EXHAUST MANIFOLD BIG FEATURE AT REO EXHIBIT

Tests On New Device Proves An Added Horse Power of 27 7-10 Per Cent. With 18 Per Cent. Less Gasoline

One of the greatest features exhibited at the Arena show in the Reo exhibit is the double exhaust manifold. The large majority of the general public do not fully realize the importance that this double exhaust manifold is to the modern automobile. The exhaustive tests made by the Continental motor works, the largest automobile motor works in the world, and the Stromberg Carouretor Company, to determine accurately the exact difference made in the developed horse power between a car equipped with a double exhaust manifold and those equipped with the old type of single exhaust, are very interesting. These exhaustive tests were completed this week and it was positively proven beyond a doubt that the added horse power to a car equipped with a double exhaust manifold was 27 7-10 per cent. and that the gasoline consumption to produce this added horse power was 18 per cent. less than is used with the old type of manifold.

This manifold feature as equipped on both the four and six cylinder Reo puts the car far ahead of the general line of automobiles and is another proof positive that the Reo Motor Car Company are not only up to ever other car but in a great many cases have beaten the other fellows to it. Their exclusive steering gear, one that is just as safe after five years of service, is another exclusive feature.

In the Reo are embodied a lot of expensive features in construction that are not duplicated in any car under two thousand dollars. The Reo drive pinion is made out of a solid billet of steel. The strain on both ends being carried by two Timken bearings all in a space of about six inches. Ordinarily the pinion is set separately and keyed to the shaft. An unusual strain frequently shears off the pin leaving the driver helpless. In Reo construction this important part is made out of one piece of steel, positively eliminating any danger of any breaking from the most extraordinary strain. This and dozens of other features have made the Reo car so strong and sturdy that the old 1910's are still giving active service. All these and many others can be seen in the fine cabinet of parts that is displayed at the show.—Adv.

IS COLLECTING EVIDENCE AGAINST BUTTER DEALERS

City Sealer of Weights and Measures Reel Warns Farmers to Acquaint Themselves With Laws Concerning Goods in Packages

Dealers and farmers who attend the city markets would do well to acquaint themselves with the laws governing the sale of commodities in package form, since City Sealer of Weights and Measures Reel is collecting evidence which will be used against those who do not comply with the requirements of the law. This applies especially to those who sell butter in pound prints and lard in pound packages.

The consumer should refuse to accept a package of any commodity unless it is plainly marked on the outside with the net weight of the contents. The dealer, whether he be from this city or from the country, must see that his goods are marked to comply with the law, as follows:

"If in package form, the quantity of the contents shall be plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package in terms of weight, measure or numerical count."

"The penalty for the first offense is not more than $25, for the second offense not less than $25 nor more than $100 and for the third and each subsequent offense not less than $100 nor more than $250."

The words "if in package form" mean that if commodity of any kind is placed in a box, basket or container it becomes a package and must have the quantity of the contents marked as provided by the law of 1913.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, FAMOUS HISTORIAN, DEAD

Widely-known Publicist, in His 80th Year, Succumbs to Attack of Grip at His Winter Residence in Washington, D. C.

By Associated Press.
Lincoln, Mass., March 20.—Charles Francis Adams died at 2 o'clock this morning at his winter residence, 1701 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, D. C. He had been ill with the grip for a week. Word of his death was received at his home here this forenoon.

Charles Francis Adams was widely known as a publicist and historian. He was a great-grandson of President John Adams, a grandson of President John Quincy Adams and a son of Charles Francis Adams, Minister to Great Britain in the Civil War period. A biography of his father, which included a review of the diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Great Britain over Civil War problems, was one of Mr. Adams' most notable books.

Veteran of the Civil War
Born in Boston May 27, 1835, and graduated from Harvard in 1856, he was admitted to the Massachusetts bar two years after leaving college. He served in the Union army throughout the Civil War, rising in rank from first lieutenant to colonel and brevet brigadier general of volunteers. After the war he was identified with railroad affairs for many years, serving for six years as president of the Union Pacific railroad and for ten years as a member of the Massachusetts Board of Railroad Commissioners. He was chairman of the commission which planned the metropolitan park system in and about Boston.

Independent in Politics
Never seeking public office, Mr. Adams took an active part, as an independent, in political affairs through his writings and speeches. His addresses in Chicago, in 1902, when he gave high praise to General Robert E. Lee and suggested the erection of a monument to Lee at Washington, and at Richmond, in 1908, when, as an "Independent Democrat," he urged the election of Taft over Bryan, attracted wide attention.

Mr. Adams was a member of the board of overseers of Harvard University for more than twenty years. In 1913 he lectured at Oxford on American history. He was the author of numerous books on railroads and on various phases of American history, and was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

A CHARGE OF BERSAGLIERI, "THE BLACK DEVILS OF THE ITALIAN ARMY"

A CHARGE OF THE ITALIAN BERSAGLIERI
In this drawing is shown the famous Bersagliere of the Italian army. The Bersagliere are sharpshooters and were first organized in the Sardinian army in 1836. The manoeuvres of the corps are nearly always made in the mountains to develop the most difficult movements. Their extraordinary agility earned them at one time the name of "The Black Devils of the Italian Army." This picture, drawn especially for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere, represents a charge. When the colonel gives the command, "Charge!" the officers and soldiers rush to the charge, yelling like devils the word, "Savioia!" which, taken up by a thousand voices, fills the soldiers with the most extraordinary enthusiasm.
