HINTS ON THE PREVENTION OF INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS

oner Jackson Comments Upor the Great Loss in Time and Money to Both Employers and Employes Due to Mishaps in 1914

A circular has been issued by John Price Jackson, Commissioner of Labor and Industry, which includes some in teresting facts compiled from a tabula tion of the accidents reported to the Department of Labor and Industry during the year 1914. Commissioner Jackson says: . "Thirty-eight thousand, oue hundred them hundreds of "kisses," invitations for correspondence with "eligibles" for and twenty-six accidents were reported have been sent out by four Cleveland girls. They are Miss Anna Higgins, Miss Rose Welchheck, Miss Emma to the State Department of Labor and Industry during the year 1914. This represents a great loss, not only in time and money to both employers and employes, but also represents a widespread condition of suffering and unhappiness in the families of the workmen. East Sixty-ninth street, Cleveland, Ohio. The sweet beginnings of possible romances were discovered yesterday morning when a bucket of candy kisses was opened at the Trimmer Five and Ten Cent store. On the top of the bucket was a piece of card board with the names and the mere request for eligibles "to write." "The one hopeful feature of the workmen. "The one hopeful feature of this record is that of the 38,000 accidents, 34,000 are reported of minor serious-ness. Such a large number of accidents of this character would seem to indi-cate a greater amouat of carelessness than of actual danger and would im-ply a possibility that the number could be greatly reduced. "One of the best ways of prevent-ing accidents is by educating the indi-vidual workman to a realization of his absolute personal responsibility. Gettysburg, Fob. 24.—'The Wan-derlusters,'' an organization of Balti-more men, are due to visit Gettysburg on Sunday, March 28, if they accept an invitation which was extended to absolute personal responsibility. Each man should become trained to avoid absolute personal responsibility. Each man should become trained to avoid foolhardy or careless actions when working with machinery, and also trained to use the precautionary meth-ods that are being so generally devel-oped by safety experts throughout our large industries. Employers should see to it that educational work in the mills is accompanied by the best mechanical means of protection, by supplying safeguards for all dangerous places, and where necessary for the moving parts of machinery. them yesterday by a number of the business men of town. Dickinson College Banquet Carlisle, Feb. 24.—With two hun-dred persons, students of the college and law school members of the facul-ties and alumni present, Dickinson Col-lege held its annual Washington's birthday banquet in the college gym-nasium iMonday night. The decorations were beautiful, the food delicious and the speaking excellent. Suspended from the running track above hung on every wall were the banners of the various collegs, classes and fraternities, but especially the Red and White of Old Dickinson. Each class had its table and vied to preposess the eye. Each vaunted the class colors with flowers in profusion. The menu was well chosen and fitted the occasion perfectly, after which came the real treat of the even-ing.

nears of protection, by supplying asfeguards for all dangerous places, and where necessary for the moving parts of machinery. "The loss in wages due to the acci-dents reported was $1,048,503.96, and this is by no means the total amount. In this figure the loss of employers has not been included. Whenever an acci-dent occurs, it causes a general disturb-ance among all the workmen that re-quires some time to settle again to normal activity. The injured man must, in many instances, be replaced by one who is probably new to the es-tablishment, and probably less experi-enced in that particular job. In this way the organization of the establish-ment is disrupted, production is les-sened and costs increased. According ly, it may be justly assumed that the $1,048,503.96 given above represents only a part of the total monetary loss. "According to the report, the total number of days lost by the workman on account of thess accidents is 426,824. This would be equal to the time of one man working steadily from 300 years after Ohrist to the present, namely, sixteen centuries. As no cases were reported to the department which oc-casioned two days or less of inability to work, it can readily be seen that this number of days lost, as well as the amount of money, is fat below the total loss in our industries. The aver-age loss to each workman, according to then where reported, was 12 days. "If this were all of the story; that is the economic effect of these 38,126 accidents, it would be sufficiently strong to show a great need of remedy. But when we consider the far-reaching injury to the social well-being of the poople of our Commonwealth, the need of remedy grows imperative. It has been found that depending upon these injured workmen are 64,016 other per-sons. This means a total of over 100,-000 persons affected by the accidents re-ported to the department. dependents the loss is time and money and sufferings perhaps equaling that of the employe. "The report under discussion, the most important figures of which have been quoted, shows the economic and social importance of industrial acci-dents. It is hoped that this presents<sup>4</sup> to the necessity of accident prevention work. It is believed that by the united efforts of all concerned this great bur-den of suffering and loss can be tre-mendously reduced."

35 per cent, and from 60 to 40 per cent. on undecorated and decorated earthen-ware, respectively. The report says the imports of pottery for the first twelve months of the tariff law increased less than a half million dollars over the last twelve months of the old law. The following conclusions are given as general statements of fact: ''The potters of the United States are without adequate knowledge of the costs of oroduction in their own in-dustry. The general level of costs was considerably higher in the United States. In fact, the lowest cost of pro-duction in any American pottery ex-ceeded that of the highest cost of production in any European pottery, duction in any American pottery ex-ceeded that of the highest cost of production in any European pottery, except one establishment in Austria. "Competitive prices of American and foreign ware in the United States are not determined solely by the differ-ence in cost of production at home and abroad. Other factors, including cus-toms duties, transportation charges and incidental expenses, are sufficient, as shown in the report to offset the dif-ference in the cost of production. "In spite of the fact that the aver-age wages paid in American potteries by from 90 to over 600 per cent., the labor cost per unit of product never shows so great a difference as 82 per cent. (except in German china plants). This indicates the greater efficiency of American workmen.

This indicates the greater efficiency of American workmen. "The standard list upon which American potters base their selling price is obsolete. Comolete revision is necessary before American potters can intelligently sell their ware. "There is a distinct need for more scientific methods of production, which can be brought about only by highly skilled instruction and more scientific research work.

skilled instruction and more scientific research work. "Finally, this report has aimed to be constructive in its analysis of the pottery industry. There are means, and these have been pointed out, by which the cost of production may be ma-terially reduced. And these costs must be reduced, not only that the American industry may concerne with formit be reduced, not only that the American industry may compete with foreign products brought into this market, but in order that American products may compete in foreign markets." The investigation was made in the potteries of England, Germany and Austria and in the United States, in forty-eight establishments in New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Marvland. The report deals exhaustively with the mechanical, scientific, labor and mar-keting processes connected with the in-dustry.
