Souvenirs for every man that enters our store on Saturday—first opening day.

JIM says At Six South Fourth St. (2 Doors From Market St.)

I will open to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, Saturday, March 6th, my new idea of Clothing Store, the watchword of which will be quality, with volume of business. I have a number of new ideas, which will prevail throughout the entire store. I am showing in my South Fourth Street Store the finest quality of Spring merchandise at positively and absolutely the following prices—at $10.00, at $12.50 and at $15.00. The old way—a clothier advertised prices in the newspapers, had prices in his windows and on entering his store had some method whereby he showed you finer goods, better linings or some such idea in order to get you to raise your price. My new way means courteous clerks standing around to take your order—you are to be the salesman—there will be absolutely but one price in this store, and at any of the above-mentioned prices the quality of cloth will be based on prices of $25 and $30 suitings.

I guarantee to every customer that the woollens in any style suit displayed in my new store will be equal to those shown by any $25-$30 suit—absolutely all wool and worsted. I guarantee any suit of clothes you buy for the life of the garment. Positively no extra charge for full Dress Suits.

To the Mothers of Harrisburg and Vicinity

A pair of Shoes free to every boy. My twenty years' experience as a clothing merchant has brought to me the realization it is the mothers to whom we owe the credit of our well-dressed boys in America. NON-MAGNETIC YACHT STARTS ON TWO YEARS' VOYAGE

THE CARNEGIE UNDER FULL SAIL

One of the longest voyages ever undertaken was begun when the non-magnetic yacht Carnegie weighed anchor and passed out of the Narrows, in New York Bay, on a cruise which is expected to take her to both the northern and southern extremities of the globe. A southerly course will be laid to the Panama Canal, thence in a northerly direction to the Arctic Circle, where several months will be spent. The next leg of the voyage will take the vessel to the Antarctic. The vessel will be gone about two years. The Carnegie is operated by the Carnegie Institute, of Washington, and is being used to determine the origin and the varied distribution of the earth's magnetic currents. The yacht is an auxiliary brigantine and was placed in commission in April, 1909. She is commanded by Captain Ault.

<h4>EUROPE'S GIRLS LACK CANDY</h4> Sweet Exports From U. S. Cut Down—Bean Retaliation? New York, March 5.—The girls they left behind them when the British Tommy, his French colleague and his German enemy went off to the war have suffered a good deal more than has been supposed up to this time. The candy export figures from this country prove it. Europe curtailed the bean supply of the United States when Austria's exports were stopped. Now America has retaliated by reducing the quantity of candy sent to the Old World. The first five months of the war caused a decrease of $153,823 in the value of candy exports from the United States, as compared with the same period of the year before. The value of the total exports of candy for the calendar year was $1,185,894.	<h4>GRAIN CARS TIE UP YARDS</h4> Shipowners Unwilling to Take Risk of Carrying Wheat Abroad Jersey City, N. J., March 5.—A tie-up at the West Shore railroad yards at Weehawken of about 3,000 cars, mostly loaded with wheat, is attributed by railroad and marine interests here to the unwillingness of ship owners to risk their craft because of war zone conditions that have prevailed during the last two weeks. Two grain elevators holding a total of about 400,000 bushels are filled. Only one shipment has been made during the last fortnight, a Norwegian steamer having sailed with 180,000 bushels of wheat and other grain. Before the German war zone notification was issued grains reaching the yards from western points were forwarded quickly. Of late, however, ship owners have hesitated in attempting deliveries.	<h4>POOR BOX ROBBED</h4> Whalebone With Glue On End Is Found On Church Prisoner New York, March 5.—Joseph Dimonte, 28, of 155 Smith street, Brooklyn, was arrested late yesterday afternoon in the Church of St. Francis De Chantilly at Thirteenth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, charged with attempting to rob the poor box. A whalebone with a lump of glue on the end and a bag containing $2.33 was found on him. He was locked up in the Fourth avenue police station on a technical charge of petty larceny. The Rev. Charles McCallion, assistant rector of the church, saw Dimonte standing near the poor box with his hand upon it. When he attempted to question him the man tried to flee from the church. He was captured and Policeman Ryan called.
<h4>FIFTY-FIRST TIME IN PRISON</h4> Vagrant's Sentences to Penitentiary Farm Exceed Twelve Years Philadelphia, March 5.—For the fifty-first time Thomas Dillon, a decrepit old man, giving an address at Third and De Lancey streets, took a ride yesterday to the House of Correction. He was sent there for vagrancy by Magistrate Renshaw in the City Hall police court and will not depart for two years. Magistrate Renshaw figured that, assuming that Dillon had served three months each time he was sentenced, he must have passed twelve and one-half years at the Penitentiary farm.	<h4>Forest Fire Sweeps Irish Hills</h4> Reading, March 5.—A dangerous forest fire burned over 25 acres of timber on the north side of the Irish Hills, located midway between Temple and Blanton, yesterday. A spark from a passing engine on the Reading railway is believed to have started the blaze.	<h4>FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY A HERO</h4> Williamsport Lad Saves Life of Younger Brother Williamsport, March 5.—George Stanley, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Stanley, was acclaimed a hero yesterday when he saved his 2-year-old brother from burning to death. The two children were alone in the house, Mrs. Stanley having gone on an errand to a neighbor's home. While playing with a celluloid ruler, the younger boy stuck one end of it in the stove and the ruler burst into flames, setting fire to his clothing. Seemingly to realize his brother's danger and just what was necessary to be done, George quickly threw him on the floor and picking up a rug threw it over him, smothering the flames.

SCENE FROM "TWIN BEDS," FARCE WHICH RETURNS TO THE MAJESTIC THEATRE NEXT TUESDAY

Home-loving husbands who, after a hard day's work at the office, lean toward slippers and a cheerful fire grate, a lounging robe, the evening paper, a pipe and an easy chair, will understand the mental attitude of Harry Hawkins, the young husband in Selwyn & Co.'s production of that uproariously funny farce, "Twin Beds." Wives who are left alone all day while the money-getter is on the job will sympathize with Mrs. Hawkins, who wants to go out of an evening and seek and enjoy excitement, to wear fine feathers, to be seen and to see. No playgoer who laughs with and at "Twin Beds" can fail to imagine the complications which would arise between such divergent natures, but Margaret Mayo, the clever author of "Baby Mine," gives the situation an unexpected twist, which fools your imagination, and at the same time tickles it. Therein lies the subconscious enjoyment of the farce. "Twin Beds" will play a return engagement at the Majestic next Tuesday, matinee and night.—Adv.

In the Dumps

There was once an Egyptian king, so it is said, who built a pyramid and died of melancholy. His name was Dumops, yet there are probably few persons who know that they are perpetuating the memory of his tragic history when they remark that they are "in the dumps."

Sydney Smith on War

Sydney Smith found humor in most things, but none in war. In the Edinburgh "Review" of a century ago he wrote: "If three men were to have their legs and arms broken and were to remain all night exposed to the inclemency of the weather the whole country would be in a state of the most dreadful agitation! Look at the wholesale death of a battlefield—ten acres covered with dead and dying, and the shrieks and agonies of many thousand human beings! There is more misery inflicted upon mankind by one year of war than by all the civil peculations and oppressions of a century." And he added that it was the business of wise and good men to get themselves against the spirit that produced wars—"this passion for military glory."
