COLONEL CROOK, INTIMATE OF MANY PRESIDENTS, DIES. Was Abraham Lincoln's Body Guard and Since Then a White House Employee Close to Twelve Executives—Sick Only a Short Time. By Associated Press. Washington, March 13.—Colonel W. H. Crook, disbursing officer of the White House, who was President Lincoln's body guard and who has been intimately acquainted with every President since 1860, died to-day at his home here. He had been sick with pneumonia for more than a week. Fifty years of service as a White House employe, through the administrations of twelve Presidents, made Colonel William H. Crook one of the most familiar figures in the national capital, and in his old age left him rich in personal reminiscences of the intimate side of White House life. The assassinations of Lincoln and Garfield, various weddings at the White House, and the impeachment of President Johnson, were among numerous events which Colonel Crook recalled in memoirs of his half-century of White House service. Was Lincoln's Body Guard He was taken from the Washington police force in 1865 and appointed President Lincoln's body guard. Prior to this he had served in the Union Army. He accompanied Lincoln on many of his walks and drives, and it was his duty to watch over the President during public receptions. Colonel Crook told often of how, on the afternoon before Lincoln's assassination, the President had come to him in confidence and said that on three successive nights he had had dreams which foretold his murder. Crook thereupon begged the President not to go to the theatre that evening, as planned. Lincoln insisted, and furthermore would not hear of Crook accompanying him. He ordered Crook to go home and rest. As they parted, Lincoln failed to say "Good Night," the only time he ever failed to say it, said Crook. Would Have Stopped Assassin Colonel Crook also always maintained that the substitute guard that night became interested in the play and left his post of duty, and that if he himself had been present, Booth would never have entered the theatre-box to shoot Lincoln. It was Colonel Crook, who, during the next administration, carried to President Johnson the first news of his acquittal on impeachment charges. He served as Johnson's bodyguard, and on the day the verdict was expected he was on hand. When he was told the news he ran all the way from the Capitol to the White House. The President's eyes filled with tears, and he gulped when Colonel Crook burst in with the tidings, later thanking him warmly for his trouble. Close to President Grant Colonel Crook was unusually close to President Grant and the members of his family, and in 1870 he was appointed "executive clerk to the President of the United States." Later, in 1877, President Grant made him his disbursing officer of the White House, the position he held during the succeeding administrations. It was during the Grant administration that he at the White House began to be more ceremonial. Colonel Crook told how he drove Guitau, President Garfield's assassin, away from the White House on occasions before he finally succeeded in killing the President. Guitau had been accustomed to go into the reception room, ask after the health of the President, stay a short time and leave. He became obnoxious one day, and orders were given to keep him away. On the morning of the assassination the man returned to ask about the President's health, and Crook was worried when he heard of the affair. The President was not told of his fears however, and in one of his books of White House memories Crook tells how he found Garfield turning hand springs with his sons that morning. Gave Garfield Squirrel Soup Crook was in one of the White House windows when Garfield was brought back after being shot. The President was conscious and waved his hand to a group of White House employes. Warren S. Young, another veteran White House employe, and friend of Crook, was with Garfield when he died, and gave the first announcement to the world. While the President was still hovering between life and death Crook heard that he would be helped by some squirrel soup, so he obtained a special permit, shot some squirrels, and supplied the soup. Colonel Crook saw five White House marriages. He collected letters and other mementos of the various Presidents under whom he served, including notes from all the Presidents who spoke in the highest terms of his faithfulness and abilities. On the occasion of his 50th anniversary of entering the White House service, which he celebrated in January, 1915, he was presented with a beautiful case, given by President Wilson and members of the White House staff.

ORDINANCE AND MERCHANTS COMMITTEES HELD MEETING. An Increase in License Fees From $5 to $20 Will Be Recommended at Next Meeting of Borough Council—Agreement Decided on Last Night. A joint meeting of a committee from the Merchants' Association and the ordinance committee of Council was held last evening in the effort to arrive at a mutual understanding on increasing the borough license fees to hucksters and peddlers, an advance in rates having been agitated by members of the local Merchants' Association which presented a petition to Council Monday evening containing the names of twenty-seven merchants who advocated the advance for the protection of all resident merchants and business men. After carefully scrutinizing the Harrisburg ordinance covering the granting of licenses to hucksters and others, it was decided to recommend an increase of from $5 to $20 in yearly license and to eliminate a daily license fee of 50 cents. The fee charged by Harrisburg is $100 per year and the $20 rate for the borough was arrived at by making a comparison of the difference in the population of the borough and city. The matter will be presented to Council at its next meeting. Those who took part in last night's meeting were the ordinance committee of Council composed of Kirk Shelley, Amos Zimmerman and M. F. Harlan and the Merchants' Association committee composed of B. F. McNear, Jr., G. M. Long, Lewis Lehrman and Ralph Eckels.

SINKING OF THE FRYE DEFENDED

Continued From First Page. tial in accordance with international law, because of the present status of the Declaration of London. "We do not intend," he said, "to disregard any of the judicial niceties in the case." Two of Frye Crew Detained Newport News, Va., March 13.—Washington officials have been asked by the customs authorities here to consider the case of two of the crew of the Frye, who were on the Prinz Eitel. It has developed that the two men who at first were said to have enlisted in the German navy, have been detained by order of Commander Theichrichsen on the ground that they were German citizens and still subject to service under German arms. Collector Hamilton said the matter had been reported and that he was awaiting instructions. The men detained are Charles Frank and Robert Rogge. Captain Kiehn, of the Frye, told officials here he did not believe they were naturalized American citizens and that they had not protested to him when detained. Notwithstanding that, it was said, representations had been made in their behalf by American citizens. British Warships Lurking Near Further word that British cruisers are lurking off the Virginia Capes was brought here to-day by the crew of the British steamer Anglo Patagonian from England, which has arrived here for horses. They declared that five warships had been spoken to within varying distances off the coast, as they approached. A representative of the Campaigne Generale Transatlantique, owners of the sunken French liner, Florida, from which passengers were taken by the Eitel, arrived here to-day to look after the situation. The French company, it is declared, will transport the ineligible aliens to New York and will later convey them to South American ports to which they were destined. Searchlights Seen at Coast Town Norfolk, Va., March 13.—The Cape Henry Marine Observer reported to-day that a three-stack cruiser, nationality unknown, had lain about 12 miles off shore from yesterday afternoon until 6.30 this morning when she departed. Residents of Virginia Beach say two cruisers, supposed to be British, were off that resort last night using their searchlights. Crews of Sunken Ships Complains New York, March 13.—Crews of four ships sunk by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich here to-day, waiting for transportation to France, agreed that, while the Germans had not treated them badly, the condition surrounding the prisoners aboard the German converted cruiser might have been better. The captains and twenty-five officers of these ships signed a written statement which said: "The officers and crews of the captured vessels were not treated harshly, but they have not been shown any consideration on the part of the Germans. The food was detestable and insufficient. The supply of water was short and salty. The healthy were compelled to live with a sick in a close, unventilated hold. This is treatment for prisoners of war, perhaps, but it is not loyal." "In the tropics we were kept below and refused fresh air and water and all the hatches except one were kept closed. In the northern latitudes everything was thrown open and as we had no stoves, we nearly froze to death." The party includes 74 men from the Florida, 24 from the Pierre Loti, 23 from the Jacobsen, all French vessels, and 13 from the Russian bark Isabel Browne. The French consul is taking care of them and preparing to send them to France on the steamship Niagara to-morrow.

The opening session of the Commission will be devoted to the consideration of the old complaint of the Philadelphia Team Owners' Protective Association against the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, that the latter does not furnish adequate station facilities at Thirteenth and Callowhill streets, Philadelphia. This matter has been the subject of controversy for a long time, and it is expected, will be settled at this meeting.

SUNKIST ORANGE RECIPES

Remove all skin from two grapefruit and three Sunkist Oranges and cut into uniform slices across the fruit, and then into halves. Drain juice from a small can of pineapple and cut slices also in halves. Make individual nests of shredded lettuce on serving plates, place two sections of grapefruit in center, with the curved edges together, on these two of pineapple, and above that two of orange. Place a strip of pimento down the center and a nut meat at one end, and cover all with French dressing, or serve mayonnaise separately. Sunkist Orange Pie Make pastry of one cup of flour, one-third teaspoon each of baking powder and salt, and thick cream to moisture (about one-third of a cupful if soft flour is used). Roll out quite thin, spread with two tablespoons of creamed butter, fold over, roll out again and place in either a perforated or wire pie pan. Flute the edges nicely, pour in the filling and bake in a moderately hot oven. For the filling cream three tablespoons of butter with a scant cup of sugar and add two egg yolks and one white, well beaten together. Stir in the juice and grated rind of one Sunkist Orange and the juice of half a Sunkist lemon. When the pie is done and partly cooled, cover it with a meringue of two egg whites beaten stiff and five table-spoons of fine sugar added gradually. Sift sugar over the top after spreading and bake in a slow oven about 15 minutes. Ye Old Time Orange Layer Cake Cream one-third cup of butter with a cup of sugar until very light, then beat in three eggs singly, making mixture quite smooth each time. Sift a cup of flour with half a cup of corn starch, and half teaspoon of baking powder and a little salt. Add this gradually to first mixture alternately with two-thirds of a cup of water, beating thoroughly until batter is light and smooth. Bake in two deep layer pans about twenty-five minutes. When ready to serve cover each layer with thinly sliced Sunkist Oranges well sugared and just the finished cake with powdered sugar or with grated coconut if liked. The fruit juice will soak into the cake and ruin its delicacy if it be put together long before serving time; but it is delicious when fresh. 4 KILLED IN OIL EXPLOSION Boys Playing Near Scene of the Accident Are the Victims—Four Employees Also Missing. New York, March 13.—The explosion of a large oil tank adjoining the Long Island railroad freight yard in the East New York section of Brooklyn, shortly after noon to-day, killed four boys and seriously injured seven other persons. Four men, employes of the Crew Levick Company, which owned the tank, were reported missing. The tank was partly under ground and was said to have contained 11,000 gallons of oil. The explosion shattered windows for a radius of several blocks. The four boys killed were playing nearby. Those injured were passerby in the street. The oil in the tank is believed to have been ignited by sparks from a freight engine in the railroad yard. The fire which followed burned so fiercely that the firemen were unable to get near it.
