Old Sea Captain Cured His Own Rupture After Doctors Said "Operate or Death."

His Remedy and Book Sent Free

Captain Collings salied the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and truss after truss. No results! Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abhorrent operation or die. He did neither! He cured himself instead.

PREVENT JAIL BREAKING

Franklin County Officials Made Timely Discovery of Plot Laid by Crooks To Get Freedom

Chambersburg, Feb. 11.—The escape of a score of prisoners from the county jail last night was frustrated when Deputy Sheriff Ellsworth Kuhn found the end of a window bar sawed through and a number of blankets to aid in the escape sewed together. The instrument used was a butcher knife, which had been converted into a saw.

The jail officials knew that ever since 'Bill' Barnes, convicted of having shot and killed Policeman William Daywalt at Waynesboro, was taken to the Frank Keckler, awaiting transfer to the Eastern penitentiary, was discovered to have been the prime mover in the plot, having the assistance of filoward Wingerd and Clarence Wallace, two young men wah had pleaded guilty to highway robbery near Waynesboro on Ohristmas night. Wingerd was taken to the Huntingdon reformatory at noon and Wallace and Keckler placed in irons. With the removal of the bar there would have been an opening of the window large enough to allow a big man to squeeze through. It would have been easy to scale the wall dividing the two jail yards and reach the top of an adjoining shed to freedom. There were twenty prisoners in the department with Wallace, Keckler and Wingerd, among them John Lizer, who has served a penitentiary sentence.

tion of the Fennsylvania railroad, delivered an address Tuesday before the combined commercial organizations of Philadelphia, including the Chamber of Commerce, the Bourse, Board of Trade, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and Manufacturers' Club. He said, in part:

'No step, in my judgment, could be taken by the business men of the country which would be more fruitful of practical benefit to the business life of this nation than practical action to insure that when a man is appointed by either the Federal government or a State to regulate our railroads he shall be qualified by experience and training to consider and pass upon, constructively and helpfully, the many important questions which will come before him.

'To be concrete, my suggestion is that a minority of the railroad commissioners of the States and nation should consist of men trained in the practical conduct of railroad affairs. I suggest that all appointments should be for life or during good behavior; that the salaries should be such as to attract the ablest brains in the country, and that these positions should be surrounded with such prestige and honor that any citizen would feel that he could serve his country and his fellow man in no more exalted capacity than in representing the people in promoting, encouraging and regulating the development of its transportation agencies.

'The country and its commerce cannot progress while the railroads are weak. I need offer little proof of that, after our business experiences of the past few years. Let me say, however, that the question of the welfare of the transportation interests is a personal matter with every citizen. The railroads pay annually, in round figures, $140,000,000 or more in taxes; they are the purchasers, under normal conditions, of one-third of all the steel, iron and lumber products of the country and of many other extensive lines of supplies and material. They employ about 1,700,000 persons.
