"There are, as I understand, two toll bridges between Harrisburg and Cumberland county. Why should not one of them be free! We are making the toll roads free, why not make the toll bridges free! The State can purchase either one of the Harrisburg bridges under this bill and it would be free. If the other wants to charge toll after the first one has been made free, that is its own concern. I propose to push the bill to a final passage."

advantages have often been pointed tout.

The bill of Senator McConnell, I whether or not it provides the best of plan for obtaining a free bridge to the fumberland shore, has been the subject to funde discussion in this and adjointing counties since the fact of its introduction was published in the newspapers this morning. It was recalled shat the State originally intended that the first viaduct across the river from this city should be a free bridge.

The first flarrisburg wagon and foot bridge constructed over the Susquethanna river was authorized by an act passed in 1809. The act incorporated a company, known as the Susquehanna Bridge Company, with a capital of $400,000, but the names of the original incorporators cannot be found. The first directors, however, were Thomas Elder, Jacob M. Haldeman, John Ritscher, George Brenizer, Samuel C. Wiestling, John Howard, William Bryson, George Hoyer, Jacob Boas, Harry Baader, Michael Krehl and John Mytinger.

C. Sproul, of Delaware, who was then in point of age, a young man, the youngest Senator in that body.

Senator Sproul had been elected to the Senate in the fall of 1896 and was serving his first term. His experience in his first term was not a very pleasant one, as in that term the Capitol burned and the legislative session lasted until July and the weather was exceedingly hot.

Senator Sproul has been re-elected at every election for Senator in his county, and in 1903 was president protem. of the Senate. He is a newspaper publisher and connected with a number of public utility companies in the State, notably the Valley Traction Company. The rest of the money for the construction of the bridge seems to have been obtained by private subscription.
