Mrs. Zilberman Forgive John D. Rockefeller, Jr. for Having Her Arrested

HE AGAIN GREETED "MOTHER" JONES

Interesting Sidelights as Millionaire Testifies Before the Industrial Relations Commission on the Principles of the Rockefeller Foundation

New York, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Belle Zilberman, who was arrested last summer in the Standard Oil building here while taking part in the so-called mourners' parade, as a protest by the Industrial Workers of the World against the shooting of miners at Ludlow, greeted Mr. Rockefeller to-day when he reached the City Hall where the Industrial Relations Commission hearings are held.

Two Classes Should Meet "Yes, unfortunately," replied Mr. Rockefeller. "There ought to be some ground upon which we can meet and come to a better understanding with each other."

"I don't believe philanthropy will ever bring us together," Mrs. Zilberman replied. "There will have to be some compromise between the classes."

On the witness stand Mr. Rockefeller said he did not believe the Rockefeller foundation would ever, or could, within the terms of its charter, participate in politics, the defense of trusts or anything other than its stated philanthropic purposes.

What Foundation Couldn't Do "Under its charter, might not your foundation circulate editorial criticisms of the government or the churches? Might it not buy a chain of stores, organize a real estate company or conduct propaganda in favor of trade unions or workmen's compensation?"

Chairman Walsh cited a hypothetical case in which the foundation might desire to have circulated a speech of W. L. Maskensie King, opposing certain suggestions which might be made by Frank W. Hayes, of the United Mine Workers of America.

Foundation 100 Years From Now There was no danger, the witness thought, in the possibility that 100 years from now the directors of the foundation might not be men of the same high standards and ideals as the present directors.

DAMAGED BY A SUBMARINE, GAZELLE ABLE TO REACH PORT

Berlin, Jan. 27, By Wireless to Sayville.—Little military news of importance from any of the fields of land warfare has been made public in Berlin during the past few days, and the German military writers have had virtually nothing to say. What news has been given out, however, is regarded as showing the steady development of the German plans everywhere.

The submarine on the island of Ruegen has given rise to speculation as to whether a British or a Russian undersea boat was responsible. British ships have been reported in the Baltic, but nevertheless there is a tendency to believe that the Russians delivered this attack. The Gazelle, though damaged by the submarine, was able to make port unassisted.

AUSTRIANS HAVE BETTER OF THE FIGHTING IN GALICIA

Berlin, Jan. 27, By Wireless to Sayville.—Reports received in Berlin today from Vienna say that the Austrians still are having the better of the artillery contests which have been in progress to the west of Tarnow in Galicia. Severe fighting again is reported from the Carpathian mountains in which the Russians are said to have suffered heavy losses.

Petitioners Submit Protest But Law Makes Their Objections Futile About three hundred residents of Middletown, Royalton and the surrounding townships have attached their signatures to a petition presented to the County Commissioners to-day asking that the county refuse to the Middletown and Swatara Consolidated Water Company permission to lay its twelve inch feed main on the new concrete county bridge over the Swatara creek between Middletown and Royalton.

The petition was marked "filed," but the Commissioners were advised by the County Solicitor, Colonel Fred M. Ott, that even though they have a desire to grant the request of the petitioners, they cannot do so under the law. The right to lay the water main on the county bridge had been granted to the water company by a former board of County Commissioners, free of charge, and the present board of Commissioners has compelled the water company to pay an annual rental of $25 for the use of the bridge.

SIDES WITH MAN HE PROSECUTES

Continued From First Page. an auto some nine or ten feet away from Fleck. The point raised by the District Attorney "who should any hunter be compelled to walk up to a game warden and show his license tag?"

The court announced that it is not incumbent upon a game warden to reveal his identity and show his authority before directing a hunter to show his license tag. The District Attorney argued otherwise and added that he didn't think it the duty of any person to submit to a command "to come here I want to see that tag."

The District Attorney grew sarcastic in referring to the methods followed in this particular case to carry out the law and expressed his opinion that the Legislature did not intend that such procedure should be resorted to. Then it was that the court asked Strop whom he was representing and questioned his right to enter into the case "since the court is the place where justice is dealt out to persons suspected of committing crime."

Lawyers to Submit Briefs But Mr. Strop thought Fleck deserved his services and added that if not, the Attorney General of the State, his deputies, at least, have at one time or another, while they were serving the State, represented defendants charged with misdemeanors.

The case closed and the District Attorney and J. Clarence Funk, representing the game warden, offered further to enlighten the court on the technicalities of the case by agreeing to submit legal briefs.

Fleck is married, has two children, and the District Attorney declared, cannot afford to pay a fine such as was imposed by the magistrate.

COURT HOUSE WILL NEED $4,500,000

State Will Fall Short That Amount in Revenue, According to the Estimates of the Auditor General

When the conference between the Governor, the State's financial officers, the presiding officers of both legislative branches and the chairmen of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees is held to take account of stock in order to ascertain how to cut the revenue cost in order to make over the appropriation cost, which conference was to have been held yesterday, but was postponed because of the illness of State Treasurer Young, it will be represented to those present by Auditor General Powell that the revenues for the fiscal year 1914-15 will not reach the mark of last year, $33,000,000, by about $4,500,000.

It is not expected that more than $28,500,000 will be gathered in for State purposes, and this falling off in the revenue is ascribed to the poor business done by corporations with the consequent falling off in net earnings, on which the State tax is paid. General Powell, however, believes that business for the fiscal year of 1915-16 will pick up and the revenues, according to his guests will be about $30,000,000, allowing for the increased corporation business which he expects.

Asked if he had any suggestions by which more revenue may be raised, General Powell said he had not; that it is his business to collect the money and not to devise ways and means to raise it, which will be the work of the Legislature. A tax on real estate would meet with decided opposition from both city and country and it will be the last resort to get revenue.

Public Service Commission The Johnstown Telephone Company has filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission against the Central District Telephone Company, alleging discrimination in rates. BRUMBAUGH SHIFTS TO USE OF A SPANISH DIALECT

Shows His Versatility as a Linguist by Departing From His "Pennsylvania Dutch" of Yesterday—Getting the Compensation Bill Into Shape

Dropping for the nonce the "Pennsylvania Dutch" expression he used yesterday, Governor Brumbaugh to-day remarked in the mellifluous Castilian language "No savey, señor," when asked by a group of reporters if he had anything of importance to communicate to the public. It was more difficult for the scribes to translate than "nix kum raus," of yesterday, but the official interpreter figured it out that meant that the Governor didn't really know whether he had anything to say.

However, repeated questionings brought out the information that his embodying the legislation advocated by the Governor are in course of completion and that some of them will be sent to the Legislature next week. Concerning the workmen's compensation act, the Governor said that as yet he is not certain whether the matter of compensation will be submitted to the courts or to a commission. The drift of suggestions received by him were in favor of a commission, one that would not entail much cost on the State.

Francis H. Bohlen, representing the Industrial Accident Commission, was present and said that a conference was held with the Attorney General this morning on the several acts relating to labor, and it was quite certain that "legislation satisfactory to all would be enacted.

The State Board of Agriculture, in a body, called on the Governor this morning to pay its respects, and was received by him in the Executive reception room.

Among the callers on Governor Brumbaugh this morning was B. F. Weaver, secretary of the editorial board. The two gentlemen are old friends, having known each other in Huntingdon county.
