WARREN'S ADDRESS

No. 11. BY REV. JOHN PIERPONT

As a companion piece to Bruce's Address, given in the last number, the compiler here presents the supposed address of Dr. Joseph Warren to the "embattled farmers" who fought at Bunker's Hill. As 3,000 British soldiers were advancing to the breastworks where 1,054, including 89 officers, fell before the unerring aim of the farmers' fowling pieces; as the 500 wooden houses of Charlestown were going up in a pyramid of fire, Dr. Warren joined his countrymen; and, although appointed a major general by the Continental congress, served as a volunteer in the ranks, encouraging and directing his fellow patriots wherever his services appeared to be most needed.

General Warren was a man, who, to the purest patriotism and most undaunted bravery, added the virtues of domestic life, the eloquence of an accomplished orator, and the wisdom of an able statesman. He was killed in the retreat. Finding his corps hotly pursued by the enemy, despising all danger, he stood alone before the ranks, endeavoring to rally his troops, and encourage them by his example. He pointed to their ensigns, and reminded them of their cheering mottoes. An English officer perceived him, and, knowing him, having borrowed a musket, shot him dead upon the spot. Thus died the patriot Warren but 34 years old.

Stand! the ground's your own, my brave,
Will ye give it up to slaves?
Will ye look for greener graves?
Hope ye mercy still?
What's the mercy despots feel?
Hear it in that battle peal,
Read it on yon bristling steel,
Ask it, ye who will!

And before you, see
Who have done it! From the vale
On they come! and will ye quail?
Leaden rain and iron hail
Let their welcome be!

In the God of battles trust!
Die we may—and die we must;
But, oh, where can dust to dust
Be consigned so well.

As where heaven's dews shall shed
On the martyrred patriot's bed,
And the rocks shall raise their head,
Of his deeds to tell!

MISS GLOSE, WITH ACCENT ON THE "E," TO SING AT ORPHEUM

An important asset of an Orpheum is a repertoire of good songs. Miss Glose will be an added attraction to a rattling Keith bill comprising two metropolitan headliners, namely the Omar Grand Opera Company and George Pollock and company in a comedy sketch, "Speaking to Father." Hoey and Lee, in new fun and new parodies, also return next week.—Adv.*

KNIFING DELIVERY EXPENSE

Future Possibilities of the Reo Trucks Awakening Amazing Amount of Interest Among Merchants

George G. McFarland, president of the Harrisburg Automobile Company, in speaking of cars and trucks says:

"The future possibilities of Reo trucks cutting down and knifing the expense of delivery is daily awakening an amazing amount of interest with merchants and business men. Every business man is keen to cut corners and stop leaks. With a Reo truck there is seldom, if ever, any repair or expense. It is just like delivering your goods by overhead wire. Place them on the truck, press the button and it will need no further attention except the driver's ordinary work. Merchants, dairymen, draymen, manufacturers and farmers; in fact every person who hauls or delivers, will have to adopt the modern means of hauling. Reo trucks solve the question. They are in the public eye. They have got a start and will keep going. There never were so many Reo trucks sold as are being ordered now."
