Campaign Pledges
Throughout the campaign I stood squarely upon my platform pledges, and was elected because the people believed I would use my utmost endeavor to secure legal enactments embodying these pledges. I shall assuredly do so. When 590,700 voters of this great Commonwealth gave us a commission, they have a right to demand its fulfillment. A voice so potent as a command to the Legislature and the Executive which, if wise, both shall surely heed. If we give the people the laws they have demanded and we have promised, we shall perform a distinctly valuable service to the Commonwealth. If we fail to do this we must bear the consequences. I pledge myself to an unselfish service to the whole people of Pennsylvania, and ask your aid and active support both in securing good laws and in enforcing these now on the statute books.

There Are Too Many Laws
We have been over-lawed. We have gone too far upon the theory that legislation is the cure of our social, economic and political ills. We have actually made legal criminals when, as a matter of duty, we should have addressed ourselves to the vastly more worthy task of educating our people into an increasing love for liberty, respect for law and devotion to our American civilization. We should never make a law that in its operation will work harm to the many and good only to the selfish or potential few. It is the business of government to make it easy to do right and difficult to do wrong. We need few additional laws. We could well afford to repeal many more than we enact. I trust, therefore, that we may all plan together to reduce enactments to a minimum, to reject all laws that do not hold the assurance of good to the many and so to facilitate legislation as to give to the people the few vital enactments they need and deserve. As speedily as may be, this we should do, and when this is done the Legislature should adjourn.

Duty of the Governor
For the moral and the economic welfare of our people we must all stand surely and steadily. Our laws should be not only regulators of procedure, but educators of the public conscience. Our great assets are not material, but spiritual. A government that enriches life and widens a people's vision will endure. No other is worthy of the name. If we address ourselves anew to this holy experiment, we shall easily add unto it all essential material good.

I am not unmindful that the quality of administration is the first concern and duty of the Governor. This I shall keep daily in mind. But I also submit that it is vital to the welfare of the people that the laws administered be of the sort that will ensure to our people peace, safety and happiness. To secure such laws and no others is my duty quite as much as it is your duty. I take this occasion to urge upon you the importance of certain well-defined wishes and admitted needs of our people.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Brest Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, pour a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

Urges County Local Option
I urge upon you, gentlemen of the Legislature, the enactment of a county local option law. The people of this Commonwealth have a perfect right to decide for themselves whether or not intoxicating liquors shall be sold in their several counties. This issue is before you. You must meet it, and meet it openly and fairly. I gave solemn assurance to the people that I favored such a law. Your Governor now asks you to join with him in its enactment. Every consideration of moment favors such procedure. The sooner we do so the better. Let this vexed question be taken from partisan control and given directly to the people. They will solve it better than we can. The selection of judges in the several districts should no longer hinge upon this question. It has already worked harm to the judiciary and has lessened the regard of our people for the integrity and capacity of the final legal guardians of the people's sacred rights. It is a dominant issue in the public mind. The party that has given this great State its industrial and educational development is now the secret opportunity of giving the State a great moral uplift. I trust we shall not fail the people on this issue. I repeat I am unequivocally for county local option.

For Better Highways
The people who are the producers in Pennsylvania have a perfect right to insist upon better transportation facilities, both by land and by water. We add substantial good to our people when we make it easy to transport a maximum load at a minimum cost from farm and factory to the best markets and market stations. Four years ago, under the apprehension that the people would approve a $50,000,000 loan for roads, the State took over more than 9,000 miles of highways. To this, at the last session of the Legislature, additions were made. We now have under State control 10,200 miles of highways. The loan was not approved. The roads were taken over. This was a mistake. The current revenues will not properly care for these roads. They are becoming increasingly unsatisfactory. Unless largely increased revenues are provided it would be wise to admit this mistake and begin again upon the road problem. We must have now a road policy that will meet reasonable acceptance and permit of a continuous treatment for many years to come. The people need, and must have at once, better transportation facilities.

Appropriations to Charity
Pennsylvania leads all States in its support of dependents. Its records should be maintained. But there is neither sense nor justice in unstated appropriations to our many charitable institutions and agencies. These constitute important and worthy objects of public concern and support. The Legislature should know from competent authority their real needs and should follow such knowledge in making its appropriations. Moreover, the bounty of the State should never exceed the assured income of the State. It should not again incur that the obligation of the State should be placed upon the Executive.

Need State-Aided Roads
We also need State-aided roads. These may perhaps best be worked out on the county unit plan. The county, with power to collect from each political sub-division its quota of road taxes, should receive an equal sum from the Commonwealth. The money thus secured should be expended pro rata by the county upon the roads of the several townships. The routes should be as far as possible those connecting county seats, and the plans and perhaps all, surely part, of the supervision of construction be approved and supplied by the State. Roads should cost less than in the past. The people should know all the while what is being done and what expense is involved. A good highway is not only a public necessity but an actual attainable good for our people.

The State has now many miles of privately owned roads. These are maintained; some well, some badly, by the fees exacted from the users. These should be acquired and made a part of the public road system of the State. It is no credit to us that toll roads, once a blessing, now an irritation, should continue to exist in Pennsylvania.

So vital is this matter and so imminent is the demand that I urge you to reduce your appropriations in other directions as far as possible in order to give the highways the largest possible appropriations.

Public State Civil Service
The public service should be as efficient and economical as private service. I believe in and would approve a sane and practical State civil service.

Increase Efficiency of Schools
Under the school code our schools have made commendable progress. With few exceptions the provisions of that code are so essentially wise that they should not be changed. Your State Board of Education, to whom the law delegates the duty of suggesting such school legislation, should be enabled, will in due time advise you concerning the laws, if any, that would increase the efficiency of our schools. I commend their findings to you. As the number of pupils to be educated increases the appropriations should increase. More attention must be given to vocational education. We have the largest number of farmers of any State in the Union. Surely agriculture should command greater attention in our schools. I favor the creation of many rural high schools in which both boys and girls may be taught how to earn on the farm and in the home an honest livelihood.

An education that does not increase the size of the loaf on the family table is scarcely worth the attention of our people. All education, no matter how liberal and cultural, should be so imparted as to make it usable. The facilities for training teachers should be improved, better supervision provided and higher education encouraged. But the emphasis of the State's concern should rest upon the schools of the many—the great common school so dear to our people and so essential to their welfare. We need a greatly enlarged permanent school fund. Universal education is the best safeguard of our liberties, and money devoted to right education is the State's best investment.

For Woman Suffrage Amendment
The resolution passed by the last Legislature submitting an amendment to the Constitution providing for woman suffrage should be re-enacted. Let the voters be allowed to determine for themselves whether or not women shall vote in Pennsylvania.

Appropriations to Charity
Pennsylvania leads all States in its support of dependents. Its records should be maintained. But there is neither sense nor justice in unstated appropriations to our many charitable institutions and agencies. These constitute important and worthy objects of public concern and support. The Legislature should know from competent authority their real needs and should follow such knowledge in making its appropriations. Moreover, the bounty of the State should never exceed the assured income of the State. It should not again incur that the obligation of the State should be placed upon the Executive.

It may be that some wiser and surer method can be devised to ensure these funds doing the greatest good and reaching directly the institutions and agencies whose service is best or most needed. Surely the supervision of the State should follow absolutely its gifts. The State can afford to be generous only when it is just.

Labor and Its Claims
The people who toil are among the choice assets of our Commonwealth. For their protection, their comfort, their advancement, their happiness, we are all securely pledged. I shall welcome any laws that promote these essentially wise ends. We must enact a fair and certain Workmen's Compensation Act. Its provisions should secure reasonable compensation to those who in their daily toil suffer from accident or disease. It should assuredly make for the prevention of accidents. This compensation should be guaranteed. The funds for its prompt payment should be counted among the costs of production. In scope it should not include labor upon the farm nor domestic service. Great care should be exercised to see that the law be drawn in strict compliance with constitutional limitations. The present Liability Act needs amendment to the end that it may be in full accord with the above proposed act and that both alike may guarantee to our workers the certain and speedy relief they merit and should have.

Our Child Labor Laws are inadequate and unsatisfactory. No child under sixteen should be allowed to work. He should be in school. The small sum he earns prior to sixteen at the cost of his physical and mental development is a pittance compared with the loss he and the Commonwealth sustain under present law. Such "penny wise" and "pound foolish" laws are unworthy this great State. When a child is not at work under law he should be in school. He should never be a licensed loafer on the streets. The hours of toil should be supplemented by hours of study in school. Continuation schools to which our children who toil may resort for practical and specific aid should be maintained in every industrial center. No child should be allowed to enter upon any form of service who is not certified by competent agents to be physically fit for such service.

In this great industrial State it is our duty to pay definite attention to the housing problem. Every family should be housed in a home that is private, sanitary, safe and unobtainable at a reasonable rental. I urge your attention to this important problem. We cannot breed good citizens in disgraceful houses. It would be a great pleasure to me and a great blessing to our workmen if this problem were adequately met now.

We have not learned how to make the most of our soil. The rewards of our toil on the farm are not what they should be. The State should grow more food than it consumes. We ought not to be buyers but sellers of foods. Money should flow to us, not away from us. The departments of the government charged with the conservation of our soil and the scientific development of our crops have sprung up, one at a time, as their services were required and no effort has been made to articulate and co-ordinate these several agencies. There is at least departmental confusion, if not actual duplication and conflict of activities. All this means waste in funds and lessened service to the farmer. I hope in this session of the Legislature to have such action taken as will separate the teaching from the administrative functions of these agencies and reduce each to an ordered and scientific service. The funds for the advancement of our agricultural interests ought to express themselves much more largely in wheat and corn and potatoes and less in clerical and other forms of routine service. Let us legislate for the farmers rather than for the office holder.

Municipal Regulation
Our cities have grown more rapidly than our rural districts. Our urban population is so complex that it scarcely knows how to apply the principles of democracy. These people will learn even if they blunder, when they have the fullest responsibility of control placed squarely upon them. They will learn much more slowly, if at all, while the State at long range is the large regulator of their conduct and their corporate life. Our laws ought not to hinder but help these great groups speedily to find themselves in the difficult task of adjusting municipal affairs to individual welfare. The State should give these municipalities wider freedom of opportunity to develop as they would, and at the same time place responsibilities upon them so to regulate their affairs as to make our cities centers of moral uplift and examples of clean, capable administration.

The Conservation Problem
Once Pennsylvania was rich in natural resources and unequalled in natural beauty. Much of this wealth has been taken from it. Much yet remains. Its ownership has passed to private and to corporate agencies. They have rights that must be respected. So also have the people of the State a claim upon these great natural assets. In their marketing the Commonwealth plays an essential part. The return the people ought to share. A reasonable tax upon our great natural resources as they flow to our markets is both fair and wise. Our public lands represent a new and increasingly valuable asset. We should speedily acquire many more acres and assist nature to reforest the same. The State can well afford to invest part of its income for the welfare of succeeding generations. Indeed, if we love our continuing Commonwealth more than we love our personal gain, we shall assuredly foster our resources and, whenever possible, add to them.

We fail to sense this obligation aright if we do not remember that our people are our greatest asset. What ever makes for their good is conservation of the loftiest kind. That they may be safeguarded in their health, their recreation, their education, their homes, their worship, their property, their regulated freedom, their toil, should be our constant endeavor.

State Haven for All People
Pennsylvania has always given home and haven to the people of the civilized world. Here we have had for a quarter of a millennium the most heterogeneous population of any State. There has never been persecution or oppression. In peace, in order, in brotherhood, we have grown into a mighty people, an empire of substantial purposes. Our people are law-abiding and liberty-loving. They want the right things to prevail. They welcome the unselfish leadership of clean men. They want and must have a clean, capable and conscientious administration of their public affairs. Those of us that serve should be frankly honest with them. They have a perfect right to know, and they shall know, what this administration stands for and will steadily do.

In the performance of public service let us adopt the finest code of our best citizens and put private integrity into public service. Let us all devoutly pray for this great State and by our words and our deeds humbly help our common God to save, to honor, to exalt this splendid Commonwealth. He has given into our care and keeping.

Confession of Murder Exonerates Soldier Wrongfully Accused
Allegan, Mich., Jan. 19.—Glen Austin, a private in the Sixty-third Coast Artillery, arrested last week at Fort Worden, Wash., and brought here to answer a murder charge, was yesterday cleared of all connection with the crime by the confession of the court of George H. Foster, of this city.

Poster, in a statement to the police, recently charged Austin with being responsible for the death, in 1913, of Mrs. Lee Talmadge, an aged resident of Allegan. Foster himself was taken into custody, Saturday, and held pending the arrival here of Austin. When the two men faced each other in Court yesterday Foster broke down and admitted that during a quarrel he had choked Mrs. Talmadge to death.

He completely exonerated Austin and pleaded guilty to manslaughter. Austin was released.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

Cleanses the Little Liver and Bowels and
They Get Well
Quick

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs," to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

Shamokin, Pa., Jan. 19.—The Rev. William T. Nicholson, who is conducting a revival at Bloomsburg, arrived at the State hospital here yesterday, and underwent a serious operation on the head, due to abscesses impeding his hearing. It is expected the patient will be able to return to Bloomsburg to-day.

Cancer Fatal to Octogenarian
Gordonville, Jan. 19.—George D. Smith, one of the oldest and most prominent men of Lancaster county, died yesterday morning, aged 80 years, from cancer. He was a retired merchant and member of the Mennonite church. Two daughters survive.

First of all knock out the hindrance to health, then vigor of body and mind naturally follows.

Thousands, finding coffee a hindrance, have struck it from their daily diet and now use

POSTUM

Coffee contains a powerful irritant—caffeine—which first races the body functions to unnatural speed, and then leaves them in a state of exhaustion. Result—weak heart, nervousness, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness and many other ills and discomforts.

Postum—made only of prime wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses—is a pure food-drink, absolutely free from caffeine or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum has delightful flavour, and comes in two forms: Regular
