

HEAVINESS IN MARKET IS BLAMED ON EVENTS ABROAD

Stocks Show an Uneven Tone at Outset To-day—U. S. Steel, Amalgamated Copper and Other Securities Make Small Gains

New York, Feb. 13.—Stocks showed an uneven tone at the outset of today's session. U. S. Steel and Amalgamated Copper, making small gains, while other leaders, including the trans-continental group, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio and New York Central, inclined to a lower level. Republic Steel fell over a point and other industrials, like American Can, Central Leather, were under Thursday's closing prices. The list as a whole manifested a heavy tendency before the end of the half hour.

The heaviness of today's stock market was attributed to latest international developments. Traders sold moderately at the outset and pursued this course to the end. Important shares lost a point or more. United States Steel yielding in the later dealings. Specialties also were affected to a similar degree. New Haven fell 2 points, reaching again its minimum of 49. Striking exceptions to the general tendency were the various stock and bond issues of the Minneapolis and St. Louis and Iowa Central roads, which made sensational gains on renewed rumors of buying by Canadian Pacific interests. The closing was heavy. Bonds were irregular.

NEWVILLE BOND ISSUE BEATEN

Plan to Raise $10,000 for New Fire Apparatus Defeated at Polls

Newville, Pa., Feb. 13.—By a vote of 163 to 105 the plan of the Newville councilmen to float a $10,000 loan to provide for buying modern fire fighting apparatus was defeated in the special election held yesterday. Councilmen, upon learning of the result of the election were somewhat disheartened and announced that they will take no further action at present to improve the fire department.

In the North Ward the opposition was heavy, the vote being 95 against the loan and 56 for it. The South Ward vote was 68 against the loan and 49 for it.

Newville's present fire fighting equipment consists of one chemical engine and several lines of hose, the water pressure being controlled by gravity. In recent years Newville has had several destructive fires.

The loan was beaten, it is said, on the contention that it would have a tendency to increase the tax rate.

BUILDING CAVES IN AS BLACKWELL STARTS SPEECH

pour forth soul-stirring words of patriotism, but he never got the first sentence finished. The vibration felt at the second applause was at that instant followed by low rumblings and the rear brick wall of the building began to crumble and fall into the refreshment room, just back of the speaker.

In an instant pieces of brick, mortar and thick clouds of dust began to pour into the hall and just as quickly a rush of the 100 colored voters was made for the windows, of which there are but two facing Adams street.

Fortunately for the audience several telegraph poles stood just outside the windows and these were clutched by sliding colored men, each trying to reach ground first. The rush to get out of the windows was so great that several men were pushed out feet first by those in the rear, but all landed unhurt on the ground, about 12 feet below.

Some rolled down the steps. Witnesses say that none was more precipitate in escaping from the building than Blackwell, who went down the stairs on the crest of the wave of arms, legs and bodies.

When examination of the building was made afterward it was found that the whole of the rear wall, from the second floor up, had fallen down. No body was killed or injured.

WANTS "LOOK" AT BRUMBAUGH

Juniata Valley Neighbor Learns That It Will Cost Her Nothing

"Is this the Capitol?" asked a lady of the guide at the main entrance to the capitol this morning. Being informed that it was, she asked:

"How much to get in?"

"Nothing, madam," said the guide. "Then I guess we'll go in. I'm from Juniata Valley and I thought I would like to have a look at Governor Brumbaugh, you know he's from the valley. Do you think I could see him?"

"The guide thought he didn't know."

"Well, I'm going to try, anyway. How do I get to his place where he does his business?"

The guide gave her the necessary directions and the last seen of her she was headed for the executive department to "have a look." Just at present almost all of the visitors to the capitol want to see where Governor Brumbaugh is located, and the supply of Huntingdon county neighbors seems unlimited.

TO OPERATE NEW SIGNALS

P. R. E. Soon to Place New Electric System in Effect—Employees Must Pass Examinations

The initial step toward the operation of the new electric system on the Philadelphia Terminal division of the Pennsylvania railroad will be taken to-morrow, when the new electric light signal system will be thrown in operation between Bry Mawr and Philadelphia.

Engineers and firemen who must pass between these two points are undergoing examinations under the Philadelphia division signal instructor, J. S. Dellinger, in his rooms in the Cumberland Valley railway station. No employees who are required to know these signals will be allowed to go out on their runs until they have passed the examinations with a certain percentage.

The signals are governed by lights both day and night. These lights will take the place of the arms of the present system. In place of each arm are four lights, which can be operated at any angle. No change from the angles now in use will be made.

Engineers are also notified that in case the lights fail to prevent the correct reading of a signal indication it must be regarded as an imperfectly displayed signal.

The electrifying of the main line between Philadelphia and Paoli was started by the company more than a year ago, the completion of which is believed by officials to be an event of the near future.

BODY OF GIRL BURNED BEFORE BONE WERE BURIED

at 542 South Fifteenth street. Mr. Regar was much surprised to learn of the finding of the body in his former home and had not been visited by any investigator until a Star-Independent reporter went to his home.

Regar said that he occupied the house at 133 South Fourteenth street, for but a short time. He said he had noticed a peculiar odor in the cellar all the time he lived there. It was more noticeable on damp days when he could scarcely go into the cellar because of it. He described the odor as that of decaying animal matter. The place had been fumigated several times but that did not better conditions. Mrs. Regar and the children became ill, he said, and he removed to his present home.

The cellar contained many old boards when he moved into it. He was asked about the persons who preceded him in the house but could only remember the name Hoopes. The Hoopes family, he had heard had removed to Florida. The cellar was cleaned up before Stoner moved in.

How far Coroner Eekinger's investigation had gone could not be learned as he could not be reached this morning. At his home it was said that he was out. He had not called on the police department for aid up to noon to-day and the police admit they have done nothing save to look over their records for news of missing girls.

District Attorney Stroup was notified of the finding of the bones and ordered Coroner Eekinger to make the fullest investigation possible, to include getting the names of the persons who occupied the house. District Attorney Stroup said he will take up the case later when the Coroner's investigation is completed.

Police Captain Joseph P. Thompson denied a statement published this afternoon that the police connected the names of a Cleveland, Ohio, couple with the supposed murder. This published statement said Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Hoopes, formerly of this city, now of 2115 Brainard street, Cleveland, may know something of the murder mystery. Captain Thompson said the police have no reason for believing the Hoopes knew anything about the bones in the cellar.

LAW-MAKERS TO BE BUSY

Reassemble Monday to Do Some Real Work Before Taking Long Recess

Both the Senate and House will meet on Monday night to take up the regular calendars and let in another flood of bills. It is expected that the Senate will do some real work next week before it adjourns Wednesday. The House will work until Thursday. The local option bill will not be considered until some time in April, according to latest advice. By that time the friends of the measure hope to have sufficient support to pass it. The opponents, however, say that it will be defeated at any time.

Governor Brumbaugh is expected to send in a number of nominations to the Senate at the Monday session.

pike, while the other fellows "pulled the job."

Higgins was beaten into unconsciousness, robbed of all his valuables and left lying across the trolley track. A motorman's timely discovery of the unconscious form of Higgins lying on the rails prevented the victim from being killed, so the police say.

Higgins was robbed of about $800, including a $400 diamond ring, $150 diamond cluster scarf pin, $75 gold watch, $30 Elks lodge chain, $20 gold watch chain, $130 in cash and a bunch of keys.

District Attorney Stroup said that Higgins volunteered information that likely will lead to the recovery of the jewelry from Pittsburgh pawn shops, where something like $50 was obtained on the valuables. Higgins himself signed the information charging Heagy and Gibb with highway robbery and he will be here to testify at the preliminary hearing on Tuesday afternoon.

Constable Haines early this week learned the whereabouts of Heagy and Gibb and they were arrested Wednesday by George B. Moyer and James Watkins, Youngstown detectives, in the Ohio city.

PERFORMER IN HYPNOTIC STATE

He Also Places Nine Subjects Under Influence at One Time

Self-hypnotizing was apparently successfully demonstrated before a large audience in the City Gray's Armory, last night by Prof. Dimmor, who is here under the auspices of the Moose carnival.

After the professor had placed himself in a trance he demonstrated to the audience by having five men stand on his body, suspended between two chairs, the back of his head resting on one with his heels on another. The professor did this stunt. In opening his performance he proceeded to hypnotize the nine subjects before him at one time, all of them locking hands and scrambling over the stage to free themselves.

Three couples contested for the prize waltz, which was won on a one-step. The judges could not decide in favor any three so it was finally left to the audience. The judges were unable to learn the names of the winning couple. The crowd was exceptionally large, it being the best evening since the opening of the carnival, last Monday evening.

building when he slipped and fell fifteen feet to the ground. He landed on his face which was badly bruised and cut above the left eye. His hands also were badly bruised. He was taken to the Harrisburg hospital in an automobile and after treatment was sent home. His condition is not serious.

The burning hay in the loft gave the firemen a lot of trouble, the smoke being thick. Most of them had to don masks. The rear of the building, where the blaze started, was damaged the worst, the roof being burned off. The other parts of the building containing the draughting room were damaged by water. The expensive cutting machinery, driven by electric motors, may be found to have been ruined by water.

Mr. Black, who has been confined to his home with rheumatism for fourteen weeks, ventured out for the first time this morning to view the fire. He is at a loss to account for the origin of the blaze.

Several weeks ago a garage and automobile belonging to Mr. Black was destroyed by fire entailing a loss of $1,500. He had no insurance on the building or the machine.

Must Pay State Tax

It matters not what process a company may use in providing cold storage quarters, that system cannot be classed as "manufacturing," Judge Kunkel made that finding in an opinion filed with the Prothonotary this morning in the case of the Industrial Cold Storage and Warehouse Company, of Philadelphia. The company appealed from a state tax levy, on the ground that it became a manufacturer in providing its cold storage quarters, and further contended that as a manufacturer it was exempt from taxation. The court now holds it is liable for the tax.
