DUTY TO GRANT LICENSES

Mercer County Jurist, Candidate for Re-election, Defines His Position. Sharon, Pa., Jan. 22.—Judge A. W. Williams yesterday renewed the liquor licenses of the present holders in Mercer county and held over for further investigation two applications from Farrell. Included in the list are two breweries, eight wholesalers and 27 retailers. The licenses will date from February 11.

Judge Williams, who has announced his candidacy for re-election, defined his stand on the liquor question, which is construed by many as a declaration of principles for the forthcoming campaign.

"This may be the last session of the License Court at which I shall preside," he said, "but I want to make it plain that as long as I am on the bench licenses will be granted or refused on the same basis as they have been in the past."

"Political expediency does not and has not influenced me in consideration of such applications. It is the law of the land that some licenses shall be granted, and it is not the province of the court to legislate on this question."

PREVENTS TRAIN WRECKING

Engineer Finds Steel Nut Wedged In Joint of Rails. Wilkes-Barre, Jan. 22.—An attempt was made to wreck the Pennsylvania passenger train, leaving this city at 2:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the Taity-nine mile post, near Porte, a large steel nut being wedged in the joint of two rails. The obstruction was discovered by H. Miller, of Pottsville, an engineer of a freight train that passed the scene on the opposite track a short time before the passenger train was due.

Special Officer Henry S. Walfenburg, of this city, took A. B. Case, of Bloomsburg, from a passing train at Porte, after a hard fight, suspecting him of attempting to wreck the train. He proved an alibi, and now search is being made for a man seen in the vicinity of where the obstruction was placed a short time before it was discovered.

INCREASE IN GOLD MINING

Value of 1914 Output Placed by U. S. Geological Survey and Mint at $93,000,000

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—The gold mining industry of the United States had a prosperous year in 1914 and regained its normal condition, inasmuch as early returns indicate an output greater by nearly $4,000,000 than that of 1913. H. D. McCaskey, of the U. S. Geological Survey, who is authority for these figures, adds that the production in 1913 was lower than for several years past and even in 1914 the output was considerably below that of any year in the period 1908-1912, when the high water mark was reached. For 1914 the preliminary figures of the United States Geological Survey and the Bureau of the Mint indicate a total gold yield of $93,223,500.

In Alaska the output of gold increased about $300,000, the industry was generally prosperous, and a large amount of dead work continued to be done preparatory to increased output from lode mines. The placer yield was about $10,700,000, or the same as in 1913, and increases made in the Ruby, Seward Peninsula, Iditarod and Hot Springs districts offset declines in output from Fairbanks and other camps. Abundant rainfall favored placer mining. About 26 gold lode mines produced about $5,100,000 in 1914, against $4,814,813 from 30 mines in 1913. Juneau, including the Treadwell and the great new Alaska-Juneau, Alaska-Gastineau and other mines, continued to be the most important lode district.

In Arizona the mine production of gold increased about $500,000 in 1914. The chief producers, the Tom Reed, Gold Road, Vulture and Commonwealth mines, were active and produced more than half the total yield, the remainder coming largely from copper ores.

In California the mines produced over $700,000 more than in 1913. The Grass Valley, Mother Lode and other quartz mines continued actively producers at depth, and the placer output, especially from the large dredging operations, was again large. The dredges alone produced 40 per cent. of the total gold yield and over 90 per cent. of the total placer output.

Colorado mines increased their yield by over $1,500,000 above that of 1913, the greater part of this increase, or $1,143,000, being made in the Cripple Creek district, where the mines and mills had another active year. In Idaho the mine output decreased over $250,000, owing largely to the small output of the De Lamar mine, but the dredges in Lemhi and Boise counties had a prosperous year. In Montana the mine yield increased over 14 per cent. and the total production was about $4,000,000, or more than for any year since 1909. The placers and the Southern Cross and North Meccasin mines enjoyed an active year.

Nevada mines showed a decrease of about 4 per cent. or over $400,000, in gold output in 1914. The yield at the great Goldfield camp alone declined by over $1,000,000, but this decrease was offset by increased yield from Tonopah, Fairview, Wonder, Round Mountain, National, Seven Troungs and other camps. At Hawthorn the output declined about 40 per cent.

In New Mexico the mine production increased nearly $300,000, but in Oregon the output declined about $20,000. In Utah the mine output of gold decreased about 7 per cent. or over $250,000, in 1914. The yield was principally from copper ores. The output from true gold ores has declined since the suspension of operations at several of the mines. The Philippine production has steadily increased and in 1914 passed the $1,000,000 mark.

United States Suddenly Drops Out of Japanese Market. Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—Japan is alarmed, according to a trade dispatch from United States Consul General George H. Schidmore, at Yokohama, over the complete withdrawal of American buyers of peanuts from the Japanese markets. The dispatch, which was received here this week, pointed out that the United States, which for years had been taking more than eighty per cent. of the entire peanut output annually, with signs of a steady progress, suddenly dropped out of the market last month, when the buying season was in full swing.

The causes for the business deadlock, the dispatch read, "are, according to the generally accepted interpretations here, the bumper crop of peanuts in the United States itself, a sudden decrease of demand owing to commercial depression in the States, and the exacting rates collected for war risks."

THAW IN NEW YORK SUNDAY

Jerome Starts to-night for New Hampshire to Bring Him. New York, Jan. 22.—William Travers Jerome, with representatives of the Attorney General's office, and with guards, will leave New York to-night for Concord, N. H., to bring Harry K. Thaw back to this State. The party will arrive at Concord on Saturday morning and if there is no hitch will be on the way back with Thaw in custody on Saturday night. So the Tombs probably will open its doors again on Sunday.

A mandate from the Federal Supreme Court ordering the New Hampshire authorities to turn Thaw over to New York State was mailed to Mr. Jerome yesterday from Washington. The mandate is in conformity with the court's decision handed down thirty days ago. Thaw's trial for conspiracy in escaping from the Matteawan asylum will be called before Justice Davis in the Supreme Court next week. Mr. Jerome will have charge of the prosecution and Moses Grossman will be counsel for the defense. There was a conference yesterday between Mr. Jerome and District Attorney Perkins regarding the Thaw matter. Judge Davis was present.

THE AUTO AS A MISSIONARY

Rescues Country Districts From Heathenism, Says Minister. Chicago, Jan. 22.—The auto is bringing about a religious rejuvenation in the United States. In place of enticing persons away from church, as has often been alleged, it is bringing them to church. In sparsely settled regions it is rescuing the American people from a State bordering on heathenism. These statements were made by the Rev. S. I. Hanford, superintendent of the Nebraska mission field, to the delegates at the meeting of the Congregational Home Missionary Society of the United States.

FILE TABERNACLE PROTEST

Would Bar Frame Building From Site Near Baer Home. Reading, Pa., Jan. 22.—Formal protest against the location of the frame tabernacle for the Stough evangelistic campaign of six weeks to begin here in May, at Hill road and Clymer streets, was filed with Mayor Stratton yesterday by a committee of citizens of this residential section, headed by Jonathan Mould and John K. Stauffer, of the City Planning Commission.

The protest came hot upon the heels of an announcement of the site selected, which adjoins "Hawthorne," the summer residence of the late George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railway Company. Use of the plot was granted by William H. Loden, Reading's millionaire confectioner, who, by the way, lives in another part of the town. The campaign committee announced its intention to transfer to the site the tabernacle used in a similar campaign in Harrisburg, and which was purchased for $4,000. Mayor Stratton informed his indignant callers yesterday that nothing could be done until the Stough people apply for a permit to erect the building, and that the matter will hinge on whether it violates the city ordinance as to the erection of frame buildings. It is contended that such buildings may be put up temporarily. If not permitted at Hill road and Clymer streets, it is not likely that the tabernacle can be erected anywhere else within the city limits.

MAY HAVE MURDERER

Lebanon Police Believe One of Gang Killed Night Boss. Lebanon, Pa., Jan. 22.—Hope of an early solution of the mysterious fatal shooting last month here of John E. Mills, a night boss at the Sennet Solway coke plant, has been revived by the capture by the police of five men with police records. On the strength of disclosures made by some of the men the police believe that among them is the real murderer of Mills, notwithstanding that on his deathbed Mills positively identified Ray Seiders, a young chauffeur, as the man who shot him. Seiders has stoutly maintained his innocence, and the police have been unable to connect him with the crime other than by Mills' dying statement.

MUMMIES POINT A MORAL

Wood Preserver Says Americans Should Build Permanent Houses. Chicago, Jan. 22.—If the people of the United States were as careful of their homes as the Egyptians were of their mummies they could save $100,000,000 a year, said E. A. Sterling, secretary of the Forest Products Federation at the eleventh annual convention of the American Wood Preservers' Association at the Congress hotel. "When the Egyptians fixed up a mummy," he said, "they wanted it to last. They filled it full of crocote and other preservatives, and to-day we dig up 500-year-old mummies in first-class condition. An American, on the other hand, builds a cottage, house, fence or dock of soft, rottable material that turns to punk in five or ten years."

Queckberner, of No. 345 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, once world champion hammer thrower, to recover $10,500 damages from the Ward Baking Company for the loss of five teeth which, Queckberner said, were broken by biting an iron nail and a comb in bread of the defendant's manufacture. An appeal will be taken.
