Book That Wasn't Published. A singular plan for honoring perce was proposed in 1832, it we may credit the following footnote to "La Typographie," a poem by Le Pelletier, published in that year at Geneva: "In February last several newspapers an nounced that the inreest book ever printed will shortly appear in London under the ritte "The Pautheon of Engfish Heroes." The pages of this book will be twelve feet long and two feet wide and the letters six inches high. It has been found necessary to erect special machinery for the manufacture of the paper required. This gigantic work will be printed by steam in character of gold, no ordinary printing ink being used in the process. Only a bundred copies will be issued, and these will serve to adorn the principal libraries in England." You will not find that book in any public or private library.

The use and popularity of pearls date back to about 300 B. C., but they were known to yet older peoples, and especially to those of the east. The Chinese records go still farther back, and oyster pearls were received as tribute in the twenty-third century B C. It is probable that they were found in the waters of Ceylon and indin 2,000 years ago, and the Greeks of course both knew and recognized the value of the pearl. But it was not until the Romen empty. Roman empire was beginning to rise that the knowledge of the value of the pearl became general.

Liberty commands the highest price of all known things. Its price is so high that nobody can pay it.

Proof. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Eternal vigilance is to be ever on the job. To be ever on the job is to have no leisure or vacation. To have no leisure or vacation is to be a slave. To be a slave is not to have liberty. Therefore in order to be fre we must enslave ourselves, which is absurd. Q. E. D.—Judge.

Quill Pens. The quill pen is not quite extinct in London. The legal profession, which is very conservative, clings to it tenu-ciously, and none of the courts would be completely equipped without a plen tiful supply of good goose quills. Have you noticed what an indispensable ac cessory the quill is to counsel, whether in ostentatiously taking a note, mak-ing a speech or in helping to point a warning finger at a hostile witness?—

Business Falls Away More Than Fifty Per Cent. Compared With Yesterday's Early Session, but the Prices

Were Well Held By Associated Press.

-The swift pace maintained by yesterday's market measured further profit terday's market measured further profit taking at the outset of to-day's session, most of the leaders yielding fractionally, with a loss of 1 1-4 for Canadian Pacific and one point for Bethlehem Steel. The preferred shares of the latter company gained 1 3-4, however, in recognition of its increased dividend. Rumley common descended to a lower price as a result of receivership proceedings. The list stiffened perceptible before the end of the half hour under the lead of Union Pacific.

Business fell away more than fifty per cent. compared with yesterday's early session, but prices were well held in the face of continued realizing. Important issues like Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Pennsylvania and Great Northern sold above their best in the previous days. Missouri Pacific, which was second in activity to Reading, equalled its recent high. Canadian Pacific more than recovered its initial loss and Bethlehem pfd added to its rise. U. S. Steel was under pressure, also leading coppers, but Smelting gained a point. St. Paul convertible 5s were the feature of the bond group on extensive buving at record prices. point. ## DEFIED THE BRAHMANS.

An East Indian Prince Who Did Not

Fear Losing Caste. Mr. Coningsby Dawson, the well known English writer, tells the following anecdote of the East Indian prince Sir Pertab Singh:

A young English lieutenant had died that? of cholera in his palace. The boy was the son of an English friend. When the body had to be carried out to be placed on a gun carriage Sir Pertab Singh went forward to lift it up. Be-Singh went forward to lift it up. Be fore he touched it he was stopped by some English officers. They reminded there any other reason for the fight?—him that, by his religion, were he to touch the dead he would lose all his caste and perhaps, despite his wealth, never be able to buy it back. They adwho are outcasts. In spite of their protests he picked up the body and carried it down the palace steps to the gun carriage.

A gasp went up at the sight. Every one of his subjects knew what he had done. The next morning, when he rose. 500 Brahman priests were waiting in the courtyard. He came out, a proud figure, to face them. He knew what they had come for—to make him the lowest thing in India, a man with out caste. He asked them what was their errand, and they told him. They had come to make him of as little a palace.

Sir Pertab Singh laughed. "I be any of you have ever dreamed of and you can't take it from me; you're wel come to all the rest. I belong to the same caste as the dead son of my friend—the caste of a soldier."

With that he walked back into his palace, and the Brahman priests went away, one by one, ashamed and puz

NAPOLEON VALUED TIME.

He Might Have to Lose Battles, but He Would Not Lose Minutes. After forcing the army of Sardinia back toward Turin, Napoleon had scarcely taken possession of the beau-tiful Palace Salmatori, at Cherasco. thirty-five miles from the Piedmon tese capital, when an aged marshal from the Sardinian side came and in-formed the little general of the French that the king was about to propose

Although the directory, sitting in far away Paris, had reserved the right for themselves and their trained diplomats general could not delay operations for weeks while messenger the capital, so Bonaparte took it upor by drawing out his watch and, tapping the dial with his forefinger, ordered them to sign immediately, remarking: "I may lose battles, but I will not lose minutes." — Condensed From "In the Path of Napoleon," by James Mangan.

His Indorsement.

says Pearson's Weekly, and the clerk wanted it indorsed.
"What for?" demanded the soldier.
"Well, it's the rule, and 1 can't pay you the money until you do indorse it," he was told.
"Oh, all right," grumbled the messenger. So he took back the check and bit the end of a pen in deep meditation for a minute or two. Then he wrote this: "I beg to say that I have known Lord Roberts for several years, and he has proved himself times without number to be as brave as a lion, but al-ways kindly considerate to those who serve under him. And I have, therefore, great pleasure in respectfully in-dorsing his check."

Difficulties of Pronunciation. What is the most difficult English place name for a foreigner to pronounce? That is a question suggested by a writer in the London Observer. He plumps for Southampton as the most difficult "port of call" for the Frenchman bound for England. Obviously it cannot be spelled phonetically, as there is no "th" in French. We all have these little international difficulties. But the Frenchman gets over the sea to Southampton by calling it "Sudonton."
