COURT REBUKES PERSONS WHO WRITE TO JUDGES

Characterizes As Improper the Ser of Communications Relating to Pending Cases-Hoffman and Bowman Answer Charges in Court

Rebuking persons who either verbally or by letter attempt to discuss pending litigation with a court judge, and classing such persons as no less seious offenders, than the man who attempts to bribe a juror, Judge Gorge Kunkel, at the close of the annual license court on Saturday evening, declared that neither he nor Judge McCarrell "wants to hear anything about any case outside of court."

The president judge made the remark while discussing with members of the bar the contents of one of two letters received from laymen who asked the court to put certain restrictions on hotel men. The letter writer referred to failed to appear in court, and although he gave his name he did not give his place of residence. Rebuking persons who either

The Court's View of Letters

"We do think, however, that they should have been sent to the District Attorney," continued the court, "but now that they are here, we want to know further about them. No one has a right to discuss a case one way or another with the court and we don't want to hear anything about any case outside of court. It is just as improper to approach a judge on a pending case as it is a jury."

Of the letters received by the judges, one charged that Edward G. Hoffman, proprietor of the Hoffman House, a Market street hotel, permitted women of immoral character to frequent a side room in the hostelry. The other alleged that Willliam H. Bowman, proprietor of the St. Lawrence hotel, Berrysburg, furnished liquor to drunkards.

Both Bowman and Hoffman denied the charges. Hoffman stated that in October last, but seven women were accommodated at his hotel; in November, continued; Samuel Bower vs. R. L.
