The tabernacle at Lancaster looked much the same as the one here. On the red-carneted platform Profes. looked much the same as the one here. On the red-carpeted platform Professor Spooner waved his arms and stamped his feet, the Rev. Mr. Cartwright made announcements which sounded familiar, and Dr. Stough paced to and fro and told his jokes, shouted his accessations and made his appeals. From many persons in the audience came evidences of the well-known "sawdast cough."

Dr. Stough made tew references to the Harrisburg campaign. At one point in his sermon, which he directed especially at persons in the church, he turned to the visitors and said:

"The Lancaster folks may wonder why I'm spending so much time on the church people. You will bear me out when I say that at Harrisburg I didn't spend enough of time on that class to finish them properly. Why, I didn't even get all of y ur preachers converted."

Two special trains carried the visitors to Lancaster, leaving here at 6 o'clock in the evening. The crowds at the Lancaster station of the Pennsylvania railroad were perhaps larger than any which gathered for outdoor demonstrations during the campaign in this city. The parade to the tabernacle was headed by young men supporting a five-foot basket of fifty American deauties, which was presented to the Stough party.
