Foley's Honey and Tar Stops those Night Coughs

They Are Weakening, and Disturb the Whole Family.

Coughs and colds usually grow worse at nightfall. Keep a bottle of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR Compound at hand. Use it freely—there is nothing in it that can possibly harm you. But it clears the throat of phlegm and mucus, stops the coughing and tickling, and heals the raw inflamed surfaces.

GEO. D. COBBS, Manx, La., says: "My wife was troubled with a terrible cough, and we could get nothing to relieve her until I asked Dr. Bell of Hornbeck, who recommended FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR so strongly that I purchased a 50c bottle. Before the contents of this bottle were used, the cough had entirely disappeared and her health was completely restored."

PHIL DESORMEAU, Schaffer, Mich., writes: "Last winter I could not sleep at night on account of a bad cough. It did not bother me during the day but started up at bedtime and kept me from sleeping. I was very weak and in bad shape. I started using FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR and was greatly pleased to find that the cough left me entirely, my appetite improved, and I slept soundly at night."

Good druggists are glad to sell FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR Compound because it always satisfies the customer and contains no opiates. Beware of substitutes.

TRADE EXPANSION AND THE EUROPEAN WAR DISCUSSED

Boston Man Outlines to Chamber of Commerce Convention How He Thought American Business Men Could Participate in Peace Question

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—In a discussion of trade expansion and the European war, before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in convention here to-day, Edward A. Filene, of Boston, outlined how he thought American business men could participate in bringing about peace.

"It becomes apparent then that great exertion and great expense for foreign trade expansion must be accompanied by at least equal exertion to make the terms of settlement of the present great war such that Europe will not remain an armed camp.

"As responsible business men we should ask ourselves: What can we business men do, what can the United States do, to help bring about the right terms of settlement of the war? This struggle is so fierce that at present there seems to be no opportunity for any outside interference, however well intended. Moreover, there is apparently no chance of peace being made on any terms within the near future.

"The warring nations will not propose terms of peace until exhaustion or victory comes. The neutral countries, although they are seriously affected and suffer seriously from the effects of the war, can have but little hope that any proposals they may make will be acceptable now. Tentative attempts in this direction have failed. The danger is, therefore, that peace will eventually be made by the warring nations alone and through the same diplomats who were not able to prevent this devastating war. If that happens it is almost inevitable that the terms of settlement will carry the seeds of the next war, leave Europe an armed camp and will keep the whole world for years to come so impoverished that few if any countries will be profitable fields for trade expansion.

"May I add a word of warning. If the United States is to have any direct influence finally in the terms of settlement of the war, such influence will depend largely on the confidence the warring nations have in our fairness and justice. We must play the game straight and not hit below the belt—not try to take unfair advantages of the present export trade helplessness of any of the fighting nations.

"But granted that the war is finally over and the terms of settlement have been such as will at once or in time make the warring nations better off than they were before the war, and the neutral nations better fields for trade expansion yet there are other fundamental factors that must be rightly dealt with before any important permanent trade expansion can be ours."

Foreign Trade Facilities
Mr. Filene discussed a multiplicity of phases of foreign trade facilities, ocean carriage, banking and credit, insurance and the like and then closed with a summary of his address.

"In brief I have tried to show," he said: "1—A method by which we may help make more certain a settlement of the war on a basis which will not leave the world an armed camp with ever-increasing armaments but which will result in a more lasting peace and a basis for the greater and more permanent prosperity of the inhabitants of the warring countries, thus increasing and not diminishing the buying power of the world.

"2—The necessity of just and staple conditions of ocean transport, and a possible method to insure them.

"3—That a very important part of the pioneer work for trade expansion must be done by American banks and bankers. If they are willing to take the risk of such pioneer work they are entitled to the practical support of our business men and of our government.

"4—A type of new machinery by which national trade organizations can very greatly increase the power of all their members to acquire foreign trade.

"5—An improved instrument which will insure to foreign buyers that they will get the goods they have ordered at the time they have ordered them, or else a substantial indemnity.

"6—Finally I have indicated a quality stamp which will give to the ultimate consumer assurance that the American goods he buys with this stamp are reliable and trustworthy."

OPEN SUNDAY AT ATLANTIC

Mayor at Famous Resort Asks Commission to Assess Only Nominal Fines Against Amusement Owners

Atlantic City, Feb. 5.—A move to throw Atlantic City "wide open" on Sunday for all kinds of amusements was made yesterday when Mayor Riddle introduced a bill to amend the municipal code and to amend the ordinance which provides a nominal penalty of $1 for Sunday baseball and all forms of amusement and diversion forbidden by the present ordinance. The latter carries an optional penalty of not less than $10 nor more than $200.

It cannot be moved for two weeks, and may not be called up for a much longer time, as Mayor Riddle leaves on Saturday for Havana and a tour of the South. He will be gone for at least a month.

Later in yesterday's session the Mayor hurried a final broadcast at the forces at war with him over Sunday tango, carnivals, amusements generally and liquid refreshments for thirsty thousands in summer. Joseph A. McNamee, a banker, appeared before the commission to say that, pending a legal decision in the city treasurer's middle, which has suspended the municipal bond-issuing capacity, the bank is prepared to loan from $50,000 to $150,000 or even more to the city upon notes.

"Atlantic City is not seriously in need of money," the Mayor replied tartly. "Its credit is not affected in the slightest degree. I have an offer from a New York bank to lend the city up to $1,000,000 at 4 per cent. But I want to say now that if conditions continue as they are there is going to be a great shortage of money on the part of citizens next winter. Our people are not allowed to take the money away from the people who come here for pleasure as they used to. They have cut off our revenue from the cafes and saloons on Sunday, and now they want to close up the amusement places as well."

When the firm's offices were opened for business yesterday morning a swarm of salesmen appeared, and they kept in force throughout the business day. They offered almost everything under the sun for sale, ranging from chewing gum to army mules.

GOLF CHAMPION ILL

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—John J. McDermott, erstwhile caddy, known to golfers as Jack McDermott, twice national open golf champion, has been confined to a private sanitarium near this city for the past four weeks suffering from "a complete nervous breakdown."

Following his disappearance at Atlantic City a few days before Christmas McDermott vanished from the world and it was not until yesterday that his friends learned his whereabouts. He had charge of the course at the Northfield Country Club in Atlantic City.

IT RUINS HAIR TO WASH IT WITH SOAP

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.
