Big Removal Sale Of Stieff Pianos

As announced several days ago, the present Stieff piano store will be torn away, beginning April 1, to make way for the largest exclusive piano house in Central Pennsylvania.

We find it impossible to secure a large display room in a central location, and it is imperative that our surplus stock be sold before the end of

To clear our warerooms, we have decided to conduct a Big Removal Sale beginning at once and continuing until March 31.

This sale means the greatest piano buying opportunity offered in Harrisburg in many years. Every piano and player piano in the store will

Our parlors are heavily stocked with Stieff and Shaw pianos and players such as give the buyer "that satisfied" feeling.

The Stieff and the Shaw combine a structural beauty and a perfection of finish that is distinctly unique. But away and beyond their unchallenged excellence in material, workmanship and design, is their exquisite tonal qualities.

Don't forget the sale lasts only until March 31. Once in our temporary quarters prices will be as

In addition to our regular stock, we have on hand a number of instruments of standard makes which we will sell during the Removal Sale at exceptional prices. Some of these opportunities

Nature's Processes Play a Large Part in the Operation

Few people have any idea of the wonderful process by which wounds heal. Stitching, dressing, etc., are important operations, but none of them can make good the damage or replace the loss of tissue in a wound. This is the work of our good friends in the blood, the white corpuseles, the "seavengers," so called because they destroy disease germs.

When a wound is made, a bone broken, a nerve torn, etc., it is chiefly by these corpuseles finding their way out of the blood vessels into the surrounding tissues that the injuries by bullet or bayonet are repaired. The union of broken bones, nerves, skin, etc., is effected by the company of the company of the company of the surrounding tissues that the injuries by bullet or bayonet are repaired.
