SUFFRAGE WILL WIN IN END SAYS SENATOR M. C. CLAPP

Audience Filled the House of Representatives Last Evening When the Senator From Minnesota Discussed Suffrage

An audience that filled the hall of the House of Representatives last night heard United States Senator Moses E. Clapp, of Minnesota, deliver a brilliant and convincing address in favor of giving the ballot to women. Senator Clapp's address was particularly effective and opportune, inasmuch as the suffrage resolution was to be presented in the House to-day by Representative William H. Wilson, of Philadelphia.

The decision was reached yesterday after Mrs. Frank M. Rossing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman's Suffrage Association, and a committee had discussed the matter with Governor Brumbaugh. The resolution, after presentation, will at once be referred to the committee so that there may be no delay in sending it through the House to the Senate.
Senator Clapp was introduced to the audience of men and women by Speaker Ambler, after Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones, president of the Central Pennsylvania Suffrage Association, under whose auspices the meeting was held, had opened it.
Senator Clapp's speech was a straightforward presentation of the subject of equal suffrage. He urged that the most important reason why women should obtain the ballot was not that she was entitled to it, but that the American republic needed her as a member of the electorate. He declared "that the government of this country will never be true democracy until all of its citizens are real participants in its administration. We are bound to have democracy some day, and no matter how the granting of the rights of franchise to women may be temporarily delayed, it is sure to come."

After the address twenty men told Senator Clapp that they intended to vote for the bill, and one man, who said he had fully decided to vote against it, would now vote for it.

EVANGELIST DISCUSSES "POPULAR AMUSEMENTS"

Mr. Miller Talks to Record-breaking Crowd in Mechanicsburg Tabernacle Last Night on Card Playing, the Theatre and Dancing

Mechanicsburg, Jan. 27.—Last evening a record-breaking crowd filled the tabernacle to hear Evangelist Miller preach on "Popular Amusements." His text was: "He that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption," Gal. 6.8. Just before Mr. Miller stepped to the pulpit, Miss Cree had sung "Going to Judgment," and his few words of prayer preceding the sermon were that the subject might be considered in the light of the judgment. People stood in solid ranks around three sides of the tabernacle, and some sat on the floor in the vacant aisles and listened with close attention to the evangelist as, without sensationalism, but with no mincing of words, he talked on the card table, the theatre and the dance. He said in part:

"If it isn't wrong for you as a Christian to play cards, then it wouldn't be wrong for Jesus to play cards. Imagine Jesus Christ at the fashionable card party down Main street that some Mechanicsburg church members were at this afternoon. Imagine Jesus Christ as your partner in the dance, or your guest in a box at the opera. Or, how would you enjoy listening to a sermon from your pastor on 'Present your bodies a living sacrifice,' if you knew he had been leading a ball the night before, or witnessing a performance of 'The Soul Kiss'! It is a sad thing that a card party was going on here in Mechanicsburg, during this revival, on Tuesday afternoon, and some of the leading church members there, while a Bible reading was going on in the tabernacle."

Mr. Miller told of a convict in the New York State prison, serving a life sentence for murder, whose mother sent him her photograph with her love, but who sent it back with curses, and the wish never to see her face again, because she had taught him to play cards, and he had killed a man in a fight over a card game. "The difference between playing cards and an author's cards, for instance, is not in the cards themselves, but in what they lead to," said the evangelist. "Take one sheet of cardboard, use half to print a deck of playing cards, and the other half to print a deck of author cards. Follow them from the printing shop. One leads to the nursery, the home, to innocent amusement; the other to the saloon, the brothel, the gambling table, the spirit of chance, the desire to get something for nothing. You have no business to have the Bible and a deck of cards both in the same home. If you have them both on your parlor table, put one or the other in the furnace. Ninety-five per cent. of all the gambling that is done is done with the euchre deck of cards, the same cards you have on your parlor table."

He quoted noted gamblers who say that most gamblers learn to play cards in their homes as children. Speaking of the theatre, he said: "I do not condemn the theatre in a wholesale way. If it were possible to redeem the theatre, to conduct it under the supervision of a commission of Christian men and women, it could be made a factor for righteousness. But we can't take ideal conditions. It is the actual fact that you can't go into the average theatre without being insulted and embarrassed. Every attempt to redeem the theatre has proven an absolute failure. Edwin Booth tried it and failed. Henry Irving tried it and failed. The people who say the theatre is needed to educate our young people insult our young people by implying that they need to have their attention fixed upon infidelity, adultery and murder to finish their education." He quoted leading theatrical managers who say that the leading plays are based on anger, ambition, lust and the passions generally. "Jesus Christ will never go with you to a theatre, and if you are a Christian you can never go where Jesus Christ can not go."

He described the dance as towering above the other two evils as Mount Hood above the Coast Range, and characterized it as "the last lap this side of perdition, the recruiting station for the brothel, the handmaid of the saloon and the death knell of the sanctity of the home. I'm not speaking now of the stately old cotillon, or the Virginia reel or square dances generally. But I indict the round dance, the modern dance, because it has as its foundation the call of passion. People are not all alike, and if you say, my sister, that the dance doesn't hurt you, I won't dispute it. But I will say no man can follow the dance any length of time and not be hurt. And when you know that four out of five of your fallen sisters have lost their virtue through the dance, won't you sacrifice your pleasure in it for the sake of the girl who goes down to hell through it? You say people danced in Bible times. Yes, Bible characters danced to the Lord, and the sexes danced separately. Just announce a dance at the town hall to-morrow night for men only and I'll be here, but most of you men wouldn't. The only fascination in dancing is the thrill of the embrace of the opposite sex.

"No girl can frequent the average dance hall and be embraced by every Tom, Dick and Harry, and come out with the same modesty. Now, don't go away and say I said no girl who dances can be pure. I didn't say that. Many pure young women do love to dance, and it is for their protection that I speak. You say you go only to select dances and dance with the best young men, you may be very much mistaken as to their moral character. You can't be a soul winner and dance, you'll have no power with the Son of God. In the name of the weak ones who need you, in the name of the Christ who died for them and you, won't you make a sacrifice for Jesus Christ?"

As Mr. Miller appealed to all Christians, whether or not they have danced or played cards in the past to pledge themselves to do neither, henceforth, the space in front of the platform was crowded, and the aisles half way back were filled.
Mr. Fulton led in a prayer that these Christians, by reason of their taking this stand, might be led into great and effective service in winning souls for the Master. Mr. Miller said after the meeting that he had never before had so full a response to such an appeal.
A number of persons made a definite acceptance of Jesus Christ at this time. This morning a union prayer meeting was held in the tabernacle, taking the place of the cottage prayer meetings. This evening the D. Wilcox men will attend in a body. To-morrow will be Farmers' Day.

QUEER ANIMAL TRAPS

Not Intended as Such, but They Prove Deadly Lures

That almost unerring instinct which carries animals through grave dangers has led in many instances in the Midway and Sunset oil fields of California to their undoing. Chief among such victims are rabbits and water fowl.
A jackrabbit and a cottontail find a nice round, smooth hole. There are many such in the oil fields, where oil piping is necessary for the transportation of oil to the refineries. The rabbits decide to set up housekeeping there. The cottontail desires a permanent home, and the jackrabbit wants a refuge safe from malevolent man.

Soon they discover their habitat is being moved. No doubt they are frightened, but they instinctively stay within their retreat. One end of the hole is closed. Even then they do not leave. Soon the other end of the hole is darkened. Then it is darkness eternal for the furry pair.
Some time later it is discovered that a newly-laid oil pipe line is choked. After great labor the line is disjuncted and the remains of many rabbits removed. Thousands of rabbits have been thus exterminated in the oil fields.
The death rate among water fowl is even greater. Again, as with the rabbits, instinct leads them to certain destruction. Every little lake of oil in the vicinity of a gusher is a trap for the unthinking birds. At twilight and dawn these tar-colored lakes appear as bodies of water to the deluded fowl.—Scientific American.

Sock and Buskin

The expression "sock and buskin" (comedy and tragedy) had its origin in the soccus, the Latin name of the low shoe worn by the ancient comic actors; and the buskin, a contraction of the French word brossequin, remotely derived from the Greek bursa, a hide, or high soled shoe worn by the ancient tragedians to increase their height. The soccus reached only to the ankle, the buskin to the knee.
