YOUNG LADIES' GLEE CLUB WILL MAKE INITIAL BOW

New Musical Organization of Derry Street U. B. Church Will Appear in Concert This Evening—Miss Carl Is Director

The Young Ladies' Glee Club of the Derry Street United Brethren church will make their initial bow to the public to-night in the Assembly Hall of the church, Fifteenth and Derry streets. This musical organization gives every promise of successful career, as those who have been privileged to hear it in its preliminary work are a unit in pronouncing it the best-balanced collection of women's voices ever gathered together in this city. Miss Miriam A. Carl is director and the membership is made up of the following:

Soprano—Misses Helen Bright, Stella Ulrich, Anna Bender, Margaret Heikes, Opal McCans, Vera Harman, Kathryn Carl, Dora Kaufman, Kathleen Robinson, Mrs. C. Lawrence Shepley.

Alto—Misses Mabel Bright, Elizabeth Wilson, Eleanor Weaver, Erma Henry, Mary Hench, Miss Sylvia Drawbaugh is the pianist.

The event of their appearance will be a St. Patrick's Social given by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Derry Street church, which promises not only a high grade program but a real "Irish Surprise" in an original sketch to be presented by members of the Society. Refreshments will be served by "Irish Colleens," after which the following program will be rendered:

Selection, Christian Endeavor Girls' Glee Club; piano solo, Herbert Springer; vocal solo, Miss Helen Bright; baritone-trumpet duet, Earle E. Reen and Thomas B. Lyter; reading, Miss Kathleen Robinson; male quartet, C. Lawrence Shepley, Thomas B. Lyter, Earle E. Reen and Harry Mark; violin solo, Russell Fink; piano duet, Helen Runkel and Fay Haverstick; Irish sketch, direction of Miss Carl.

Himmelberger-Bachman
Litz, March 18.—The Rev. George B. Reazer, pastor of the Reformed church, yesterday united in marriage Miss Agnes W. Bachman and J. Roy Himmelberger, with the ring ceremony. They were attended by Louis Himmelberger, a brother of the bridegroom, and Miss Elizabeth Bachman, a sister of the bride. A reception followed.

PLAZA OF UNION STATION AS SCENE IN ELKS' SHOW

One of Funniest Acts of Big Entertainment Will Take Place With Station Plaza as a Scenic Setting—Seat Sale Very Large

Union station plaza with its waiting taxis and cabs and autos and newsboys and hurrying travelers—it is all to be moved over to the majestic theatre for a forty-eight hour stay to-morrow evening, figuratively speaking, via some hundreds of yards of painted canvas.

So, when the curtain rises on the second act of "They're At It Again" to-morrow or Saturday evening and you see the old familiar scene before you, you needn't rub your eyes or think you're dreaming or-or-anything.

For the station plaza is to be the scenic setting for one of the funniest acts of the Carlisle Elks annual frolic and the great canvas that has been prepared for the purpose by one of the best painters of the country, reproduces to the most minute detail the busy scenes around the depot.

The very pole you may have felt like resting against is even there.

The final show of the big 60-man musical comedy company finished its three-night stand at Carlisle last evening and to-day the company brushed up a bit and got its things ready to move to Harrisburg. "They're At It Again" is to be produced in the majestic to-morrow and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon as well and from all indications the matinee is to be pretty nearly as popular as the evening productions. The seat sales for all three performances in fact have been unusually large.

Harrisburg Elks are planning a unanimous welcome for their brethren from down Carlisle way and the social committee of the local lodge under whose auspices the play is to be given, are finishing the details of arrangements for the coming of the Cumberland Valley guests.

By the way lest it be forgotten that "They're At It Again" is a really mighty good song revue. Maybe it wouldn't be amiss to mention that in the three acts of the play, there will be just thirty-two ballads sung by soloists or chorus.

SOAP IS BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly. If at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulford coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulford coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

GOVERNOR LISTENS 2 HOURS TO CHILD LABOR ARGUMENTS

Attends Joint Committee Meeting in Capitol in Which the Four Proposed Laws Were Discussed Favorably and Otherwise

The hall of the House of Representatives was crowded yesterday afternoon with persons interested in the disposition of the four child labor bills now before the Senate and House, the occasion being the hearing on the bills by the joint session of the Manufacturers' Committee of the House and the Judiciary Special committee of the Senate. Delegations of women were present from the child labor associations, civic clubs, women's temperance clubs and from almost every uplift organization in the State, all to urge the passage of the bill, while manufacturers and others opposed to certain features of the measures in the present shape, also were represented by speakers.

The bill hall was crowded so that every seat was taken and many stood about the Speaker's desk. During the afternoon Governor Brumbaugh was a spectator for two hours and listened with much interest to the speakers.

Chairman Cox announced that discussion of five minutes would be allowed each speaker, but this was departed from later when the time limit was taken off.

Mrs. Fredrick Schoff, president of the National Congress of Mothers and the Parent Teachers' Association, made the principal argument for the bill prepared by the Congress which permits ten hours a day, fifty-four per week, and no night work between 8 p. m. and 6 a. m., with schooling equivalent to the sixth grade, contending that by its provisions everything could be accomplished that would aid the child at work.

Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Manufacturers' Association of Pennsylvania, also favored the Woman's Congress bill of the four presented, and made a plea that the boy who wanted to work should be allowed to work under proper restrictions. Eli Atwood, of the Lebanon Chain Works, also pleaded that the boy be given a chance to work when he could stand the strain of working, and said he had entered the chain works when he was under 14 years of age.

Maurer For An 8-Hour Day
James Maurer, president of the State Federation of Labor, member of the House from Berks, asked, for the good of the boy and girl, that they not only be prevented from working more than 8 hours a day, as provided in the Phipps bill, but that they should have facilities for an education as provided in the Brumbaugh bill.

W. S. Snyder, of Pittsburgh, representing the Western Union Telegraph Company, protested that the prohibition of boys from doing night messenger service and fixing the age limit at 21 years, was unjust.

"You permit boys to enter the military service at 18," said Mr. Snyder, "Why not allow them to enter the messenger service at that age?"

Paul Furber, of the Child Labor Association, made a plea for the Phipps bill, which was prepared by him and which prohibits any child from working more than 8 hours a day or 50 per week. Mr. Furber was plied with many questions by the members of the committee, but he answered all promptly and evidently had loaded up with statistics before attending the meeting.

To Be Another Hearing
J. S. Maginnis, a Girardville lawyer, who said he represented the mothers with large families and the working boy, made a long address in which he cited numerous instances of hardship resulting from boys being forbidden to work to help their mothers after the father had been killed in the mines.

The joint committee will hold another session before taking action on the bills.

YOUNG SHAKESPEREAN STAR

Phyllis Neilson-Terry Already Has Won Distinction in Important Roles

Phyllis Neilson-Terry, the English actress who is playing the title role in "The Adventure of Lady Ursula" at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York City, is perhaps the youngest star on the stage in any country. Miss Neilson-Terry already has achieved distinction in many of the important Shakespearian roles and as the Lady Ursula Barrington in Anthony Hope's romantic comedy of the eighteenth century, she is wholesome comedy to be admirably suited to her talents.

Since the retirement of her aunt, Ellen Terry, Julia Marlowe, Harry Anderson, Viola Allen and others who have won enviable positions, the stage has had few actresses of note endowed with the personal appearance and physique as well as histrionic ability to portray classic impersonations. Henrietta Crossman, Margaret Anglin and other stars of the American stage have played roles similar to that of the Lady Ursula, but they are now showing their talents in more mature parts. Miss Neilson-Terry has the youth, buoyancy and comeliness to fill the vacant place on the American stage.

In presenting "The Adventure of Lady Ursula," Joseph Brooks has offered Miss Neilson-Terry in a clean and wholesome comedy of the sort which met with great favor fifteen or twenty years ago. It is far removed from the present day trend to sensational and sex plays.

For next season Mr. Brooks has in view revivals of many of the plays in which Miss Neilson-Terry achieved notable success, particularly "The School for Scandal."

Character Shown by the Nose

"Here is an article in the paper that says a woman's character can be determined by her nose."

"Well, there may be something in that, but there's a surer way. No one can make a mistake concerning a woman's character if he will look at the noses of other women who meet her. The extent to which they turn up at such times shows just what she is or isn't."—Exchange.

Food and the Human Body
The chemical composition of the human body and of the food we take is quite similar. About twenty elements are found chiefly, with a trace of others. Oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus and sulphur are the chief. Sixty per cent. of our bodies is water, and probably a like percentage exists in our food. Mineral matter exists in our food and in our bodies to about 6 per cent. of weight. "Eating to Live."

ACTION OF SINGLE SPOONFUL SURPRISES MANY

Here's Your Pound of Coffee, Madam!

Here's Your 100 Grains of Caffeine' Doctor!

Same Drug--Different Form

More and more, it is becoming common knowledge that an ordinary cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine, an irritating drug.

Because of this drug, coffee drinking frequently races the heart, interferes with digestion, upsets the nerves, and leaves one weakened and depressed. As a drug, caffeine has medicinal value, but only when administered by a competent physician.

If constant use of coffee, with its drug content, agrees with you, why—keep right on—no one should object.

But—thousands of people have rid themselves of coffee troubles, and experienced wonderful improvement in health by changing to —the pure food-drink.

Postum is made of wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses. It has a fine, snappy flavour much like that of Old Gov't Java, but contains no caffeine or any other harmful substance.

Postum now comes in two forms: Postum Cereal, which has to be boiled, 15c and 25c packages; Instant Postum, a concentrated, soluble form, made in the cup instantly, with hot water, 30c and 50c tins. A delightful beverage either way, and cost per cup is about the same.
