AN ARTIST'S IMPRESSION OF THE ZEPPELIN ALOFT

In the above illustration the artist gives a very good idea of a recent Zeppelin. The latest are reported to have guns mounted on various platforms at different positions. It is generally believed that the disaster to the Zeppelin which fell near Heligoland some little time before the war broke out was due to the ignition of gas from the flash of the gun which was then being experimented with. The gun was reported to have been mounted on the upper portion of the main body of the Zeppelin. Whether a Zeppelin would feel quite comfortable with so much cloud about as is suggested in the drawing is not quite certain. It is known that during the long runs made by Zeppelins before the war they were shepherded by constant wireless reports as to the weather ahead of them. With the usual meteorological messages from England and America cut off from Germany the planning of the Zeppelin raids must be rendered more difficult. Some surreptitious messages may get through, but in plotting out weather charts one desires the maximum number of reports.

ARAB AND TURK.

The Fierce Enmity Between Them Is Both Racial and Political.

Aside from their political differences, the enmity between the Arab and the Turk is proverbial—a racial, deep-rooted enmity which the new regime instead of overcoming or, at least, tempering has brought successfully to a head. And still the effendi of Constantinople refers to the son of the desert as "that dog of an Arab," and still the desert Arab, who will rime even on his way to Jubbahum, pours out his hatred and contempt in couplets like this:

Three things naught but evil work—
The locust, the vermin and the Turk.
There is such a thing as the fatality of hate, which seems to be a part of the cosmic scheme. Indeed, some people are born to hate each other and the sooner they know it the better. The Young Turk, for instance, when he can neither kufse nor poison nor despoil an Arab aspiring to power, will invite him to Stamboul and make him a pasha—that is, a sublime porte instrument of murder and plunder.

That is why the Arab chiefs as well as the leaders of thought in Syria and Egypt have always resisted these baleful seductions, for to the Arab, whose pride and magnanimity are those of the barbarian, the patriarchal rule of Ibn ur-Rashid of Nejd or the theocratic government of the sheriff of Mecca, with all its open air tyranny and justice, is far better than the stercoratic abominations of Constantinople. —Ameen Rihani in World's Work.

Vanished Happiness.

It Wasn't Appreciated Until It Began to Disappear.

Long, lingeringly, languishingly, he looked at the photograph in his hand. Tears gathered in his handsome eyes like crowds about a scoreboard.

"Is it too late? Is there no hope for me?" he questioned himself as he looked at the likeness with longing languor. "Have I waited too long?"

"The lovely face in the photograph gazed back at him.

Greedy he drank in the trusting expression.

"I did not appreciate you while I had you!" he cried to it. "Oh, is there yet time? Is there yet time?"

With the picture still in his hand, he staggered to the mirror.

There was no doubt of it. The large bald spot in the center of his head was still spreading.

"Oh, why did I not take care of it while I had it?" he moaned, and again his eyes fell yearningly on the picture of himself taken seven years before.—Detroit Free Press.

CANADIAN PACIFIC ONLY

FEATURE OF THE MARKET

A Two-point Advance Results From Yesterday's Declaration of Regular Dividend—This Leading Share Again Move Contrarily

By Associated Press.
New York, Feb. 9.—A two-point advance in Canadian Pacific, resulting from yesterday's declaration of the regular dividend, was the only noteworthy feature of to-day's early and somewhat irregular stock market. Leading shares again moved contrarily, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific scoring slight gains, while Reading and Southern Pacific were fractionally lower. National Lead was the strongest of the specialties, gaining two points, while Federal Mining preferred lost as much. Trading became more active, with a strong undertone at the end of the first half hour.

The optimistic views of the president of the United States Steel Corporation on the foreign trade situation, coupled with another break in exchange on London, were factors in the general rise which followed the early trading. Aside from Canadian Pacific, however, none of the leaders gained as much as a point. Bethlehem Steel continued to rise, despite adverse dividend prospects. Sudden selling of New York Central at a decline of 2 points developed at mid-day. Bonds were easy.
