Talk on Local Option by Mrs. Jones
Before a large audience of Stevens Memorial young people last evening, Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones spoke on the temperance question as it relates to Epworthians, and cited figures and facts that have been gleaned from the experiences of corporations like the Pennsylvania railroad and other prominent business enterprises to bear out her statements.

reason that was vitally related to a nation's or a corporation's pocketbook to make it declare for total abstinence. As an illustration, she cited the full page advertisements that appeared in all the large newspapers of the British empire at the outbreak of the present great war. These were headed "Attention!" and went on to say that it was the request of the government that, during the period throughout which the war lasted, every man should become a total abstainer. Then followed eight reasons why the government made the request: First, drink made a man's eyeight defective; second, it made him less resistant to fatigue; third, it made him more liable to disease infection, and so on throughout the list—it being the object of the British government to impress upon the soldiers that were to battle for her that drink would decrease their fighting efficiency and to just that extent lessen the total of the army's efficiency as a fighting machine.

Reference was made to the efforts now being put forth, as being hopeful signs of Pennsylvania's coming regeneration, and Mrs. Jones urged every loyal Epworthian to put forth his or her best effort to bring to pass such legislation as would put our fair State on an equal plane with those which have tried prohibition and found it to be conducive to higher morality and cleaner living on the part of the individual and to greater efficiency and prosperity in business and political circles.

HARRISBURG ELKS AND THEIR WIVES ATTEND SHOW

Feminine Members of Big Party Will Accompany Their Husbands 'Just to See the Beautiful Gowns' of 'Girls in the Cast'

The Harrisburg Elks who will go to Carlisle this evening to see the opening production of "They're At It Again," the song revue to be presented by the Carlisle Elks theatrical association, laughingly but sincerely declare that there is really no basis for this story.

The feminine members of the party, wives of the male contingent, firmly decline to be interviewed on the subject. They just want to go along because they're crazy to see the show, they say.

Be all this as it may, somehow, some where, a rumor has got abroad to the effect that a newspaper picture of one of the "pretty participants" in the play is directly responsible for the sudden interest evinced by the feminine part of to-night's party. An Elk took a paper home the other evening, so the story runs, and grinned so delightedly at the fetchingly gowned "girl" that smiled up at him from the printed page, that naturally Mrs. Elk wanted to know the whys and wherefores. Full and detailed explanation as to whom the "girl" really was fell a trifle flat. The very evening 'tis said, there was considerable phoning, the house of the dubious Elk in question, being a sort of central station as it were. Just this much of one of the wire conversations may or may not throw some light on the subject; it was only one side of the talking at that.

STRENGTH Without Overloading the Stomach

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach, but give mental vigor for the day. Much depends on the start a man gets each day as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand. He can't be alert with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast, requiring a lot of vital energy in digesting it. A Calif. business man found a food combination for producing energy. He writes: "For years I was unable to find a breakfast food that had nutrition enough to sustain a business man without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments. "Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I had about decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape-Nuts. "Since that morning I have been a new man; can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and quiet. "I find that Grape-Nuts, with a little sugar, and a small quantity cold milk, makes a delicious morning meal, which invigorates me for the day's business." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs. "There's a Reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION GOSSARD CORSETS

THREE DAYS
Monday---Tuesday---Wednesday

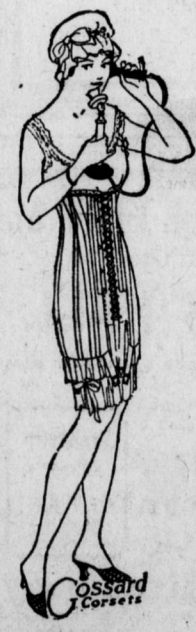

By special arrangement with the H. W. Gossard Co. we have engaged Miss Ermie Earle to assist in a special demonstration of Gossard Corsets.

There is a decided tendency toward the adoption of a smaller waist this season and a fitted bodice, with a return to the full skirt of former periods. All of this has a direct bearing on your corset. Authentic information regarding these new styles is yours for the asking during this demonstration.

You can come and be fitted to any of the newer models and make your selection at a later date, if you so desire. Whether you expect to purchase your corset at this time or not, we invite you to attend this demonstration.

Gossard Corsets range in price from $2.50 to $12.50.
