Mr. and Mrs. A. Maxwell Paget Left at Noon For Their Home in Far East

Mr. and Mrs. A. Maxwell Paget left at noon today for Canton, China, where they will reside in the future. A large company of friends were at the depot to bid them "bon voyage."

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. You can now get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

MUSTEROLE does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Just massage MUSTEROLE in with the finger-tips gently. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

And there is nothing like MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsillitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chills, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest (it often prevents Pneumonia).

At your druggist's, in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Refuse imitations—get what you ask for. The Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

EARS ARE IN STYLE AGAIN—LIFT UP YOUR HAIR

The new style of lifting the hair from the ears looks much nicer if the hair is soft so it drapes around the ears rather than being pulled up in straight, hard lines. To get the best effect in any style of hairdressing, every strand must be fluffy, lustrous and, of course, clean. In washing the hair it is not advisable to use a make-shift, but always use a preparation made for shampooing only. You can enjoy the best that is known for about three cents a shampoo by getting a package of canthox from your druggist; dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gives the health which insures hair growth.—Adv.

TRANSCONTINENTAL SERVICE

P. C. Staples, of Bell Telephone Company, Will Give an Interesting Talk on the Subject

P. C. Staples, publicity manager of the Bell Telephone Company, will give a talk before the Engineers' Society at the Club House, 31 South Front street, next Friday evening on "Transcontinental Telephone Service."

Mr. Staples will give the story of the inception and the carrying out of this tremendous achievement in engineering and business enterprise. As Mr. Staples has the reputation of being a very interesting talker and as he is thoroughly familiar with this project of his company from the practical and business standpoint the talk will be of great general interest.

H. Mouradian, transmission engineer of the Bell Company, will accompany Mr. Staples. He is a recognized telephone expert and as he personally had to do with the working out of many of the intricate technical problems of the coast-to-coast telephone line, he will be in a position to answer any of the technical questions that telephone and electrical engineers of the Society may want to ask him during the lecture.

The talk is a timely one as this latest development of the telephone has just been completed and has been the subject of a great deal of comment in the current news.

The spirit with which the great corporations are meeting the efforts of the Engineers' Society to disseminate information to the engineers of this State relative to the great undertakings of modern business in conjunction with the best engineering talent, is very gratifying to the Society. The lectures held at the Society's Club House this year have been of exceptional worth and are indicative of what this Society is doing for the industrial and engineering interests of Pennsylvania and of Harrisburg in particular.

VOILE A FAVORED SPRING FABRIC

Trimmings of Worsted Embroidery on Tulle and Chiffon—Black Very Popular

New York, March 8.

The last month has proven that Paris is not napping. The couturiers have supplied fashions for the waiting Americans despite depressed conditions, and their openings have been almost as gay as ever. I say almost, for one cannot get over the atmosphere of grief which enters the place when one sees the suppressed sorrow on the face of a saleswoman or model. The mannequins themselves are not less gay, but it is often a forced gaiety.

The gowns show less change than hitherto, but what they lack in variety they make up in artistry. The couturiers have had no heart for the bizarre, and therefore have improved upon what they had.

The Franco-Prussian war closed a period noted for its extravagance in dress, and following was a time of severity and plainness which was felt over the entire civilized world. To-day has seen another period of extravagance closed by the world-wide war, and we are now entering upon another period which bids fair to be one of naturalness and simplicity, and a turning from the Orientalism, which brought in the lampshade tunics and the Turkish styles of a few seasons back.

The Paris openings show that voile, wool, silk, or cotton is used a great deal in the development of the new gowns. There are separate waists also made of it, usually in sand or putty colors. They

The waists of thin fabrics are by far smarter than those made of heavier fabrics. Chiffon and a voile which is warranted indestructible and looks more like chiffon than voile, but with the latter's durability, is used a great deal for these waists, even of the simplest and plainest styles.

Beneath these waists are worn corset covers of plain white, flesh-colored, or pink tulle scalloped at the top and buttoned down the front. Beige and sand-colored tulle is also used, to be worn under white chiffon or voile.

In my illustration is shown a dress of tan voile. The bolero effect in the waist is made of an irregular checked voile in dull shades of red, yellow and brown. The full skirt is untrimmed.

Voile and other fabrics are being sold with borders in contrasting colors. This helps in the trimming scheme, as it usually needs nothing else to make the dress complete.

A serviceable dress on trim new lines is shown in my second illustration. The

GOT A SURPRISE.

He Expected to Be Quite Conspicuous, but Found Himself Ignored.

"Say," said the man who takes himself seriously, "I had a great surprise thrust upon me when I went down to get my marriage license last month. When I think it over I am ready to assert that it was a disagreeable surprise.

"I sneaked into the big office under the impression that everybody was watching me. But when I told the clerk at the window what I wanted he took the information with a coolness that was almost disgusting. When I gave him my name—which seemed to me to reverberate like thunder—not a solitary clerk raised his head. And nobody laughed when the inquisitor asked me how I spelled it. When I gave the lady's name and fancied everybody would titter the only sound I could hear was the turning of record leaves and the muddled clicking of a distant typewriter.

"Why, they couldn't have treated me with more indifference if I had been buying marriage licenses twice a day for ten years.

"I went into that office feeling ashamed and sensitive and sneaking.

"I came out hurt, humiliated, humbled.

"I had expected to be ridiculed—I was absolutely ignored."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Starting the Silver Set

Choosing a design in Silverware which delights you because of its beauty and artistic merit, and then adding pieces as circumstances permit until the Set is complete, affords great pleasure to every woman who appreciates beautiful tableware.

In evening frocks is made with flounces of white tulle edged with pink worsted embroidery. It is unusual, to say the least, and very effective. This worsted embroidery is used on chiffon, net, silk and voile. Silk frocks have embroidered flowers at the waist, on the end of sashes, as a border to a hem. A blue frock which I have recently seen had a fringe around the bottom of yellow-and-blue crewel fringe.

In Europe mourning veils; it is seldom that one goes upon the street in Paris, or London, or Berlin without passing more people in black, or black and white, than in any other color. This, of course, causes black and white to be favored here. The new silks show stripes of black and of white, with a white flower thrown in relief against the stripes. Black suits are made with vests of wide-striped silk.

Checks and stripes play a large part in the trimming of many of the Spring gowns. A stunning suit which I saw not long ago of blue voile was made entirely over a blue-and-white check silk, the checks being almost an inch square. A frock of black chiffon was made over a flounced underskirt which had each ruffle finished with a band of striped black-and-white silk an inch and a half deep, the stripes running up and down.

Children's frocks change much less in comparison with the styles of their elders, but this Spring finds the short-waisted frocks much more popular than the long-waisted ones, although the latter have not become passé by any manner of means. The short-waisted frocks are very becoming to the small child and to the petite girl, but for the tall, or very plump child the long-waisted models are much more becoming.

The Dutch styles are very much the vogue for the small girl. These have plain, but full skirts, usually of one color and blouses of white, very short; the skirts are usually fastened to the waists with large buttons. These have been called the "Florence Donkey" dresses—probably because some enterprising wholesaler wanted to get a Dickens' name for a small girl to correspond with the boy's "Oliver Twist" suit.

Male Chorus Entertains

Last evening the Stevens Memorial male chorus entertained the members of the church choir, their wives, husbands and friends in the social parlors of the Stevens Memorial Methodist church. Carl Heefner, the president of the male chorus, was the master of ceremonies, and the committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of Frank S. Bealor, M. M. Tawney and Charles M. Storey.

After an informal reception had been tendered the ladies of the choir by their hosts, the following program was presented:

Singing of old-time melodies by the combined musical organizations, under the direction of George W. Sweigert.

Song by the male chorus, Mr. Sweigert directing.

Singing of "Schmitzbank," the popular German melody, E. B. Luigard directing.

Impersonation sketch, "Uncle Josh From Pumpkinville," by George Ebersole, with F. S. Bealor as stage manager and scene-shifter.

Song by the male chorus.

Then followed a singing school session, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Heefner, the director of the church choir, in which the singers were initiated into the mysteries
