The human judgments are often slow. Murder drags out its reddened form through months or years through the haw's delays. It is some time before drunkenness reddens the eyes and slavers the lips, or gluttony makes bes-tial the face expression. Dissipation an the face expression. Dissipation goes on in darkness a long while be-fore the body shows it in the light. Some sins take years to mature. Finial-ly what a man sows he reaps. "Chick-ens come home to roost" is only an-other way of saying "Be sure your sins will find you out." God is in no hurry Down in our bacts we know hurry. Down in our hearts we know why. It is to give us time to repent. That is why Jehovah did not strike Achan dead when the lust of loot overcame him at Ai. The wedge of gold, the heap of silver, the Babylonish garment buried under the sheepskin in his tent were volces calling him to con-fess. Do God's revelations of himself seem slow? Well, you wouldn't tell a child at once every thing you know or that you intended he should know. He isn't ready, but for that which he can now comprehend We only have can now comprehend. We only have time; God has eternity.
