Cavalry Mounts Level in the Dash and Fury of the Charge It will probably surprise you, said a retired colonel of hussars, to learn that a cavalry horse usually enjoys a battle at least as much as his rider and dis-plays as much courage in it. He will chafe and stamp with impatience while waiting for the order to charge and at the signal will dash forward like a grey-hound released from the leash, full of fire and fury and often neighing wildly. At the moment of contact with the ene-savagely at the opposing horses and trampling down the infantry. When his rider falls he will dash agallantly into the foe. In the famous charge of the Light Brigade scores of riderless horses swept down the "val-ley of death," thundering through the smoke on to the Russian guns, and gal-loped back in safety with the shattered remnant of the brigade. Five horses raced neck and neck with Lord Alfred Paget, who rode in advance of the line, so eager were they to get at the enemy. Cavalry Mounts Revel in the Dash and
