SEEK TO ANNUL CHARTER Complaint Against People's Railway of Schuylkill County Pottsville, Pa., March 3.—A committee of the Pottsville Merchants' Association yesterday appealed to the Public Service Commission to annul the charter of the People's Railway, an old and wealthy corporation of this county, because many of the streets which the company was chartered to carry traffic upon have never been occupied by the tracks. It is also charged that the People's Railway, which owns the tracks of the Eastern Pennsylvania Railway Company, compels the latter corporation to charge 10 cents fare between Pottsville and Mar Lin, a distance of only two miles. Manager Rockwell, of the Eastern Pennsylvania Railway Company, stated to the merchants that his company is willing to cut the fare in half if arrangements can be made with the People's Railway Company.

ANGRY WOMAN BURNS BARN Had Made Threats and Confesses After Arrest Sunbury, Pa., March 3.—As an act of revenge, Mrs. William Gademam, a well-known resident of Rushtown, this county, applied a match to the large barn of W. H. Gulick, and before the fire was discovered the flames had gained such headway that the building was destroyed, together with practically all its contents, including five cows, nine hogs, 500 bushels of oats and quantities of wheat and rye. The barn was one of the largest and finest in this vicinity. Monday night Mrs. Gademam, who lives close to the Gulick farm, appeared at the latter's house and made threats. Yesterday morning after the fire she was arrested, and before a local Justice she confessed having fired the barn. She is now in jail. State Fire Marshal T. G. Ryan, of Danville, is making a further investigation of the fire.

In Burlington the license vote carried the day by the narrow margin of twenty-five votes. Rutland, the second largest city in the State, remained wet by three votes. Other of the important places which are wet are St. Albans, Vergennes, Colchester, Shoreham, Fairhaven, Brigton and Isle La Motte.

DELAWARE AND HUDSON COMPANY SAYS THERE IS NO MARKET Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 3.—Notices were posted at all the Delaware and Hudson collieries of this section yesterday to the effect that operations were being indefinitely suspended. No reason is given for the suspension in the notices, but company officials say that there is no big market for coal at the present time, and that the company has sufficient coal in storage to meet all demands of consumers. Eight collieries in the Wyoming Valley are affected by the order and about 12,000 men and boys are thrown out of employment. While the suspension is on needed repairs will be made about all collieries.

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM are always aggravated during damp, changeable weather and ordinary treatments are often useless. Such conditions need the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion to reduce the injurious acids and strengthen the organs to expel them. Scott's Emulsion, with careful diet for one month, often relieves the lame muscles and stiffened joints and subdues the sharp, unbearable pains when other remedies have failed. NO ALCOHOL IN SCOTT'S.

MILK ORDINANCE ILLEGAL Judge at Allentown Knocks Out License Feature Allentown, March 3.—In an opinion yesterday, Judge Groman shot to pieces the meat and milk inspection bill passed by the city council last May. The ordinance provides for an inspector and an annual license fee of $5 is charged, while some dealers, who sold a good many saloonkeepers, were asked to pay double, especially those who sold milk over the bar and had an eating contest. The decision enjoins the city authorities from collecting any license fees from those who sell their own products and knocks out the sections relative to adulteration of milk as contrary to state law. The court suggests a good deal of amending to make the bill legal in other ways.

FEBRUARY REVENUE GROWS Increased Receipts Filling Uncle Sam's Strongbox Washington, D. C., March 3.—For the first time since July, government revenues for a month of the present fiscal year have beaten the pace set during the fiscal year 1914. During February the Treasury Department received in revenue from all sources $43,636,272, compared with receipts in February, 1914, of $43,633,857. Ordinary expenditures, however, amounted to $36,137,624, leaving a net deficit for the month of about $12,500,000. The excess of ordinary disbursements for the eight months of the fiscal year, which ended yesterday, over receipts for that period, amounted to $83,356,622. Customs receipts for February amounted to $14,393,395, or about $3,200,000 less than last February. Internal revenue receipts ran up to $24,625,639, or about $3,300,000 more than last February. Much of this increase was due to returns from the emergency tax. The net balance in the Treasury's general fund at the end of February was $42,636,065 and the total cash assets in the Treasury $1,975,859,376.

Thurston, the Magician Thurston, the magician, will close his local engagement at the Majestic with a matinee and night performance today. The popularity of Thurston is readily understood after witnessing one of his performances. The absence of sameness is strikingly noticeable, every act is different from the one preceding it, for while one astounds and astonishes, the rest may be of such an amusing character as to throw the audience into a convulsion of laughter. Thurston is conceded to be the peer of entertainers in his class. His genial manner, his mode of execution of the various tricks and illusions and the great amount of humor he throws into his work with his delightful patter adds to the general excellence of the program. This year Thurston is presenting a more bewildering array of new mysteries than ever before the most prominent are "The New Woman," "Noah's Vision," "Balaam and His Donkey," "Animated Sketches," "The Evolution of the Negro," "Aerial Fishing," "The Chocolate Soldier" and "Creation."—Adv.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" In Eugene Walter's dramatization of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," the widely read novel by John Fox, Jr., the author of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," you see presented on the stage the typical mountain community of the Virginia hills. The primitiveness of the people is shown in all its picturesque and charm and you will love June and her kinfolk far more on the stage than you did when you wandered with her through the pages of Mr. Fox's delightful story. In her characterization of June, Miss Dixie Compton emphasizes the wild mountain girl's longing for the knowledge of the world outside of her mountain environment and which is, after all, the strongest motive of mankind. This dramatic success comes to the Majestic to-morrow afternoon and evening.—Adv.

"Damaged Goods" Richard Bennett's New York Company of co-workers, comes to the Majestic on Saturday afternoon and evening in Eugene Brieux's great sociological drama, "Damaged Goods," which has created wider interest than any other play produced on the American stage within the last decade. The New York "Times" has described it as the play which initiates a new epoch of civilization. "Damaged Goods" is a powerful purposed drama and deals with a subject of the social evil and its related "social diseases," subjects hitherto considered taboo not only for the stage but for the pulp and the press, but the sincerity and startling frankness of its treatment and the earnestness with which Mr. Bennett and his co-workers interpret Brieux's play, rob it of all unhealthy sensationalism, and causes it to be accepted as a profound moral lesson.—Adv.

AT THE REGENT All lovers of good film plays, well acted, will want to witness the dramatization of "The Straight Road" by Clyde Fitch, at the Regent this afternoon and evening. Miss Gladys Hanson portrays the character of Holl O'Hara, the girl of the Slums, who rises above the mire of her squalid and iniquitous environment to make one of the most tremendous sacrifices of which the heart of woman is capable. —Adv.

THE MALTESE DERBY Its Curious Race Course With Go as You Please Rules Horse racing is a favorite sport the world over, but it is doubtful whether any nation can boast of such a curious race course or claim more remarkable shows of the sport than the Maltese. Once a year the road skirting Sliema harbor is reserved as a race course, and the people turn out in thousands. There is no regulation of the course. The crowd simply clears out of the way as the horses come along. The jockeys ride without bridles or saddles, and each carries a whip in either hand—one for his own mount, the other to keep back any horse which may try to overtake him. We saw one of the spectators deliberately trip a horse up by putting his leg out, at grave risk to himself. These things, however incredible as they seem to sportsmen in this country, are taken as quite a matter of course, and consequently hardly a year goes by without a fatality of some kind. All things considered, it is not likely that the "go as you please" rules of this Maltese derby are likely to commend themselves to other turf authorities.—Wide World Magazine.
