TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIA REPRODUCED IN MINIATURE

Pennsylvania's exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition has been dedicated by ex-Governor Tener and members of the committee, delegated by Governor Brumbaugh, to represent the Commonwealth.

In addition to the beautiful building which is now open to welcome all the visitors from this State and the sons and daughters from Pennsylvania who have immigrated elsewhere, there will be exhibits of our various manufactures and industries.

There will, however, be but one official exhibit made by the State government and that will be shown in the Palace of Social Economy. The direct influence of this exposition desired that each State make an exhibit of those things in which it particularly excelled, and as Pennsylvania has for years been a leader in public health work it was decided that our exhibit be along these lines.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, was asked by the Pennsylvania Panama-Pacific Commission to undertake the problem of visualizing the various activities of the Department of Health in order that visitors from the United States and from other lands might learn from what they saw of its manifold duties. So for several months past, workmen have been busily engaged in reproducing in miniature the three great tuberculosis sanatoria. Typographical maps showing the cause of typhoid epidemics, miniature school rooms and other models to display the advanced methods of securing hygienic conditions in our schools and the score of other maps, models and charts to show physicians, sanitarians, sociological workers and thousands of laymen who are interested in the general advancement of public health work, what has been accomplished in the State. The reduction of 75 per cent. in typhoid fever and the saving of more than seventy thousand lives in ten years since the creation of the Department of Health, all go to make up one of the most interesting and instructive exhibits of the kind which has ever been gotten together.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Is Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, oil nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Adv.

MRS. ANGLE NOT GUILTY

Woman Charged With Killing Waldo R. Ballou Freed by Jury

Bridgeport, Conn., March 20.—"Not guilty" was the verdict yesterday of the jury in the trial for manslaughter of Mrs. Helen M. Angle.

A scene of disorder strange to a Connecticut court followed the announcement of the jury. A cheer broke out in the rear of the room, in which the voices of many women were heard. Judge William H. Williams looked up in surprise to give a reprimand when there arose a shriek that drowned out all other sounds and the reprimand was interrupted. Mrs. Angle, who was standing before her chair, threw up her hands at the shriek and sank to the floor in utter collapse.

The hysterical sobbing of the woman who had now been cleared of blame for the death of Waldo R. Ballou was heard out in the corridors of the building. Her father and her lawyers gathered about her and vainly tried to soothe her.

Later, Mrs. Angle was taken out of the court building and escorted to the railroad station. She was very weak and had to be supported. The street was black with humanity when she left the court house, and a crowd followed her and her father to the railroad station.

"Thank heaven it is over with!" exclaimed her father when asked if he had anything to say. "Nine months of this agony is surely enough."

WHITE SLAVE PLOT BARED

State Troopers Unearth Operations of Gang in Schuylkill County

Pottsville, Pa., March 20.—Culminating in the arrest of Bernard Martz, of Minersville, State troopers yesterday unearthed the operations of a "white slave" gang which, it is alleged, has been enticing young girls away from Schuylkill county to other cities.

Later developments, following the arrest of Martz, gave the authorities clues to the location of at least two young girls. Mary Laychock, 15 years old, of Minersville, who disappeared on March 9, was one of the victims of the gang. Another girl, who mysteriously disappeared over night, is another victim.

State Trooper Keeley arrested Martz yesterday morning and he was committed to jail after a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. J. Flynn. Martz made a partial confession and the girls were traced to a resort in Atlantic City.
