Mode of Procedure Where Commercial

Cases Are Tried.

The "handelsgericht," or commercia court, is presided over by one judge and two laymen known as "handelsrichter"--commercial judges nominat ed by commercial bodies and appoint ed by the government. Any German is eligible who is registered as a mer-chant, thirty years old, and otherwise qualified as specially provided by law. Only commercial cases are sent to this department upon motion of either party i witnessed a trial between mer-chants and was much pleased with the speedy method of determining the case instead of submitting technical business questions to a jury, who in all probability never heard of the like before, and then offering the testimony of experts on each side of the case which often has a tendency to con-fuse the jury rather than to enlighten them, the German commercial judges possess personal experience in business and skill in affairs of commerc of the greatest value in arriving at correct conclusions. Besides, the pro cedure, as a rule, is brief and to the point and causes little delay to the litigants So far as I could observe this system worked very satisfactorily. -Fred H.
