

TAX FORTUNES TO RELIEVE THE POOR

Guggenheim Suggests Plan at Federal Inquiry Into Causes of Industrial Unrest

MANY WANT WORK AND NOT CHARITY

Witness Advocates Government Agencies to Find Work For Unemployed and Provision For the Comfort of Aged Workers

New York, Jan. 21.—Taxation of large fortunes upon the death of their owners to aid the poor, the establishment of government agencies to find work for the unemployed, and provision for the comfort of aged workers, were advocated by Daniel Guggenheim, president of the American Smelting and Refining Company, in testimony today at the inquiry by the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations into the great philanthropic and the causes of industrial unrest.

Mr. Guggenheim said that, as a capitalist, he favored these measures, despite the fact that they constitute some of the cardinal ideas of Socialism. He also advocated "industrial democracy" wherein the worker received a portion of the profits derived from the products of his labor.

Industrial unrest was caused to a great extent, the witness believed, by the increased cost of living. In his opinion the philanthropic organizations did not affect much relief from poverty as the average worker was reluctant to accept charity and preferred employment.

E. J. Berwind, owner of coal mines and director in many coal mining corporations and coal carrying railroads, testified that he believed directors and stockholders were not as well acquainted with labor conditions as they should be.

Advised as to Labor Conditions Mr. Guggenheim was the first witness before the Industrial Relations Commission today. He named many corporations in which he and his brothers are directors. The witness did not show how many men were employed by any of the companies he is connected with.

Improving Conditions of Workers As for devices for improving the conditions of workers, the witness said the American Smelting and Refining Company had installed many things not only to improve labor conditions, but to raise the standard of efficiency. The company found that by so doing the output was increased and business generally was improved.

The witness said emphatically that he did not believe laborers in smelting and refining works should be permitted to work more than 8 hours a day. The increasing high cost of living, the witness believed, was the cause of much unrest among workers. Wage earners, he thought, had as much right to organize as capitalists; the American Smelting and Refining Company had no objection to organizers going among the employees, provided they did not interfere with the operation of the plants.

Increasing Industrial Discontent Mr. Guggenheim said he believed industrial discontent was on the increase and had been for some years.

"And it will continue to increase until some remedial measures are taken," he said. "The trouble is we haven't had enough legislation. We are away behind Europe. We need more business legislation."

Mr. Guggenheim said he "didn't want to advertise the philanthropic organizations with which he was connected. 'I don't want to tell what I've done,' he said. 'I've done all that I can. I don't think any of us give enough. I'll tell you though that I am interested in many hospitals, homes and societies.'

People Want Work, Not Charity He said he did not believe the great philanthropic organizations were doing the work they were supposed to do. "It's a job for the State, not for private benefaction," he testified. "Many people don't want charity. They want work. The State should find it for them. The State should tax great fortunes when rich men die and thereby receive money to take care of the people until they can get along."

Workers should be taught to save, he said. They could not save now because they didn't get enough money to permit them; but they could save, he said, if they received, as they should, a part of the profits of the industries in which they were employed.

The American Smelting and Refining Company operates open shops, Mr. Guggenheim testified because it would not allow unions to run the business. The management, however, would treat with unions or with the men collectively, the same as with individual workers.

Personal Liberty Demands Open Shop Another reason why the American Smelting and Refining Company operates open shops, Mr. Guggenheim continued, is because it does not believe it has a right to control a worker's actions any more than it had to say what he shall eat and when he shall go to bed. Personal liberty demanded open shops, he thought.

Mr. Berwind, who followed Mr. Guggenheim on the stand, said that the policy of his companies was to operate according to law and to give the men every consideration possible. Their working hours in the mines were generally 9 hours a day and the daily wage from $2 to $5. The companies had made provision for compensation for accidents. None of them employed children.

RUSSIANS VICTORIOUS OVER THE TURKS

entrance into the light continue to circulate, one rumor today says that the situation in the eastern theatre of the war remains unchanged. Certain semi-official summaries of events received in London by wireless telegraphy from Berlin are somewhat more communicative. Such a message received recently says the Russians have had some successes, in which their losses were heavy, and that the Turks have been operating successfully in the Caucasus and are now marching on Egypt.

To Plan Campaign Against Russia Telegrams reaching here from Berlin record the arrival there of Archduke Charles Francis, the Austrian Crown Prince, and Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, who are to be joined shortly by Baron Burina, the new Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, presumably for a conference regarding a plan of campaign against Russia, as well as the adoption of suitable measures against the prospective entrance into the war of Italy and Rumania.

Recent dispatches from Sweden indicate that a German airship attack on the new Finnish airship from Sweden and Russia is coming to be expected. This is the line that runs around the northern end of the Gulf of Bothnia. Its destruction would be a serious blow to Russia as the only other routes of communication between Russia and her allies are by way of the Baltic sea or through Archangel on the north. The former route has been made impossible by mines and the latter is likely to be cut off any day by ice.

Isolation of British Isles Conquered in Air Raid, Says Berlin Paper Berlin, via Amsterdam and London, Jan. 21, 10:02 A. M.—The isolation of the British Islands is conquered successfully, says the "Morning Post" in its comment on the air raid made by the Germans on the English coast. "Of what use to Great Britain," it adds, "are the surrounding seas and war vessels if our airships cross the water, dropping bombs?"

The "Tages Zeitung" expresses satisfaction at the first air attack and hopes it will be followed by others, while the "Tageblatt" says that it is now clear "that the North Sea is no hindrance to German airships."

London, Jan. 21, 2:57 A. M.—The "Morning Post" discussing the air raid on the east coast of England, questions the wisdom of the recent announcement by the government of its intention to indemnify residents for loss of property, pointing out that the Germans may take advantage by sporadic attacks to drain the government resources.

Such a pledge, if it amounts to a pledge, says the "Post," encourages the enemy to proceed with its destruction in the hope of crippling our government financially. The damage done to a country by an enemy is not properly a liability of the government of that country. If the French government had pledged itself to make good the loss sustained by the people in the present war it might already be bankrupt.

To compensate for all damage done is to accept liability which may be dangerous to the State.

The "Mail" suggests that the raid was only a reconnaissance, a rehearsal preparatory to a more serious raid during the next moonless period, which will be in February. Other papers consider that the raid was made merely to please the German people.

Berlin, Jan. 21 (By Wireless to London, 3:05 P. M.)—Although spirited fighting is in progress along the western battle front, the official statement from the German War Office today shows that these engagements are of merely a local character. The French made repeated attacks near Arras and south of St. Mihiel, but were repulsed. The Germans captured trenches near Berry-au-Bac and Post-a-Mousson, but lost ground in the neighborhood of Notre Dame De Lorette. A defeat of the Russians in small engagements in East Prussia also is announced. The statement follows:

GERMANS TAKE TRENCHES; LOSE GROUND ELSEWHERE

"In the western theatre of war only artillery duels took place yesterday between the coast and the Lys. Trenches at Notre Dame De Lorette which we occupied on the day before yesterday were not attacked."

"Northeast of Arras the French repeatedly attacked both sides of the high road from Arras to Lille, but were repulsed. Southwest of Berry-au-Bac we took two trenches from the French and kept them, notwithstanding their fierce counter attacks."

"French attacks on our positions south of St. Mihiel were repulsed. Northwest of Post-a-Mousson we succeeded in recapturing the positions we evacuated three days ago. In that vicinity our troops captured four cannon and several prisoners. Fighting still continues for the remainder of the lost trenches."

"In the Vosges, northwest of Sennheim, battles still proceed. The situation in East Prussia remains the same. An unimportant engagement to the east of Lipno ended favorably for us. One hundred prisoners remained in our hands."

MANY ENQUINIONS FOR THE AMERICAN RED CROSS WORK

Washington, Jan. 21.—The work of the American Red Cross in sending abroad contributions for the relief of those affected by the war, continue to be praised in letters received here. In a communication made public at Red Cross headquarters today, Marquis De Vogue, president of the French Red Cross, and Monsieur Gustav Ador, chairman of the International Red Cross at Geneva, acknowledged the receipt of donations and express their gratitude for the gifts.

Marquis De Vogue writes that "the splendid generosity of the American nation assists greatly in mitigating the suffering. I am the interpreter to you of the profound gratitude of the Red Cross and the army of France."

Chairman Ador says: "The aid given by it to the belligerents is a new proof of the admirable devotion with which the American Red Cross fulfills its international duties."

LATE WAR NEWS SUMMARY

de Lorette, however, they were driven from the trenches.

A German victory in a small battle in East Prussia is reported. Russian accounts of the war with Turkey made it appear that the resistance of the Ottoman troops has virtually collapsed. An official statement today from the Russian staff of the Caucasian army says that further defeats have been inflicted on the Turkish troops in a series of rear guard actions and that the Turks, after suffering heavy losses, are retreating precipitately. The statement announces the capture of a trans-Caucasian town near the Turkish border. It is said also that a Russian warship sank 12 vessels off the coast of Asia Minor.

Fighting between Austrian and Montenegrins which has been almost at a standstill on account of the winter weather and heavy snows, has been resumed across the border from Cattaro. The Austrians bombarded Montenegrin positions but it is said at Cetinje no damage was inflicted.

The allies now have their eyes on the Rhine and British troops may be sent to Belgium in Eastern France, to take part in any possible advance to the river, says a Geneva report, which lacks verification. It is stated that the advance French trenches are within sixteen miles of Rhine.

TOWING DISABLED BELGIAN RELIEF STEAMER IN PORT

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 21.—The American steamer Camina, which became disabled by the loss of her rudder several days ago while on her voyage from San Francisco to Boston, with relief supplies, probably will arrive here tomorrow in tow of the steamer Lady Laurier.

A wireless message from the Lady Laurier received by the Marine Department late last night said that the Camina was down by the head and that progress was necessarily slow. The trip was interrupted by the breaking of a towing hawser as a result of heavy weather, but a new one was attached yesterday.

SEEK HILL POST FOR COVERT Contractor's Friends to Endorse Him for Superintendent of Buildings

In event of Samuel B. Rambo retiring from the position of Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, the friends of Charles E. Covert, head of the Central Construction and Supply Company of this city, will present his name to Governor Brumbaugh for the place. The subject has been quietly talked over by Mr. Covert's friends who are interested in the appointment, and it is understood that if the place is to go to Dauphin county his name will be presented.

There already are two applicants for the position of Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds—former Senator Oscar E. Thompson, of Chester county, a contractor, who served in the Senate from 1905 to 1912, and former Senator John H. Landis, of Lancaster, who served in the Senate from 1893 to 1896, and was afterward superintendent of the United States mint in Philadelphia.

Superintendent Rambo was appointed to the place by Governor Stuart and has served eight years. He superintended the construction of the Capitol and it was his thorough familiarity with the big building that he was deemed the most available man to care for it. Although coming originally from Philadelphia, Mr. Rambo is credited to Dauphin county in the list of appointments.

It is argued that if there is to be a change, Dauphin county, having the office credited to it, has the first chance, and in that event Mr. Covert's name will be presented.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS IN BASEBALL WAR ARE AIRED

Federals and President Robertson of the Buffalo Federals that when they went to confer with August Herrmann, chairman of the National Baseball Commission last fall, they must name at least four conditions for peace.

First, the affidavit sets forth the recognition of the Federal organization as a major league; second, representation by the Federals in the National Commission; third, protection to every baseball player and umpire that had gone to the Federal League from organized baseball and fourth, participation of the Federals in the series for the world's baseball championship.

In attempting to arrange peace, the affidavit says, the Federal league, at no time, considered joining forces with organized baseball and operating under the so-called national agreement unless it could be modified to become legal.

The peace negotiations of the Federals, it was said, will be one of the chief points of defense for organized ball as its attorneys will contend, it is understood that the admission of the Federals that they sought recognition from the National Commission will refute the charge that organized ball is operating in restraint of trade.

After Attorney Addington finishes his opening argument, which was begun yesterday morning, George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, chief of counsel for organized ball, will present the argument for defense.

Indications were today that it will require many days, possibly more than a week, to complete the trial.

The players' contract was called a mere scrap of paper by Addington, in resuming his argument. He declared there was no real modification of relations between clubs and players, despite changes in the option section of contracts and the elimination from some of the 10-day clauses, which have been made within the last year or two.

"The contracts were changed, but the national agreement and the practices under which organized ball conducts its business were not," he said.

"The player thinks he gets something in this contract and its changes; he gets nothing. The contract is designed for use in court; the national agreement and the rules of the National Commission still govern the game."

Addington, quoting portions of the opinion in which Federal Judge Bissell, of Grand Rapids, dissolving the Chicago Americans' injunction against Hal Chayer, brought out the fact that a player, under the national agreement, has no real choice regarding salaries and homes, and cited authorities to emphasize the right to labor.

There was a falling off in attendance today. Not only were many fans who yesterday crowded the court room and the corridors absent, but the assemblage of magnates was notably less.

Alleging that commissions are due him on sales of pianos and other musical instruments which he sold for the J. H. Troop Music House, J. A. Famous, the plaintiff in a civil suit against Troop this morning, asked a common pleas court jury to grant him "quantum meruit"—just what the jury thinks he should have.

Troop and his employees denied Famous' assertion that the plaintiff had an agreement with the music house whereby he was to receive commissions on sales. It is said that Famous' claims amount to $200 or $300.

Provisional President Garza Making Efforts for the Re-establishment of Tranquillity

Mexico City, Jan. 21.—Provisional President Roque Gonzalez Garza, in a statement issued late Wednesday, said that he is making efforts to bring about satisfactory arrangements for the re-establishment of tranquillity in Mexico.

The cabinet named by President Garza is as follows: Minister of Foreign Affairs, Senator Ortiz Rodriguez; Justice, Rodrigo Gomez; Agriculture, General Palafox; Interior, Senator Zuchem; War, General Zerratos; Public Instruction, Senator Roa Ramos; Communications, Vasquez Chapino; Fomento, Senator Castilla.

General Gutierrez, the former provisional president who fled from the capital a few days ago, is reported here to have taken to the woods with a few followers, most of his troops having abandoned him.

Chamber of Commerce Says Distributing Houses Will Locate in City

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce announced today that in addition to the location here of the Pennsylvania Food Company's plant, reported last week, a new distributing house has been obtained for Harrisburg and another wholesale distributing house, that had been taken away from the city is on its way back, the advantages of distributing from Harrisburg being too apparent.

President Henderson Gilbert was authorized to appoint a special committee to investigate the proposed workmen's compensation law, hold a hearing on it, modeled after a foreign trade conference, to which all Pennsylvania employers will be invited, and to represent the Chamber in negotiations relative to its passage by the Legislature.

Hill Residents Who Want Better Service Will Get a Hearing

A petition praying for better car service on Allison Hill, signed by a large number of residents of that section of the city, was received Monday by Frank B. Musser, president of the Harrisburg Railways Company. He says the petition is not clear as to the exact demands of the petitioners, who, in effect, merely say that better car service is desired "east of Cameron street."

The directors of the Harrisburg Railways Company have held no meeting since the petition has been received, but it is likely, according to Mr. Musser, that a number of the signers will be requested to attend a meeting to be arranged and explain just what is wanted.

200 QUAIL IN THE CAPITOL

Birds, Imported From Mexico, Will Be Distributed Through State By Game Commission

The peculiar cry of "Bob White" re-echoed through Capitol Park yesterday afternoon, and belated members of the Legislature who were hurrying to catch trains to get out of Harrisburg, stopped, looked around in wonderment and asked if there was a quail preserve in Capitol Park. A doorman at the Fourth and State door of the Capitol let out a cry of "there it goes," and fled across Fourth street after a small bird, which had gotten by him into the street. After some trouble the doorman succeeded in shoing the small bird back into the basement corridor and into a wired over box.

It was a quail all right—in fact there were two hundred quail—Mexican quail, direct from the State of Tamaulipas, by way of Brownsville, Texas. They were brought to Harrisburg by direction of the State Game Commission and the 200 will be scattered throughout the State in groups of ten. Almost all of them were sent out today.

These birds are exactly like the northern variety, except that they are a trifle smaller, and they are exceedingly lively. They were badly treated on the way from Brownsville, and had grown quite thin from being improperly housed on the way. Colonel Edward M. Fetherholder obtained ten lively ones for a York county farm, and will send them over as soon as the weather is settled.
